LASH 'VOTE PRIMING' SCHEME

TVA DIRECTORS DENY CHARGES OF DR. MORGAN

Accuse Ousted Chief of Sabotage.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 26.—[Special.]—Denials of all charges of dishonest management, made against them by Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, ousted chairman of the Tennessee Valley authority, were voiced before a congressional committee today by the new chairman, Harcourt A. Morgan, and his fellow director, David E. Lilienthal.

In a counterattack Lilienthal assailed Dr. Morgan in discussing the recent trial of litigation involving the constitutionality of the TVA, in which the authority was a defendant against eighteen private utilities.

Charges Trial Tampering.

"The documented record of Arthur Morgan's conduct in this matter is discreditable," he told the committee. "It is a record which suggests that he was seeking to find a way to secure a judicial decision against his own agency. It is a record of tampering with prospective witnesses for the government and of obstructing and harassing counsel and witnesses in the very heat of the trial of a crucial constitutional case."

Lilienthal offered the file of the case and asserted that the committee would conclude, after examining it, that Dr. Morgan's conduct "was gravely prejudicial to the vital interests of the authority and was violative of the elementary standards which should govern the conduct of public officials and individuals in private life alike."

Lilienthal Charges Sabotage.

"If Dr. Morgan merely had failed to help the authority to win the case upon which its very existence depended," Lilienthal said, "no great harm would have been done. But he was not content with withholding his support. He entered upon a campaign affirmatively to obstruct and sabotage the conduct of the government's case and harass the attorneys in charge. If his conduct did not have fatal consequences it was not his fault."

Dr. Morgan was granted permission by the committee to file an answer in rebuttal to Lilienthal's charge.

"It was a rather remarkable statement, to say the least," he told reporters, "and inaccurate, to put it mildly. I will have a complete answer when I am given access to the TVA records."

Committee to Make Own Inquiry.

The two day hearing thus ended with the ten man committee in possession of 100,000 words of testimony which it must sift for the truth concerning the conduct of the administration's vast social experiment.

Somewhat bewildered by the claims and counterclaims presented by the trio which directed the affairs of the TVA for five years, the five senators and five representatives who heard the evidence came to a unanimous conclusion: They must do their own investigating to get to the bottom of what they agreed was a sorry state of affairs.

The committee yesterday had heard Dr. Morgan make his charges of mismanagement, conspiracy, and deceit, and support them with facts. Today it heard Harcourt Morgan and Lilienthal ridicule the deposed chairman's accusations and cite other facts in behalf of their side of the case. It will be the committee's job to ascertain which of the three is telling the truth.

Libel Suits Intimated.

The two directors, who are backed by President Roosevelt, made much of the fact that Dr. Morgan yesterday absolved them of personal corruption. They told the committee that Dr. Morgan had created a widespread impression that they had taken bribes or stolen money. They intimated that they might sue their attacker for libel because of his statements.

Harcourt Morgan, former president of the University of Tennessee, declared in a voice throbbing with emotion that the charges constituted the "most painful experience I have suffered in nearly forty years of connection with public undertakings."

Lilienthal assailed his former colleague.

Attack Unfair, Says Lilienthal.

"I doubt," he said, "if in all the records of American public life there can be found another instance of such

115 ARE INJURED IN C. I. O. RIOTS IN TWO CITIES

C. I. O. strike violence flared in two cities yesterday and early today. At Akron, O., at least sixty persons were injured, some seriously, when seventy-five policemen shortly after midnight charged 4,000 members of the United Rubber Workers' union and sympathizers at the gates of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company plant, where the C. I. O. affiliate had called a strike two hours earlier.

At Detroit, Mich., fifty-five persons, including fourteen policemen, were injured in a clash yesterday afternoon between C. I. O. beligerents and peace officers at the strike besieged plant of the American Brass company. The casualties were the immediate toll of a battle between 175 policemen and 600 pickets.

ROUT 4,000 WITH GAS

Akron, O., May 27 [Friday].—(AP)—Police clubs, tear gas, and nauseating gas repulsed 4,000 pickets and sympathizers massed at the gates of Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, early today.

At least 60 men and women were injured.

Police Chief Rae Williams was reported to have requested the sherif's office to ask for National Guard assistance.

However, Adjt. Gen. Emil Marx of the Ohio National Guard said no troops had been ordered into Akron.

The attack went on for several hours after its outbreak at the midnight changing of shifts, but the crowd gradually dwindled until only 100 remained a block from the plant—held there by a line of policemen, rifles in hand.

Hundreds of Shells Exploded.

Hundreds of tear gas shells exploded into the night, and police made a virtual "war zone" of the area about the plant gates.

The police attack took place after the crowd had moved upon policemen guarding the gates in the wake of a strike declaration by the United Rubber Workers. The union declared it had "got nowhere" in negotiations with the company over grievances. A Goodyear spokesman said the company was ready to negotiate.

Pickets had formed a two deep chain two blocks long to prevent the midnight shift of workers from going to their jobs. Police were keeping the gates open so that the shifts might change.

Human Chain Advances.

Shortly after midnight the human chain advanced upon the 75 policemen at the gates.

"Clean 'em out!" a police lieutenant cried.

The policemen advanced on the crowd with tear gas and billies. At least ten of the crowd went down under the club attack. The remainder of the crowd broke under the tear gas onslaught and fled with eyes streaming. One man was struck by a stone.

Ambulances rushed to the scene of the rioting and City hospital sent out a call for extra nurses and internes. Several of those taken to the hospital had head injuries.

Later a squad of eight policemen sped to the hall of the Goodyear union local to right a police safety car which had been overturned by the crowd. Rocks flew at the policemen and the latter retaliated with tear gas, clearing the hall.

Knock Down, Kick Officer.

One policeman was struck by a rock and another was knocked down and kicked.

Police Captain Sam Williams, in charge of police at the scene, telephoned headquarters for "all available ammunition."

Observers said few of the midnight shift had gone into the plant before the fighting started. A minor skirmish had occurred shortly before midnight when the company moved trucks out of the company's plants No. 2 and 3 nearby under police protection.

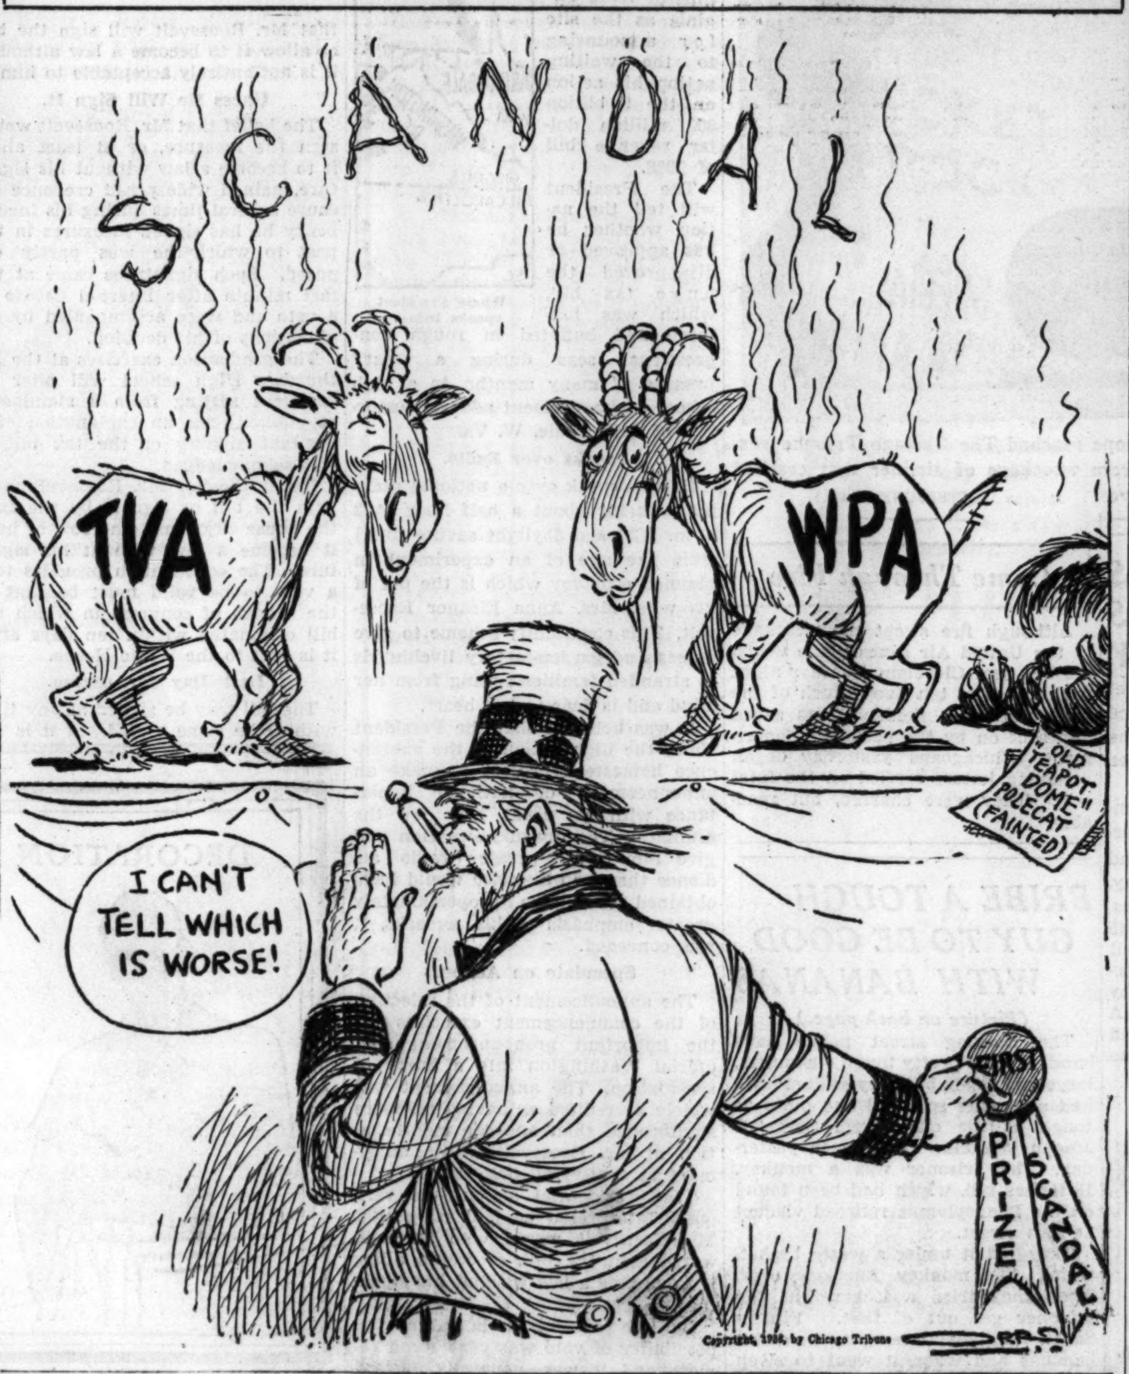
MUST BE SOME SORT OF A CONTEST



John Oglesby, Ex-Lieutenant Governor, Dies

Springfield, Ill., May 26.—[Special.]—John G. Oglesby, twice lieutenant governor of Illinois and veteran Republican political leader, died at his home in nearby Elkhart at 4:35 p. m. today.

J. G. Oglesby.

Mrs. Oglesby and Mrs. William Drake, a niece living in Elkhart, were at his bedside. Mr. Oglesby had not regained consciousness since his arrival late yesterday from Chicago, where he had been receiving treatment in a hospital for a complication of ailments.

Son of U. S. Senator.

John Gillett Oglesby, son of Richard J. Oglesby, three times governor of Illinois after the civil war and once United States senator, was born in Decatur, Ill., March 19, 1878. He attended Adams academy, Quincy, Mass., and St. Mark's school, Southboro, Mass., and was a student at Harvard when the Spanish-American war began. He left Harvard in his sophomore year and organized Troop K, First Illinois cavalry, of which he was captain until the war ended.

After being in the employ of the Republic Iron and Steel company, East Chicago, and serving as private secretary to Gov. Richard Yates, son of Illinois civil war governor, he was elected state representative from the 28th district in 1904 and reëlected in 1906.

In 1908 he was elected lieutenant governor under Gov. Charles S. Deneen, and was renominated in 1912, although he lost to his Democratic opponent in November. He won the post again in 1916, however, with a plurality of 137,286.

Loses to Len Small.

In 1920, when Gov. Frank O. Lowden refused to run a second time for governor, Oglesby sought the gubernatorial nomination, losing by a slim margin to Len Small.

Since 1920 he had spent most of his time on his 6,000 acre estate, Oglehurst, near Elkhart, part of 20,000 acres handed down by his maternal grandfather, John D. Gillett. The estate is on a high hill about twenty miles north of Springfield.

In 1929 he married Mrs. Augusta Carroll of Springfield, widow of Charles V. B. Carroll. Mrs. Carroll, like Oglesby, came of a pioneer Illinois family.

Funeral arrangements had not been made tonight.

LEARNS EATING IS FUN AT 60 AND WILL DELVE INTO HIS $2,900 HOARD

Frank Sisek, who was wearing $900 pinned to the inner one of his three suits of underwear when he collapsed from hunger in Waukegan on Wednesday, explained yesterday:

Temporarily out of a job, he cut down on his meals to economize lest he spend all his $900 and have to dip into the $2,000 he had in a building and loan association.

Mr. Sisek, who is 60 years old, lives at 210 Market street, Waukegan. After two square meals in the Lake County General hospital he loosened up his purse strings and announced that he was going to New York on a vacation.

CHICAGO STARTS ON NEW CENTURY; PROGRESS IS AIM

Chicago took official cognizance yesterday of the start of its second hundred years. Converging on the city hall, which was flag bedecked for the occasion, the Chicago consular corps and business and civic leaders were received by the New Century committee, of which Mayor Kelly is chairman.

They pledged themselves to further the aims of the New Century committee, which are to stimulate cultural, civic, and commercial activities of the city. Three pairs of pretty models, symbolizing the years 1838, 1938, and 2038, were usherettes.

Shortly before noon bells rang and whistles blew throughout the city while airplanes flew over the downtown district. Pigeons bearing greetings to San Francisco and New York, sites of next year's world's fair expositions, were released at noon.

James Roosevelt Has Small Gastric Ulcer, Clinic Finds

Rochester, Minn., May 26.—(AP)—James Roosevelt, son of the President of the United States, is suffering from a small gastric ulcer, the Mayo clinic announced today. Young Roosevelt, secretary to the President, arrived here Tuesday and left by plane this afternoon for Washington. He will return next month for further examination and treatment.

Thieves Put a New Touch Into an Old, Old Story

They were all lefts in the sample case a thief took from a loop department store yesterday, but they were gloves instead of shoes.

Two Husbands Turn Bandits on Nights Out

Two young husbands whose wives allowed them one night out a week sat in the detective bureau yesterday and confessed they spent those nights holding up street car conductors.

They didn't need the money, the husbands said. One earned $37.90 a week. The other was out of a job, but his wife earned $25 a week, and, he said, she let him drive their car. Neither could explain the bandit urge.

One is Edward Heniken, 22 years old, an innocent looking blond giant who confessed that he was almost frightened to death in every holdup. He lives at 255 North Keeler avenue with his wife, Ruth, and infant son.

One Admits Theft Term.

The other is Horace Norton, 25 years old, a meek looking little man who weighs 116 pounds and wears glasses. He lives with his wife, Clara, at 738 Briar place. Norton told the detectives he once served a year in the Bridewell on an employer's charge that he took some money. But Heniken, who said he is a graduate of the Glenbard High school in Glen Ellyn, was never in trouble before.

Asked why he became a robber, Heniken told Sergt. John Hanrahan and John Boyle, assistant state's attorney:

"I don't know. I'm just foolish. My wife gave me one night out a week and I'd go over to see Norton. I can't even tell you which of us thought of doing the robberies.

"I'd drive Norton's automobile along behind the street car. He'd hold up the conductors and then get off and get into the auto.

A Nervous Gunman.

"Last Tuesday night he said I ought to get some experience and use the gun. Half of me said yes and half of me said no. He drove. I got out and stepped aboard a street car at 29th street and Kedzie avenue. I was so nervous I meant to pay my fare, but I didn't. I took $18 and jumped off the car. In the automobile I told Norton, 'Hurry. Hurry.'"

That night Sergt. Joseph Devery and his detective squad arrested them.

Heniken said he spent his share of the robbery money on drinks, since he always turned his pay over to his wife and she gave him only $1 a week for spending money. But Norton said he took his home and gave half to his wife each time with the explanation that he'd won it in a dice game. The robbers said they held up five conductors and committed three other robberies. Three street car conductors identified the bandits last night.

Defense Wins Two Victories in Crabb Trial

BY MARCIA WINN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pekin, Ill., May 26.—[Special.]—Throughout a day of fury and tumult, James Warner Crabb II., on trial for manslaughter in Circuit court here, today lounged unmoved, his face listless, his hazel eyes bored.

By all counts he should not have been, if he were aware of what the tumult was about, for the outcome was two distinct triumphs for young Mr. Crabb. His three attorneys gloated openly, but Crabb, handsome, slow motioned son of nearby Delavan's leading banker, simply sat.

Young Crabb is on trial in the fatal shooting of pretty Betty Collison Crabb, his bride of five weeks. The tragedy occurred in the early morning of March 1 in the Delavan home of James' father, Willis Crabb, with whom the young Crabbs lived. Only a few hours before they had attended a gay party in honor of their wedding.

Document Spirited Away.

The first of today's triumphs for the defense was the spiriting away of the state's most treasured document containing details of Crabb's alleged oral confession of the shooting of Betty Crabb. The second was admission of testimony in which Mrs. S. Reau Kemp of Delavan quoted Crabb's bride as saying, two hours before her death: "Whatever happens, promise you will never tell daddy."

Seizure of the document, treasured because, as a transcript of the grand jury investigation, it contains just about the state's entire case, threw the prosecution into a state of noisy panic. Technically, the defense had no right to see it, eagerly as they wished to do so, but the sight of it came as a gift literally thrown into their eyes.

Defense Roars Objection.

Special Prosecutor John E. Cassidy was flaunting the document nonchalantly, consulting its pages, while questioning Town Marshal R. T. Burbidge, an elderly man with a fresh haircut and wearing a poppy in his lapel, as to what he did and saw the morning of Betty Crabb's death.

"Here!" suddenly roared Defense Attorney L. P. Dunkelberg. "You can't read from documents. You objected when we did yesterday—"

"But, your honor," Cassidy appealed to Judge Joseph E. Daily, "this is just——"

"Just a document!" retorted Dunkelberg.

"Look at it yourself, then," Cassidy countered, angrily hurling the thick brief across the counsel table and turning his back on it. "There's nothing in it!"

Prosecutor Loses in Chase.

Dunkelberg accepted it casually enough, but a minute later, leaning toward Defense Attorney W. J. Reardon, he whispered: "Shall I go out with this?"

"Yes, and damned quick!" Reardon replied.

And before courtroom or Cassidy were aware, the quiet, slender Dunkelberg, who once was varsity man

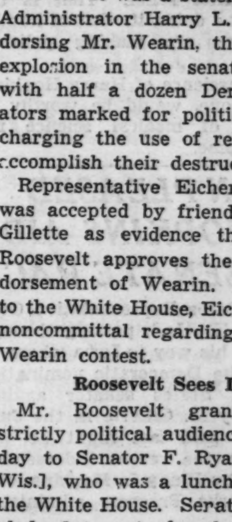
SENATORS HIT RELIEF FUND IN PRIMARY RACE

See President Fight to Beat Gillette.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 26.—[Special.]—Unanswered condemnation of the Roosevelt administration for playing politics with relief funds and interfering with Democratic primaries continued in the senate today and there were increasing demands to earmark and prevent the political juggling of the 3 billion 247 million dollar pump priming appropriation.



Otha D. Wearin practicing for 1937 hog calling contest.

President Roosevelt himself was linked with the administration's project to defeat Senator Guy M. Gillette [D., Ia.], who opposed the bill to pack the Supreme court last year, by Representative Edward C. Eicher [D., Ia.]. Mr. Eicher, when asked about the significance of his visit to the White House, replied:

"It is obvious that the surest way to support the President is to vote for Otha Wearin."

Administration Supporter.

Representative Wearin, a 100 per cent administration supporter, is a candidate for the Democratic senatorial nomination against Senator Gillette. It was a statement by WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, indorsing Mr. Wearin, that caused an explosion in the senate yesterday, with half a dozen Democratic senators marked for political slaughter charging the use of relief funds to accomplish their destruction.

Representative Eicher's statement was accepted by friends of Senator Gillette as evidence that President Roosevelt approves the Hopkins indorsement of Wearin. Before going to the White House, Eicher had been noncommittal regarding the Gillette Wearin contest.

Roosevelt Sees Duffy.

Mr. Roosevelt granted another strictly political audience during the day to Senator F. Ryan Duffy [D., Wis.], who was a luncheon guest at the White House. Senator Duffy was pledged to vote for the court packing bill, which was buried by recommittal after the death of the late Democratic leader, Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, and otherwise has been a consistent administration supporter.

He was the object of a "Dear Leo" letter from the President at Fond du Lac, Wis., last February, when the Democrats held a testimonial dinner in his honor. Mr. Roosevelt gave his letter indorsing Senator Duffy to "Dear Leo" Crowley, head of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, who took it out to Fond du Lac and read it at the dinner.

No Change, Duffy Says.

It was learned that the White House luncheon was arranged today because of reports reaching Wisconsin that the President had gone back on the "Dear Leo" letter as a result of the formation of a national third party by the La Follettes. The presence of Senator Robert M. La Follette on a recent week-end yachting trip with the President gave rise to rumors that Mr. Roosevelt was wooing the La Follettes again and might throw Duffy overboard.

After the luncheon today Senator Duffy said they discussed the Wisconsin primary situation and that there was "no change in the President's attitude toward me as expressed in his letter last February."

Holt Assails Hopkins.

In the senate today Senator Rush Holt [D., W. Va.] denounced WPA Administrator Hopkins for "sitting back with smug complacency and telling WPA workers to 'vote as you please'", and then plunging into the Iowa primary, saying "if I were there I would vote for Mr. Wearin."

"To use Hopkins' own statement, these politicians may be pretty dumb, but I don't believe there is a politician in the state of Iowa who is so dumb that he cannot understand what Mr. Hopkins meant," Holt declared.

Without mentioning any names or identifying the state, Holt read excerpts from a newspaper dispatch from Louisville, Ky., containing further sensational charges of WPA activity in behalf of Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley, the object of a "Dear Mac" letter at a testimonial dinner similar to the "Dear Leo" letter for Senator Duffy. Marvin H. McIntyre, a White House secretary, was the President's messager in the Barkley case.

The newspaper article which Holt recommended for senatorial perusal contained various affidavits charging that the WPA in Kentucky had been converted into an out-and-out political organization for Barkley. It also contained the purported text of a letter written by Senator Barkley, on his senatorial stationery, to J. N. Carter of Stanford, Ky., who had been seeking a WPA job.

"I am in receipt of a letter from Mr. Goodman [George H. Goodman, Works Progress administrator in Kentucky] of the WPA with reference to your desire for employment," said the purported Barkley letter. "I am quoting a part of this letter for your information:

Lose Interest in Him.

"'I have a file an inch or two thick on this case, Mr. Carter having been released on account of unsatisfactory service as foreman.

"'Some time back, at the request of Col. E. C. Walton, editor of the Interior Journal at Stanford, I suggested to Mr. Shaw [WPA official] that he find a position for Mr. Carter. He was preparing to do this when Col. Walton lined up with the other folks and I may say that we lost interest in the situation because Carter was not a satisfactory employé in this program.'"

The "other folks" mentioned in the letter referred to the organization headed by Gov. A. B. [Happy] Chandler, Barkley's opponent in the senatorial primary.

"Of couse there is no politics in the WPA," said Senator Holt. "There is not a man in this body who does not know that the WPA is going to be used in the state of Indiana to beat the senior senator, Mr. Van Nuys, because he was independent and honest enough to vote his convictions. There is no question about that.

Recalls Political Promises.

"Senators will remember that back during the fight over the reorganization bill the WPA rode so many projects down the center aisle of the senate that it was almost necessary to move it back. During the Supreme court fight, if they could not give one a promise of one of the six additional Supreme court judges, they would build a court house in your home town."

Holt charged that the WPA was dominated in the Pennsylvania primary by Senator Joseph F. Guffey, backer of the unsuccessful Kennedy-Wilson ticket of the C. I. O.; that the WPA was dominated in the Florida primary by Senator Claude Pepper, favorite of the administration, and that the WPA in Georgia would be used to defeat Senator Walter F. George, another foe of the court packing scheme.

WPA "Oozes Politics."

"We know these things are true," Holt said. "Harry Hopkins knows they are true. Politics oozes out of all sides of the WPA, politics not only to control local offices but to make the United States senate and the house of representatives of the United States of no more consequence than the Reichstag under Hitler.

"That is the purpose. 'Vote right and you get projects. Vote wrong and we will tell the people that you fought against relief.' That is the way they are doing it. Out of human misery they are making political gains.

"The conscience of Harry Hopkins, if he has one, would be worthy of the study of medical science for years to come."

IOWAN PLEASED BY HOPKINS AID IN SENATE RACE

United States Representative Otha D. Wearin [D., Ia.], passing through Chicago on his way to Iowa where he will seek the Democratic nomination for United States senator against Senator Guy M. Gillette in the June 6 primary, said last night he was happy over the recent indorsement given him by Harry L. Hopkins, boss of the Works Progress administration.

Wearin added that the fuss raised in the senate over the indorsement only emphasized "the volume of evidence that I am for Roosevelt."

Statements by some senators that the Hopkins indorsement was the same as a command to every WPA worker in Iowa to vote against Gillette, are presumptuous, declared Wearin.

NEIGHBOR CALLS; FINDS MAN DEAD.

Jacob Meyers, 61 years old, was found dead of heart disease last night in his apartment at 5045 North Claremont avenue when a neighbor called to visit him.

LIGHTNING PERILS FOUR; MORE RAINS EXPECTED TODAY

To enhance its record as a wet month, May possibly will produce rain today and tomorrow. That's the outlook, according to the weather forecaster.

Rain fell last night, just before sundown, the result of a brief thunderstorm that darkened the sky and caused a damaging electrical display.

Lightning struck in four places. One bolt dislodged a cornice at 5445 South Ashland avenue. Debris fell on a parked car, periling its four occupants. Another struck a chimney at 1013 North Wolcott avenue. A flagpole at 1200 Harrison street and a building at Roger avenue and the lake also were damaged.

Come Through Fire

Although fire swept the wreckage of the United Air Lines plane which crashed near Cleveland Tuesday night with a loss of ten lives, much of the mail carried in the ship was saved and sent on by the postoffice department. Chicagoans yesterday began receiving letters carried on the fatal trip. They were charred, but readable.

BRIBE A TOUGH GUY TO BE GOOD WITH BANANAS

The Deering street police have handled some pretty tough customers, large and small, but they seldom have had any quite so small and quite so tough as the one Patrol Sergeant Joseph Whitelaw brought in yesterday. The prisoner was a monkey, 18 inches tall, which had been found on the Pennsylvania railroad viaduct at 28th street.

They put it under a waste basket, which the monkey knocked over. Then they tried a locker, but the prisoner got out of that. Finally Sergt. Whitelaw bought a dozen bananas and when it went to sleep after eating these, police tied it in a sack and took it to the Anti-Cruelty society at 157 West Grand avenue.

ROOSEVELT SETS STAGE TO REVEAL TAX BILL ACTION

President Will Tell Stand at School Today.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 26.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today selected a small country schoolhouse in the foothills of West Virginia as the site for announcing to the waiting nation his action on the 5 billion 300 million dollar revenue bill of 1938.

Where President speaks today.

The President will tell the nation whether he has approved or disapproved the huge tax bill, which was battered and buffeted in rough congressional seas during a weary passage of many months, in a high school commencement address tomorrow at Arthurdale, W. Va.

Speaks over Radio.

He will speak over a national radio network for about a half hour at 2 p. m. [Chicago daylight saving time] from the site of an experiment in planned economy which is the pet of his wife, Mrs. Anna Eleanor Roosevelt. This community scheme to give homes and garden-factory livelihoods to stranded families sprang from her mind and is dear to her heart.

It was believed that the President chose the high school of the subsistence homestead project to make an announcement of national importance with his usual flair for the dramatic. The unusual situation will give him a far greater radio audience than he otherwise would have obtained and give proportionately greater emphasis to his remarks, it was conceded.

Speculate on Action.

The announcement of the selection of the commencement exercises for the important pronouncement sent official Washington into a flurry of speculation. The announcement was widely accredited as having no more significance than another manifestation of Mr. Roosevelt's keen enjoyment at shattering precedents.

The presidential action was variously interpreted as indicating that Mr. Roosevelt would veto the bill, would sign the bill, or would allow it to become a law without his signature.

By late afternoon, however, the possibility of veto was considered remote and it was generally agreed that Mr. Roosevelt will sign the bill or allow it to become a law although it is not entirely acceptable to him.

Guess He Will Sign It.

The belief that Mr. Roosevelt would sign the measure, or at least allow it to become a law without his signature, gained widespread credence because several times during his incumbency he has signed measures in the past to which he was partly opposed. Such signatures came at the last minute after internal debate of a veto and were accompanied by explanations of his decision.

The graduation exercises at the Arthurdale High school will offer an excellent setting from a standpoint of publicity for an explanation of a hesitant signing of the tax bill, it was acknowledged.

Under the law Mr. Roosevelt must veto the bill or sign it by the time the house adjourns tomorrow or have it become a law without his signature. The constitution provides that a veto to be valid must be sent to the branch of congress in which the bill originated within ten days after it is sent to the White House.

Last Day for Action.

The bill may be signed at any time within the same period. If it is not vetoed or signed it automatically becomes a law except after the adjournment of congress, when unsigned bills are killed by what has come to be known as "the pocket veto."

The tax bill was sent to the White House on May 16. Because the first day on which the bill is sent is not counted and Sundays and holidays are excepted, the period for action does not expire until the adjournment of the house of representatives, where the bill originated, tomorrow.

The tax bill was virtually rewritten in conference after the house and senate had passed conflicting measures. During the protracted battle in the committee, the President in an unusual procedure sent a letter to congressional leaders urging retention in the bill of the tax on undistributed profits and capital gains, which had been blamed by business for a large share of the responsibility for the present depression.

Compromise on Committee.

In the committee a compromise was adopted. At the insistence of the President a vestige of the undistributed profits tax was retained, but it was limited to the calendar years 1938 and 1939 and is expected to die Dec. 31, 1939. Due to the vigorous fight of Senator Pat Harrison [D., Miss.], chairman of the senate finance committee, the capital gains tax was eliminated.

The compromise represented a face saving victory for the President on the retention of the emasculated undistributed profits tax, but a greater victory for Senator Harrison for revision of the capital gains tax. The White House announcement of today indicated that Mr. Roosevelt is not satisfied with his face saving victory and will take an opportunity to present his objections to the bill to the nation.

Argues for Theories.

In his letter to the conferees Mr. Roosevelt in arguing for his theories on taxation of capital gains said there is no fairness in taxing the salaried man and merchant on their incomes and taxing at a far lower rate the profits of the speculator, and that it is unfair to subject incomes to surtaxes while taxing capital gains at a uniform rate.

The letter brought a wave of indignation from Capitol Hill. Obviously aroused Senator Harrison asserted that the President was entitled to his views and should accord to others the same right to theirs. He declared that the views did not coincide with those of the majority of the senate and forged ahead with his fight against both forms of taxation.

The compromise on the bill was reached on April 22.

The President boarded his special train for Reedsville, W. Va., shortly before midnight. He will arrive between 9 and 10 o'clock tomorrow morning and motor to Arthurdale. After inspection of the community and lunch he will go to the high school for the graduation exercises and his speech. He will return to his train and continue to Hyde Park, N. Y., Saturday morning. He will spend the Memorial day week-end in his boyhood home.

WAGE AND HOUR BILL SENT TO CONFERENCE; PICK 2 SOUTHERNERS

Washington, D. C., May 26.—(AP)—The senate sent the wage-hour bill to conference today to compose differences with the house over wage differentials.

The action was taken after an agreement had been reached under which two southerners, Senators Ellender [D., La.] and Pepper [D., Fla.] were named on the conference committee. Southerners have been among the leading opponents of the bill.

The conference committee, made up of senators and representatives, will seek to adjust differences in the measures passed separately by the house and senate. Chief of these is the house bill's lack of a differential in wages between the north and south.

Woman Tries to End Life After Hotel Drinking Party

Mrs. Mary Wright, 23 years old, 1244 North Dearborn street, attempted to commit suicide yesterday in a room in the Stevens hotel where she had been drinking with John Mokelke, chemist, of Milwaukee. Mrs. Wright cut both wrists with a razor blade and then tried to leap from the window, police reported, but was restrained by Mokelke and detectives. Mokelke and Mrs. Wright were charged with disorderly conduct and will be arraigned in the Women's court today.

SUBPENA CAPTAIN OF LINER BREMEN IN SPY RING CASE

New York, May 26.—[Special.]—Agents of the federal bureau of investigation boarded the North German Lloyd liner Bremen from a coast guard cutter today and served a subpena upon Capt. Adolf Ahrens, master of the vessel, ordering him to appear before the federal grand jury investigating the activities of an alleged spy ring in the United States.

The agents declined to discuss their mission, but Capt. Ahrens admitted he had been called to testify about the flight of Dr. Ignatz T. Griebl, the government's principal witness in the spy inquiry, to Germany on the last trip of the Bremen.

It is alleged the spies are striving to obtain from this country advanced airplane designs and factory production secrets which Nazi Germany needs to make good her boast of air supremacy in Europe. That American fighting planes and American engines are the finest in the world has been strikingly demonstrated, according to experts, in air fighting in the Spanish war.

POLICE ACCUSED OF LIES; SCANDAL TRIAL IN UPROAR

State Calls Detectives' Stories a Frameup.

Charges of police venality in the Town Hall district, and of perjury by important witnesses, were tossed back and forth yesterday at the trial of Kenneth Peters, alleged robber, in the court of Judge Robert Jerome Dunne.

Peters is the central figure in a scandal that has already resulted in the suspension and indictment of two detectives, Frank A. McKune and Earl Flannery, and disclosures that one of the principal witnesses—the man he is charged with holding up—had been bribed to stay away from Chicago. This witness, James J. Burke, a hanger on in a bookmaking establishment, has returned. Three persons charged with sending him away have been arrested and charged with conspiracy to obstruct justice.

Police Testimony Conflicting.

Direct conflict in the testimony of two sets of policemen concerning the robbery developed yesterday. Two uniformed men, Peter Frank and Harold Thompson, have related that they found Peters and a man known only as Tip, both armed with pistols, holding up Burke at Dover street and Leland avenue on Feb. 26.

The rest of the story is that after the supposed stickup men were arrested, they were turned over to McKune and Flannery, who arrived opportunely. Admittedly the prisoners were released by the detectives.

Thompson and Frank have testified that they plainly told the two detectives that the men under arrest were robbers. They have also asserted that they turned over the men's pistols to McKune and Flannery.

McKune, called as a court's witness, yesterday gave testimony that brought from Assistant State's Attorney William Crawford a shouted allegation that he and Flannery had agreed on a story that was "an utter and complete fabrication."

Knew Robber for Years.

The detective admitted that he had known Peters for several years. He denied, however, that he knew Peters and Tip had been arrested for robbery.

"I thought it was just a pickup," he said. He denied that any pistols had been turned over to him and Flannery.

"I want to show McKune up for a liar," cried Crawford.

This brought from the defense attorneys, Harold Levy and George Crane, a demand that a mistrial be declared. The request was overruled, but the jurymen were ordered to disregard the remark.

McKune continued to insist that he had never seen a pistol at the scene of the alleged robbery, except those in the hands of the policemen.

"Isn't it true that you didn't have a pistol because you had given yours to the defendant and Tip, so they could pull this stickup" demanded the prosecutor.

Recalls Refusal to Talk.

An objection was sustained. Crawford then recalled that McKune had refused to talk at Peters' arraignment in the Felony court, on the ground that he might incriminate himself.

"The real reason," he declared, "was that you had not framed this story then. Isn't that true?"

Again an objection was sustained.

When the witness was turned over to Attorney Crane, he started a barrage of questions, all of which brought objections from the prosecution. The jury was sent out while Crane outlined what the answers would prove.

McKune, he asserted, would testify that the freeing of the prisoners was done with the knowledge of Thompson and the latter's squad leader, Sergt. Erwin Smith.

"He would also testify," the attorney continued, "that Smith and Thompson, later the same evening, joined Peters, Flannery, and McKune in a saloon at 3447 Sheffield avenue, and that Smith demanded money for letting Peters go. Flannery refused any cut, assuring him there was no money; that it was just a case of friendship."

Crawford said this tale also was a fabrication. Flannery was called to the stand and supported the testimony of McKune. Thompson was then recalled and flatly contradicted the statements of the accused detectives, denying that he had seen Peters after McKune and Flannery drove away with them and asserting he had not consented to the alleged robbers' release.

Judge Dunne ordered the jurors locked up for the night. The case will continue today.

Burke had given his testimony Wednesday. His story supported that of Thompson and Frank. His employer, William Nichols, long an operator of handbooks on the north side, who has admitted paying him to stay away from the trial, has been charged with conspiracy to obstruct justice. So have two alleged accomplices of Nichols. They are George Gardner, 936 Wilson avenue, and his wife, Edna Gardner.

AN AARDVARK'S COUSIN AND ANTS MOVE INTO ZOO

Visit Brings Problem for Commissary Dept.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

Complete with flypaper tongue, long handled brush, book of directions, and thirty day supply of grade AA ants, a great anteater from South America arrived at the Chicago Zoölogical park in Brookfield yesterday.

Half way through the book of directions, Assistant Director Robert Bean ordered more ants from South America. He's determined, he explained, that his anteater shall have her ants every day, although it's rumored New York's anteater hasn't had one for so long they're afraid it would give her indigestion.

Hatch Food as Needed.

The book had this to say about ants: There's a company down in South America which sells them to people who get stuck with [purchase] an anteater. But the company can't send a man along to feed the ants, and so it ships ant eggs, at 80 cents a pound. Since they don't hatch as long as they're kept cool, you can buy a year's supply if you have that much money, and hatch them out as your anteater needs them.

The book said an anteater should have one meal a day: a pound of ants and some soup. The ants are to be placed in a crock whose rim has been greased so the ants will slip and fall if they try to escape.

The anteater will catch them all in slightly over a minute with her twenty inch tongue, whose surface acts just like flypaper.

Because speed is essential in eating ants, the book said, the anteater won't try to chew her dinner. And that's all right, too, if the book's right, because anteaters haven't any teeth. Mr. Bean's anteater hasn't any, but then at the age of four years she's only one-third grown.

Dinner Is Served.

At home, Mr. Bean said, she'd have to get her own meals. She'd dig her sharp claws into an ant hill. All the ants would come bustling out to make estimates of the damage, and then she'd have at them.

With her long bushy tail, which she uses as you would use a brush, she'd brush all the ants into a corner. Then out would pop her tongue and dinner would be served.

Although every one calls her the great anteater, Mr. Bean's anteater is common as an old shoe. She has the title, Great, to distinguish her from the anteater, which is smaller, and from the aardvark, which would doubtless have got in here for its funny name if it weren't one of the great anteater's African cousins.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Bean intimated that his anteater would be happy to dig up her own ants if given a cage out among some ant-hills, but he's afraid that might detract a little from her glamor. If you have any ants, though, he invites you to bring them along.

FUMES KILL MAN IN GARAGE.

Samuel Marcus, 69 years old, 1413 Millard avenue, was found dead last night of carbon monoxide fumes from his truck in a garage behind 3751 Douglas boulevard.

TVA DIRECTORS DENY CHARGES OF DR. MORGAN

Accuse Deposed Chairman of Sabotage.

an unfair attack upon the personal integrity of a colleague. I propose, however, to drop the matter here. Whatever other remedies may be pursued, they will not be the concern of this committee."

As the director who bore the brunt of Dr. Morgan's charges, Lilienthal sought to answer them.

In many instances he contented himself with a denial and an invitation to the committee to interview the technical engineers of the TVA and ascertain if he were not correct.

Refers Committee to Study.

Lilienthal answered the charge of Dr. Morgan that the TVA had set up a false yardstick for electric power costs by referring the committee to a yardstick survey of three communities whose publicly owned systems purchase power from the TVA. The survey was made last summer by the federal power commission. He admitted this survey had been assailed by Dr. Morgan as not being capable of standing critical examination, but he insisted, and declared that the power commission's survey would show, that the TVA did not hide certain costs in order to substantiate a low yardstick.

Lilienthal also denied that he and Harcourt Morgan encouraged the claims of Senator George L. Berry [D., Tenn.] to several millions of dollars for lands, supposed to contain marble, which were flooded by a TVA dam. Experts examined the lands and found the claims worthless.

Terms Agreement Ordinary.

Dr. Morgan had charged that Lilienthal and Harcourt Morgan had, over his protests, entered into a conciliation agreement with Berry which strengthened the latter's claims. Lilienthal insisted that the conciliation agreement was an ordinary and usual step in dealing with such claims.

"The authority was confronted with a claim for many millions, which the authority felt was baseless," Lilienthal testified. "But we feared that the claims might be given some recognition by a non-technical condemnation commission. It was our joint judgment that it was our duty to take this step in order to minimize as far as possible any risk that the authority would have to pay a substantial sum for these leases."

Falsehood, He Charges.

Lilienthal said the burden of a detailed answer regarding the Berry case would be left to later witnesses who might be called by the committee. He charged, moreover, that Dr. Morgan had interfered with the preparation of the case and had sought to keep evidence of Berry's bad faith away from the TVA's chief counsel.

"I say that any assertion that we, by word or action, encouraged the legal department or any one else to pull punches on Maj. Berry's claims is an outright falsehood," Lilienthal asserted.

"The belated and casual statement uttered here yesterday by Arthur Morgan that in his judgment neither Harcourt Morgan nor myself accepted bribes for our alleged misdoings in the Berry case is small comfort to men who have had their names and reputations dragged through the mud for many months."

Agree on Disagreements.

On only one point did the three agree. This was that they disagreed from the date of their first board meeting, June 16, 1933, and that the disagreement rapidly grew into a feud. Harcourt Morgan's story was one of petty bickering through the years as Dr. Morgan and Lilienthal fought for control of the far-flung organization.

For five years, the affairs of the multi-million dollar experiments have been in dire confusion because of this warfare, Harcourt Morgan's testimony revealed. With huge dams being constructed and with the authority penetrating into the utility field at a rapid pace, the attention of the three often was concentrated on such subjects as vacations and whether formal notice should be given for meetings.

When Lilienthal's term was about to expire in May, 1936, Dr. Morgan strove unsuccessfully to prevent his reappointment, Harcourt Morgan testified. But President Roosevelt reappointed Lilienthal for a nine year term and the breach became wider than ever.

Senator Vic Donahey [D., O.], chairman, announced the committee would meet next week to discuss organizing a staf of investigators. After congress adjourns, the committee will visit Tennessee and view the physical setup of the authority.

Tell Their Side

House Votes Inquiry Into U. S. Propaganda.

Washington, D. C., May 26.—[Special.]—The house today voted for an investigation of un-American propaganda activities in the United States following a charge by Representative Martin Dies [D., Tex.] that a member of the German-American bund had advocated the assassination of President Roosevelt.

Dies, who presented the resolution for an inquiry, said he based his statement on affidavits which he had seen. The suggestion that the President be slain was made, he said, in a speech at a Nazi camp.

Tells of Nazi Camps.

Declaring he is not an alarmist, Dies said he had shocking information supplied to him concerning the extent of a Nazi movement in this country. He said there are thirty-two Nazi camps, claiming a membership of 480,000 persons, in the nation.

"I have seen photographs showing men marching and saluting the swastika," he said, "and I have information that certain individuals and groups have contributed funds for the purpose of encouraging a Fascist or Nazi movement in this country."

Dies said the investigation would not be directed at the German-American people, adding that there is no more loyal class of citizens generally, and that his mother was a German.

Resolution Is Criticized.

Criticism of the resolution was quickly offered by the so-called house liberal bloc. Representative Dewey Johnson [F.-L., Minn.] wanted to know why Dies, if he had information about Nazi camps, did not attempt to obtain passage of a bill to forbid military activities in this country other than those of the regular armed forces of the government.

"The matter involves a great deal more than military drilling," interjected Representative Byron Harlan [D., O.].

The resolution authorizes an inquiry into the diffusion of subversive and un-American propaganda "that is instigated from foreign countries or of a domestic origin and attacks the principle of the form of government as guaranteed by our constitution."

REVEAL CHICAGO INQUIRY.

Secret service agents in Chicago recently investigated reports that a threat against the President's life had been made at a meeting of the Silver Shirt legion here, but were unable to confirm the reports. Capt. Thomas Callaghan, head of the secret service in Chicago, last night said his men had questioned several persons said to have heard the threat, but that they denied it.

Draft Decree to Put End to Jersey City 'Deportations'

Newark, N. J., May 26.—(AP)—A tentative federal court decree which would prohibit Jersey City authorities from "deporting" members of the C. I. O. and affiliated groups and from interfering with peaceful picketing and other organizational activities was drafted by opposing counsel today.

The decree, drawn up in Judge William Clark's chambers, covered all principal points at issue in the long war between the administration of Mayor Frank Hague and the C. I. O., American Civil Liberties union, and others, except the No. 1 controversy —the city's ordinance requiring police permits for public meetings.

If both sides agree finally to the language of the order, it will be signed tomorrow by Judge Clark, who set next Wednesday for trial of the attack on the speech making ordinance. If they do not agree, the whole case will be tried at that time.

C. I. O. Fights Opposition.

The stipulation regarding "deportation" was an outgrowth of the action of police in escorting C. I. O. members and others out of the city without arresting them. The tactics, the C. I. O. alleged, were used in the seamen's strike more than a year ago, and again when the C. I. O. started an organization drive in Jersey City late last year. More recently Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, charged he was "kidnaped" by police and put aboard a ferry boat for New York when he attempted to speak in Journal square.

The C. I. O. fought "deportation" particularly because, its counsel said, it denied members the right to be arrested and take their cases to court.

Two Meetings Scheduled.

While the all day court session was going on plans went forward for two meetings in Jersey City tomorrow night. One, an anti-Hague affair, was called by the Hudson county committee for Labor Defense and Civil Rights, which listed Representative Jerry O'Connell, Montana Democrat, as main speaker. The committee was denied a permit by Public Safety Director Daniel Casey, but O'Connell has said he will speak, "permit or no permit."

Col. Hugh A. Kelly, secretary to Gov. A. Harry Moore and president of the New Jersey League of War Veterans, called the second meeting at the same time and place as a "demonstration against any plan of law defiance by Jerry O'Connell and to show O'Connell that Jersey City does not want him."

The demonstration of this pro-Hague group May 7, when thousands massed in Jersey City's Journal square, caused the international labor defense to call off scheduled speeches by O'Connell and Representative John T. Bernard [F.-L., Minn.].

CANADA PROBES NAZI ATTEMPT TO PURCHASE ISLAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., May 26.—Canadian department of justice agents are investigating German interests who are reported to be attempting to purchase Anticosti Island, which is in the mouth of the St. Lawrence river, Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King announced in the house of commons today.

His statement followed charges by Conservative Leader Richard B. Bennett that the foreign interests now negotiating for the purchase of the island, who have represented themselves as pulp and timber men, actually are "eminent military and naval experts" from Germany.

No foreign power, the prime minister said, would ever get control of the island in a manner which would be prejudicial to Canadian interests.

ALDERMEN PASS UP EXPERTS ON STAIRWAY CODE

Ignore Protest and Rule Out New System.

Ignoring a protest by leading technical societies in the building field the city council's building code subcommittee yesterday struck from the proposed new code a provision for two way stairway systems in apartment buildings. The building experts wrote to the subcommittee recommending such stairways on grounds of safety and construction economy and as a means of building more livable apartments.

The same letter, reporting formal recommendations by the Illinois Society of Architects, Chicago chapter of the American Institute of Architects and Western Society of Engineers, urged the aldermen, in polite language, to speed up action on the code. In effect the technical societies recommended that the council and its committees quit fooling with extremely technical passages as drafted by an experts' commission after months of work, pass the code as it was transmitted by the commission, and amend it later if that is deemed necessary.

Support Letter with Words.

Robert S. DeGolyer presented the letter, addressed to Ald. James J. McDermott [14th] chairman of the code subcommittee, on behalf of a delegation representing the societies. He and other members of the committee supplemented the letter with verbal pleas.

For some thirty-five years Chicago has required that every dwelling unit in a multiple dwelling [apartment house] shall have access to two stairways, one of which may be off an open rear porch. The commission of experts headed by F. J. Thielbar, which drafted the new code, sought to modernize these provisions.

Their draft tightened the fire protective provisions for interior stairs, prohibiting open stairways and providing that stairs should, in effect, be a vertical highway through the building, protected by walls capable of resisting fire for two hours.

Two-Way System Explained.

They then introduced the two-way stairway principle, providing that in fireproof and semi-fire proof buildings up to six stories, and in other buildings up to four stories high, single apartments might have access to only one stairway, provided there were at least two stairways in the same building. The principle was called two-way because it was intended that in case of fire on a lower floor which blocked the single stair, occupants of an upper apartment would climb to the roof, make use of a passage required there, and reach the street by the stairway serving the adjacent group of apartments.

Robert Knight, deputy building commissioner, opposed the plan. In a subcommittee meeting Monday, only Ald. McDermott backed him, the remaining members approving the two-way stairs. The full building and zoning committee reversed this decision the following day, and the subcommittee passed the code chapter on multiple dwellings yesterday with the two-way stair provision stricken out.

Experts Protest Decision.

In the letter of protest, the technical committee stated:

"As we understand it, the real purpose of a new building code is to bring building practice up to modern conditions—not only as to materials and engineering requirements—but also planning, all for the broad purpose of making it possible to build better buildings at a saving to the ultimate occupants.

"The paragraph on two-way stairways has been incorporated in the draft of the new code with the main objectives of Combining savings with what the building code commission believes to be perfect safety of the occupants.

"The housing division of PWA accepted this plan in all their low cost housing projects throughout the country; such stairways may be seen in the three projects in Chicago.

"It is the confirmed belief of this committee, as well as the original code commission, that such stairways are not only more economical but safer than the present wood stairs—front and rear—as now required. We should like to call the attention of your committee to the very bad condition of many of the existing rear wood stairways."

HOFFMAN CALLS FREE BUSINESS VITAL TO NATION

Keystone of Democracy, U. of C. Diners Told.

The great battle still facing the American business man today is that of preventing the encroachment of government into the fields of free enterprise, Paul G. Hoffman, president of the Studebaker corporation, warned last evening. If free enterprise is destroyed free government will disappear, he declared at the annual dinner of the school of business, University of Chicago.

"Democratic government, as we have known it in the United States, with its responsiveness to the popular will and its freedom of thought and action for the individual, cannot live apart from the free market," said Hoffman. "It is the collective responsibility of all who believe in a politically free America to battle for maintenance of free enterprise."

Defines Free Enterprise.

By the term "free enterprise," the speaker, who is also a trustee of the university, said he means the right of the individual to invest his private capital in a lawful business; to manufacture what he pleases; to sell it to whom he pleases at whatever prices will, in his opinion, produce the best operating result.

"This is the antithesis of economic planning with its production and price controls," he said. "The NRA was economic planning on a grandiose scale. While it was the law of the land free enterprise was shackled.

"The Guffey coal act is a minor manifestation of the same philosophy. Under an economy of free enterprise, competition is the main reliance for the protection of public interest. Under economic planning this authority is transferred to governmental agencies."

Defines Government Area.

In development of great irrigation projects, water supply, sewage disposal, the postal service and similar community services governmental agencies function better than private capitalism, he said. And there are also certain natural monopolies such as telephone and telegraph service and utilities where regulatory control by government is needed because the play of competition is absent.

"But when the government steps over the fence into the managerial side I become concerned. Free enterprise cannot live unless it serves the public well. It has served the public well because under the driving force of competition business has been forced to use ingenuity, initiative, and tremendous energy constantly to improve its products and lower its prices in order to hold and enlarge its markets," Hoffman asserted.

"If any of you gentlemen think that the threat to free enterprise died when the NRA passed out, I call your attention to the rapid growth of licensing laws in all lines of business in all the states.

Urges United Effort.

"It is going to take heroic action on the part of many groups if free enterprise is to be preserved, and I repeat that unless free enterprise is saved its Siamese twin, 'personal liberty,' will also pass out of the scene."

Hoffman urged business to be consistent in its fight for freedom. He advocated the joining of forces with the universities for academic freedom, the newspapers for freedom of the press, and the radio broadcasting companies for freedom of the air.

"We must convince the public that we sponsor free enterprise as a principle, and not merely as a convenience," he said.

Homewood Police Seize Slot Machines in 17 Taverns

Three squads of county highway police from the Homewood station yesterday raided seventeen taverns in the southern end of Cook county and seized a slot machine in each place. No arrests were made, but Lieut. Henry Andel, commander of the raiders, said the machines would be confiscated. Most of the taverns are along Lincoln highway.

U. OF W. STUDENT VOTE APPROVES EDITOR'S OUSTER

Madison, Wis., May 26.—[Special.]—Climaxing one of the most heated disputes in the school's history, the University of Wisconsin student body, in a plebiscite vote today, approved the recent ouster of Richard J. Davis, Jewish student from New York City, as executive editor of the Daily Cardinal, campus newspaper.

By a vote of 2,681 to 2,600, the students reëlected the present Cardinal board, which ousted Davis last month on the grounds he was unqualified and his selection by a previous board was illegal. The board will meet tomorrow to name a new executive editor.

Regarded at first as little more than a fraternity versus independent fight, the Davis case suddenly aroused the campus to a high pitch, with students, faculty members, and students taking sides. Some persons denied a racial issue was involved, pointing out Jewish students were members of both factions.

DEFENSE SCORES DOUBLE TRIUMPH IN CRABB'S TRIAL

Gets Grand Jury Record of Slaying Inquiry.

on the Pekin football team, was gone, transcript under his arm. Cassidy, tall and heavy set, followed, but it was a lost match from the start. In a minute he was back, b gging for a recess and bellowing: "He can't do this to me! I'll find him!" But he didn't, and not until a full two hours later did Dunkelberg return, his eyes glowing but his mien demure. He had gone for a little drive in the country, and taken the transcript along for reading matter.

Seeks to Impeach Witness.

The state's second setback came in late afternoon when Cassidy sought to impeach his own witness, Mrs. Kemp, president of the Delavan Woman's club and third cousin of young Crabb, on the ground her testimony contradicted the story she told the grand jury. Judge Daily, however, denied the state the right to cross-examine her.

Mrs. Kemp, a comely brunette with teeth as white as her pearl earrings, was hostess at the last party Betty Crabb attended. On direct examination she told what a pleasant party it was, with the guests playing ping pong, chuck-a-luck, and tippet until 1:30 a. m., but on cross-examination by Defense Attorney J. M. Powers she testified that Betty seemed high strung and nervous, smoking an unending chain of cigarets.

In the course of the evening, the witness said, Betty went into the Kemp house several times, deserting the players in the recreation building at the rear. Mrs. Kemp went with her on one occasion.

Court Spectators Perk Up.

Q. [by Attorney Powers]—What did you do? A.—We went upstairs. I went into the bathroom and she sat down at my dressing table. I heard her closing and opening the drawers.

Q.—How many times? A.—O, nine or ten times.

At this the courtroom, engrossed in yawns, sat tautly forward.

Q.—What did she do then? A.—When I returned she went over and sat down on my bed. She told me to please promise that whatever happened to never tell her daddy.

Mrs. Kemp said she assumed Betty was referring to her general state of intoxication [she had previously testified Betty was "feeling her drinks"].

Through it all, young Crabb yawned, tilted his chair back and gazed around the room. Behind him a large woman on the front row placed her elbows on her knees, as she stretched forward in her interest; a slightly bald man in blue denim shirt and galluses abstractedly popped his false lower plate in and out, and L. Glenn Collison of Champaign, father of the dead girl, chewed fiercely on his gum. Yet James, his ears scarlet but his face pale, continued to yawn.

Town Marshal's Story Amuses.

In his testimony earlier in the day Delavan's Marshal Burbridge brought laughter to the courtroom as he told how he and E. W. Ringo, Delavan constable, received a call to come to the Crabb home the morning of March 1.

In inclement weather, he explained under questioning by Prosecutor Cassidy, the three man police force sits in the pump station in the city hall. If there is any trouble, and there rarely is in Delavan, the telephone operator sounds the police horn. The horn is on a window outside the telephone office, a block and a half from the city hall, but can be heard for a distance of ten blocks.

"But that night," Burbidge explained, "it was out of condition. It didn't sound very loud. We didn't hear it hardly at all. We have a new one now."

Hearing the horn squawk, he called the operator, who said, "They want you over at Willis Crabb's." He and Ringo then set out to walk to the Crabb home five blocks away, each taking a different route "in case it might be prowlers."

Supports Ringo's Version.

His testimony concerning the subsequent shot was substantially the same as that of Ringo yesterday, but whereas Ringo, once at the dying Betty Crabb's room, merely stood at the door, he searched the floor with his flashlight, looking for a gun. He saw none.

Q. [by Cassidy]—Did you have a full view of the bed? A.—A pretty fair view.

Q.—Was the girl motionless or not? A.—The only sign of motion was about the last breath expelled out of her body as she was dying.

Burbidge, unlike Ringo, saw all three of the Crabbs when he first came upstairs. All—Willis Crabb, Mrs. Catherine Crabb, and James—were clustered together in Willis' dressing room, the marshal said.

CORNER N. Y. PAROLEE IN HOTEL AFTER GUN CHASE; HELD AS BANDIT

James Good.

James Good, a paroled convict from New York, was trapped and captured by twenty police last night in the Hotel Edwards, 67 West Harrison street. Guests in the hotel ducked for cover as they heard the police shots. Good was being sought for the attempted robbery and shooting of a man and woman in a tavern at 1615 West 43d street last Friday night. John Pierce, another New York parolee, was seized at the tavern and named Good as his confederate. Sergt. John Greer and Detective Fred Crowley stopped Good for questioning at State and Harrison streets last night. He ran into the hotel. Crowley fired at him. Additional police squads were called and surrounded the hotel. Then the two policemen followed Good to a fourth floor room, where he surrendered after they battered down the door.

BAKER IS LEADING HOWARD IN RACE TO HEAD PRINTERS

Indianapolis, Ind., May 26.—(AP)—Scattered unofficial returns put Claude M. Baker of San Francisco, American Federation of Labor adherent, in a commanding lead tonight in his fight to displace Charles P. Howard of Chicago, C. I. O. secretary, as president of the International Typographical union.

Returns from the balloting in 85 cities in the union's biennial election gave Baker 25,940 votes against 14,736 for Howard. The returns included New York City's complete vote, which was 4,644 to 2,404 for Baker.

Union members admitted freely that the election brought to a climax internal strife between two factions. One favored American Federation of Labor policies and the other was for the Committee for Industrial Organization, headed by John L. Lewis.

Assails Green's Policies.

The I. T. U. is affiliated with the A. F. of L. and Howard, while president of the printers, became secretary of the C. I. O. He had criticized frequently A. F. of L. President William Green's policies.

An international official said voting would continue until noon today. Locals will send sealed returns to international headquarters in Indianapolis to be opened and tallied by a canvassing board June 6.

Returns from the larger cities, including New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Kansas City, Indianapolis, Louisville, Dallas, Cincinnati, St. Louis, and Washington, favored Baker. Cleveland gave Howard a majority, as did Albany, N. Y., and other cities in New York state.

How Chicagoans Voted.

Chicago reported a total vote of: Baker, 2,367; Howard, 1,369. Two Chicagoans running for secretary treasurer were given this vote in their home town: Woodruff Randolph, incumbent, 1,347; Harry B. Schaudt, 2,272.

Howard heads the "Progressive Party" ticket, Baker that of the "Independent Party." The "Progressives" have been in control of the I. T. U. since 1928.

RENT TO BE LEFT OUT OF RELIEF CHECKS IN JUNE

Funds Only Sufficient for Other Expenses.

Rents will not be paid for Chicago relief clients during June, authorities said yesterday. Relief Commissioner Leo M. Lyons made no definite announcement how he would use approximately $2,200,000 that will be given to Chicago by the state for use next month, but it was said that because of shortage of funds, no provision for rent can be included in the checks of relief clients.

During April, the last month for which figures are available, the Chicago Relief administration spent $2,642,889 for relief. Rents cost $475,157, leaving $2,167,732 for food, clothing, medical care, fuel, and other items.

The number of persons on relief has not changed greatly since April and no great change is expected during June. On this basis the CRA, by not paying rents, could meet other expenses for the month.

The first 8,000 of the 34,000 families who did not receive their regular relief checks for May were given checks for food yesterday. An additional 8,000 checks will be issued each day until all have gone out. The money was made available to the city by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission when it allotted Chicago $329,000 of the extra $500,000 a month appropriated by the legislature.

"The relief stations have not been reopened," Lyons said. "I haven't decided whether we will be able to open them after the state gives us our June money. For the present they are being manned only by skeleton stafs to distribute the 8,000 checks each day."

Lyons said that the new policy announced Thursday of having the Illinois Emergency Relief commission approve applicants for WPA jobs probably will have little effect in Chicago. Before this policy was put into effect the CRA determined eligibility for WPA.

"The IERC's requirements for eligibility, when they are finally determined, probably will be pretty close to those that have been used in Chicago," Lyons said. "The greatest effect of the new system will be felt outside Chicago, where it has been more difficult to obtain approval for relief and WPA."

Mayor Kelly said he will confer today with William H. Sexton, Chicago IERC member, and First Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph L. Grossman to find ways for the city to provide more money for relief. Bills which would increase and broaden the taxing powers of the city for this purpose are being prepared for submission to the legislature.

EIGHT GUILTY OF WPA GRAFT CHARGE PUT ON PROBATION TWO YEARS

Eight former employés of the Works Progress administration, accused of conspiracy to accept bribes and extort graft from other WPA workers, were held guilty and placed on probation for two years yesterday by Federal Judge William H. Holly.

Four of the defendants had pleaded guilty and aided the government as witnesses. They are John P. Pecka, John S. Hubert, Herbert De Lusque, and John J. Walsh. Three who threw themselves on the mercy of the court are Earle R. Peterson, Ralph Budd, and Everett L. Wilson. Hugh McTavish, former truck driver, who pleaded not guilty, was the eighth man put on probation.

Three others in the group of eleven seized on the charges last fall were freed on Wednesday.

CHARGE JARECKI EASES WAY FOR ELECTION BLOCS

Another attack on County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki for his conduct during the April primary campaign was made yesterday at a meeting of the state commission on election law revision. Julius H. Miner, a master in chancery of the Circuit court and originator of Chicago's Constitution day observances, charged that Judge Jarecki allowed his personal interest as a candidate for renomination to influence his decision that voters could switch party affiliations in the primary.

Julius H. Miner.

Judge Jarecki's statement that voters should be allowed to change parties at will is designed to give him control of the mayoralty nominations in both the Republican and Democratic parties next spring, Miner said.

Opens Way for Special Interests.

"A nullification of the time limitation in Illinois primaries," Miner asserted, "will enable Jarecki to insure the election of a 'friendly' mayor by directing some of the 1,007,361 who voted in the last Democratic primary to go into the Republican primary in the spring. At the same time Jarecki retains control of his own Democratic primary as county judge. An open primary would enable special interests to manipulate nominations to insure special privileges."

Advocates Better Method.

George O. Fairweather, assistant treasurer of the University of Chicago, advocated a more representative method of selecting party chieftains in Cook county. He said precinct committeemen should be elected, not appointed, and should then choose ward committeemen, who in turn would name county and state chairmen.

"The voter should have a chance to express himself in the makeup of his party officials," Fairweather asserted. "We should all be amateur politicians, not entrust our destiny to professional politicians."

The commission, meeting in the county building courtroom of Judge John C. Lewe, a member, will hold another session today.

SOUND AND FURY

By CALEB

"WHAT KIND of a noise annoys an oyster!" chanted the youngsters years ago because the belief has long been popular that noise—particularly sustained noise—always leads to nervous fatigue and exhaustion.

Now we find a trained scientist who takes exception to the idea, and maintains that noise doesn't really bother anyone—it's his reaction that's important—and that can be controlled, noise or no noise.

"Noise in itself," he says, "is of little import. The effects of sustained or repeated noise grow out of the mental associations they arouse in the hearer.

"If a man happened to be in the business of raising frogs, and the market for frog legs went to pot, chances are the frogs' croaking down in the pond would keep him awake—though their music is usually soothing.

"When the husbands, sons and neighbors of fisher folk are safe in harbor, then the wind and the ocean's roar lull the village to sleep. But if the boats are still out—then every wave is counted through sleepless hours. No, it isn't the noise—it's what goes with it."

Noise is only one of many things that steadily beat against our consciousness and sap reserves of fortitude. But it is pleasant to know that its effect—like that of other things we contend with—is subject to inner control. Said Robert Louis Stevenson:

"Quiet minds cannot be perplexed or frightened, but go on in fortune or misfortune at their own private pace like a clock in a thunderstorm."

The ability to forget and tune out disturbances is a familiar characteristic of strong and able individuals. In addition to the power of concentration, it means the ability to relax at frequent intervals.

But these aren't the exclusive badges of greatness, and those of us who play more humble roles than did Napoleon, Lincoln and Thomas Edison, can wear them, too.

Tranquillity of soul demands the ability to tune out petty disturbances that irk and fatigue us. The problem lies within ourselves—not outside; what cannot be done away with must be controlled. Noise and nuisance abatement becomes a purely personal problem.

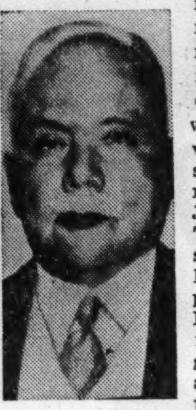
JAPAN SHAKES UP CABINET TO SPUR INDUSTRY PICKUP

Foreign Minister Ousted; Accused of Weakness.

BY KIMPEI SHEBA.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, May 26.—Two admirals and three generals, all of prime minister-ish caliber, tonight occupied five key positions in the Japanese cabinet after what undoubtedly was the most sweeping cabinet reorganization in Japanese history. The nation was stunned particularly by the appointment of Gen. Kazushige Ugaki, former governor general of Corea, as foreign minister replacing Koki Hirota.



Kazushige Ugaki.

Hirota, with the other ministers ousted in the reorganization, was accused of weakness in the face of national emergency.

Gen. Baron Sadao Araki was named minister of education, and Seihin Ikeda, noted financial and industrial leader, replaced Okinori Kaya as finance minister and Shinji Yoshino as commerce and industry minister. Ikeda will hold both posts concurrently. He was educated at Harvard, has been governor of the Bank of Japan, and formerly directed the vast Mitsui industrial interests.

Expected to Spur Japan.

Coming in the wake of Japanese victories on the Suchow front in China, Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoe's reorganization move generally was regarded as likely not only to remove the stagnation which has beset Japan in the last few months, but also to spur the nation to renewed efforts to overcome the crisis.

Informed quarters tonight expressed belief that the reorganization was not yet completed. Swift, sweeping reforms of industry, trade, finance, and other important fields were predicted. The appointment of Ikeda was lauded in all quarters.

It is regarded as significant that he is holding both the finance and commerce portfolios. The move was viewed as an effort to take control of finance and business out of the hands of burocrats who, it was charged, have been guided more by theories than actualities, as a result of which the nation has been threatened with financial and industrial stagnation.

Kido Stays in Cabinet.

Araki replaced Marquis Koichi Kido as minister of education. Kido is a chief lieutenant of Premier Konoe, and remained in the cabinet as minister of public welfare, a newly created position.

Gen. Ugaki and Gen. Araki have been opponents for years in a battle for army leadership. Their presence in the same cabinet was taken to indicate an attempt to gain solid support for a program to win the war in China quickly.

Gen. Gen Sugiyama, minister of war, will resign Monday, it was reported, and be succeeded by Lieut. Gen. Seishiro Itagaki, a commander in China.

The navy is represented in the cabinet by Admiral Nobumasa Suetsugu, home minister, and Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai, minister of navy.

CHINESE ATTACK PENS JAPANESE TROOPS IN OCCUPIED CITY

SHANGHAI, May 27 [Friday].—(AP)—Japanese leaflets dropped from warplanes warned Central China's defense troops today their cause was hopeless and urged them to surrender quickly. The Chinese, however, again counterattacked in the Lanfeng area, on the east-west Lunghai railroad in the line of Japan's westward campaign inland from China's coast.

Japanese earlier had reported complete occupation of the Lanfeng region, twenty-six miles east of Kaifeng, but Chinese asserted their infantry and artillery had bottled up the Japanese within the city, which is on the Lunghai. The Japanese asserted, on the other hand, they had repelled a Chinese attack, scattering 5,000 Chinese troops and inflicting 1,000 casualties.

A Chinese army spokesman asserted the Japanese had been unable to consolidate isolated gains and were prevented from organizing for a large scale westward push. The Chinese, he said, cut off Japanese vanguards from the main force while Chinese planes held back Japanese supplies and reënforcements.

N. Y. Alienist Wins $750 Verdict Against H. K. Thaw

New York, May 26.—[Special.]—A federal court jury tonight returned a verdict for $750 in favor of Dr. Smith Ely Jelliffe, alienist, against Harry K. Thaw. Dr. Jelliffe sued Thaw for $10,000 plus interest from 1908, for services in Thaw's trial for murder of Stanford White, in which he was acquitted on the ground of insanity.

PLAN TO REMOVE ALIENS FROM WAR IN SPAIN BLOCKED

Presents New Bar to Pact by France and Italy.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 26.—Any prospect of putting into effect the British plan for withdrawing foreign soldiers from Spain appeared remote after two meetings today of the chairman's subcommittee of the nonintervention committee.

All countries except Russia accepted the British proposal that 10,000 foreign fighters be withdrawn from each side in Spain before belligerent rights would be granted. The British plan proposed that two commissions of three men each go to Spain to count the foreign fighters. The powers still are at odds on the composition of the commissions.

Lord Plymouth, chairman of the subcommittee, tonight sent an appeal direct to Moscow urging agreement to the plan.

Seek to Appease Mussolini.

Meanwhile the subcommittee is arranging a meeting for next week to consider the possibility of submitting the British scheme for consent of both sides in Spain without Russian participation. Also there is the question of raising money to pay the cost of the plan.

Today's meeting, which focused European anxieties on Spain again after the Czechoslovakian flareup, was called by Plymouth to put into effect the British wish to square matters with Premier Mussolini after his Genoa speech in which he declared an agreement between France and Italy would be impossible unless France closed the Pyrenees frontier to Spain.

Holds Up Friendship Pact.

The deadlock also holds up the completion of the Anglo-Italian friendship pact, which does not come into operation until foreign soldiers are withdrawn from Spain.

In connection with the scheme, France has agreed to control the Pyrenees frontier for 30 days provided that during the time the international commission could make substantial progress in counting the number of foreign combatants on each side.

KILLED IN CROSSING CRASH.

Ambrose House of Lockport was fatally injured yesterday when his trailer truck was struck by the Prairie State express of the Alton railroad in Lockport.

TOWN IN FRANCE AIR BOMBED BY SPANISH REBELS

CERBERE, France, May 26.—(AP)—Spanish rebel war planes tonight destroyed a group of houses near the international railroad station here in a combined bombardment of Cerbere and Portbou, Spain, which is only 100 yards across the border. Two Frenchmen were wounded.

The fact that Portbou was raided first led frontier officials to believe the invasion of French territory was accidental despite the departmental prefect's statement that difference in lighting of the two towns made the attack on Cerbere seem "deliberate aggression."

Eight planes dropped some fifteen bombs in the vicinity of the Cerbere station, destroying three houses and shattering the station's doors and windows. Cerbere, across from Spain's northeastern corner, is the control point of the principal railway linking France and loyalist Spain. Portbou has been bombed forty times, some projectiles on these occasions falling in French territory.

RUMANIA SENTENCES FASCIST IRON GUARD CHIEF TO 10 YRS. LABOR

BUCHAREST, Rumania, May 27 [Friday].—(AP)—A military tribunal today sentenced Corneliu Zelea Codreanu, leader of Rumania's outlawed Fascist Iron Guard, to ten years of forced labor and subsequent loss of civil rights for seven years. The court trying him on treason charges returned its verdict after three hours of deliberation.

Codreanu's attorneys immediately entered an appeal to the Supreme Military court. The appeal, however, will not delay his term at hard labor, which begins immediately.

The Iron Guard leader started serving a six month jail sentence on April 19 after a roundup in which 1,500 of his followers were arrested. The Rumanian government then announced it had discovered a plot to capture King Carol of Rumania and set up a Fascist state.

Woman, 38, Goes for Swim in Lake; Heart Attack Fatal

A pre-season swim in the chill waters of Lake Michigan caused the death yesterday of Mrs. Velma Weeks, 38 years old, 3756 North Central Park avenue. She had donned a suit in an auto trailer at 75th street and had waded out waist deep when she collapsed and went under. Donald Gore of Birmingham, Mich., who saw her plight, dragged her ashore. Firemen were summoned and made an unsuccessful effort to revive Mrs. Weeks with an inhalator. Heart disease, apparently, was the cause of death.

HITLER LAUNCHES GREATEST AUTO PLANT IN EUROPE

Works of Nazi 'People's Car' to Employ 60,000.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 26.—The corner stone for Europe's greatest automobile works was laid by Reichsfuehrer Hitler this afternoon in Fallersleben, twelve miles northeast of Brunswick. By the end of 1939, it is predicted, mass production will be started in the plant on a new "people's car" which Hitler today christened the "K. D. F."—the initials of the Labor Front's Kraft Durch Freude [Strength Through Joy] organization.

Seventy thousand persons gathered on the lonely countryside at the site of the new factory for today's ceremony. In an address to them, Hitler referred to the fact that experts advised him, when he first proposed the building of a "people's car," that such a thing was impossible.

"I hate the word 'impossible,'" the Fuehrer thundered. "At all times it has been symbolic of cowards who do not dare to carry out great decisions."

Not to Compete with Big Cars.

The proposed new car, he said, is meant for the broad mass of people and will not compete with larger cars.

"Those who can afford to buy expensive cars will do so," he asserted.

One reason for devoting special attention to the motorization of Germany, he said, was that the "German people expended all of their wages on foodstuffs—which with 140 people per square kilometer [one-third of a square mile] we cannot produce to an unlimited extent. That must lead to catastrophe.

"Therefore it is necessary that we direct the purchasing power of the German people in other directions. There is room for six or seven million cars in Germany."

To Have 24 H. P. Motor.

Hitler promised that a model town would be built near the factory for 60,000 workers and their families. An appropriation of $20,000,000 was turned over to the Labor Front last year to start the automobile factory project.

The "people's car" will be sold for the equivalent of $396, at the present rate of exchange, it was announced. It will be turned out in three styles—open, limousine, and cabriolet-limousine. The car is 13 feet 9½ inches long, with width and height each 5 feet, and will weigh 1,430 pounds.

Built to accommodate four or five persons, the car will have a 24 horsepower motor placed over the rear axle and will be able to maintain a speed of 62 miles an hour. It was announced the machine will run 400 miles on a full tank of gasoline.

Trial cars have been driven for a total of a million miles over all kinds of roads and no major repairs were needed and no construction errors developed, it was said.

TRAIN DERAILED; 100 AMERICANS IN MEXICO PERILED

SAN LUIS POTOSI, Mexico, May 26.—(AP)—A group of touring Sons of the American Revolution—among 100 Americans returning home from an excursion trip—almost had grandstand seats today for an act in Mexico's current revolutionary drama.

They were aboard a derailed train when six government planes flew over and dropped sixteen bombs around a band of Cedillista rebels near Jaral de Berrio, in the neighboring state of Guanajato, which is 35 miles south of here. There were thundering detonations, and great clouds of smoke and dust were visible from the train. It was reported the rebels had pulled spikes and caused the train derailment.

The senate, sitting in Mexico City, approved the ouster of San Luis Potosi state officials. Gen. Genovevo Rivas Guillen, whose name was submitted by President Lazaro Cardenas, was named provisional governor of the state. He succeeded Mateo Hernandez Netro, the last governor, who fled from here on May 22, presumably to join the rebel leader, Gen. Saturnino Cedillo. The new governor was elevated to office from the post of commander of the San Luis Potosi military zone.

There were 350 letters stacked up in front of her, and Marian couldn't read a word of them. Many of the letters contained pictures of the sender, and one, translated, proved to be a proposal of marriage from a Nazi Storm Trooper.

PETAIN INFORMS FRENCH GERMANY WON WORLD WAR

Says Allied Victory Has Been Mutilated.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 26.—Marshal Henri Petain, who saved Verdun for France in 1916, told his countrymen today that Germany, in effect, had won the world war.

"If our victory has not been entirely dissipated," said France's greatest living war leader, "it is certainly mutilated. Germany, without fighting, has gained what a victorious war would have brought her.

Sees Future Threatened.

"The situation is serious. Our future, perhaps, is threatened. Today we are faced by a Germany which has recovered her strength of 1913 and is increasing it every day. We must recover the mentality and determination which was ours in the dark days. We must first of all reforge the common national soul and resume the mental habits of world war soldiers."

Petain's address was delivered at Caen before 42,000 world war veterans. It came at a time when the German propaganda assault on France and French determination to make a stand before it is too late are growing in intensity.

One French newspaper revealed that Nazi propaganda batteries are turning their fire on Alsace-Lorraine with the object of reviving the almost moribund Alsatian separatism.

[Under the peace treaty with Germany (June 28, 1919) Alsace-Lorraine was transferred to France to date from the armistice of Nov. 11, 1918.]

Tells of Long Range Guns.

Another paper gave alarming and plausible details of powerful long range artillery the Germans are setting up at Irun and other points along the Franco-Spanish frontier.

What the papers have not yet made public is the cool but inflexible determination of the French government and army to attack Germany if Germany attacks Czechoslovakia. This more than anything else is believed to have caused Reichsfuehrer Hitler to hold his fire. The French determination apparently will remain the same if Hitler should change his mind.

EX-KAISER'S GRANDSON ARRIVES IN NEW YORK WITH RUSSIAN BRIDE

New York, May 26.—[Special.]—Prince Louis Ferdinand of Prussia, grandson of the exiled former kaiser, arrived today on the Europa with his bride, who was the Grand Duchess Kira of Russia, daughter of the Grand Duke Cyril, pretender to the Russian throne.

The prince, who is 30 years old and who a few years ago was a Ford mechanic in Detroit, said he and his wife were beginning a world tour, a wedding gift from the exile at Doorn. At the end of the tour they will return to Germany, where the prince will resume work as an air executive.

Saturday the couple will go to Hyde Park to the home of Mrs. James Roosevelt, mother of the President, to spend the week-end with Mrs. Roosevelt and the President. They also plan to visit Henry Ford in Detroit.

ICKES, IN LONDON, TELLS WHY HE WED SECRETLY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 26. — Harold L. Ickes, United States secretary of interior, arrived in London tonight with his bride, the former Miss Jane Dahlman of Milwaukee, Wis., whom he married in Dublin, Ireland, on Tuesday.

"We married secretly because I did not want all this," Ickes told reporters pointing to a battery of cameras with which he was greeted in Paddington station. He insisted his visit to London was purely personal and had no political significance.

"I am just plain Mr. Ickes for the present," he added. "I shall be here three or four days and, of course, will call at the American embassy."

Interviewed earlier today in Fishguard, Wales, where he and Mrs. Ickes landed, Ickes was reported to have said that "neither President Roosevelt nor any of my fellow members in the cabinet knew about my plans."

[Previous reports from Cork, Ireland, said President Roosevelt had known that Ickes was to be married.]

CZECHS SPY NAZI BOMBERS; SEND UP PURSUIT SHIPS

German Pilots Turn Back Across Frontier.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, May 26.—(AP)—Two German bombers were reported to have crossed the Czechoslovak frontier today near Asch, home town of Konrad Henlein, leader of the Sudeten German [Nazi] party. Asch is in the western extremity of the country.

The incident followed upon other cases of aerial trespassing which aided in deepening pessimism over prospects of a real peace between Czechoslovakia and her minority of 3,250,000 Germans.

A semi-official report said the Czechoslovak air defense sighted the bombers late in the afternoon and sent up two pursuit ships. The invaders thereupon were said to have swung back over German territory.

Sight Plane Over Skoda Works.

A government spokesman reported three border violations yesterday by German aircraft. In one case, he said, a fighting plane was sighted over the famous Skoda munitions works at Pilsen. The spokesman said the plane was identified by observers who were able to distinguish its number.

The foreign office already had informed Dr. Ernst Eisenlohr, the German minister. There had been fourteen instances of border violations, involving thirty-four planes, between last Thursday and yesterday. In some instances, it was stated, the planes came over in formation.

A summary of the aerial trespassing incidents was sent to the official German news agency in Berlin by the Czechoslovak news agency.

Czechs Decline to Protest.

Official sources said the minister in Berlin had not been instructed to protest against the flight over Pilsen as the government did not wish to stir up more argument than necessary.

[The German government on Wednesday protested to Prague against seven alleged border incidents. It charged that Czech army planes had flown over German soil on reconnoitering trips.]

Frantisek Machnik, defense minister, meanwhile started a tour of inspection of frontier defenses.

Officials were gloomy over a reiteration of demands by Henlein for self-government for his followers. The demands were made in an interview with a correspondent of the London Daily Mail.

[Henlein warned a solution of the Czech-Sudeten German issue "must be found by autumn," and warned that if it were not settled satisfactorily it might lead to a ruinous war.]

See No Reason for Talks.

This stand was interpreted here as meaning the Sudeten Germans would not come to terms with the Czech government except on the autonomy basis. This virtually would amount to complete independence from Prague, it was said, with the corollary of complete dependence on Berlin.

If that really is the Sudeten German position, officials said, there was not much use in trying to resume conversations begun Monday between Henlein and Premier Milan Hodza on reconciling their differences.

[In Rome the Fascist press gave stronger backing to Germany against Czechoslovakia and Hans-Georg Viktor von Mackensen, German ambassador, conferred with Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister.]

FINDS FEW SOLDIERS

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, May 26.—Until they are convinced that all danger of attack on their country is over the Czechs will continue to keep under arms the same number of men as at present. THE TRIBUNE correspondent estimates that number to be about 350,000, although government spokesmen say the figure is too high. The whereabouts of that army is a mystery.

After making a trip from Prague to the border at Eger by auto and passing through Sudeten territory, the correspondent can say confidently the army is not on the Prague-Carlsbad-Eger line, which is one of the indicated routes of invasion from Germany.

Finds Signs of Activity.

On the six mile road between Eger and the frontier post this correspondent found these signs of military activity:

1. At one point a number of trees had been felled and dragged halfway across the road.

2. At another point a barricade of loose stones about three feet high had been set up halfway across the road.

3. One sentry was on duty at a tiny bridge over a brook.

On the return trip to Carlsbad only small groups of two and three soldiers were seen in villages along the route. In towns closer to Prague there were a considerable number of soldiers.

Seek to Soothe Nazis.

The conclusion of this correspondent, backed by observations of foreign military attachés, is that there virtually are no soldiers along the northern frontier. Few troops were sent there because the government wants to appease the Sudeten Germans who call the presence of troops among them a "provocation."

In addition, the Czech general staf is credited with the belief that the heaviest attack will come from the south—from former Austria. Undoubtedly there is big concentration of troops in the region of Bratislava, a fact borne out by the difficulty experienced in getting permits to travel freely in that region.

CZECH-NAZI AERIAL "INVASIONS"

(Story in adjoining column.)

Aerial trespassing by German and Czech army planes is increasing tension between the Berlin and Prague governments. The Czechs yesterday reported that two German bombers appeared near Asch. On Wednesday a Nazi plane was sighted over the Skoda munition works at Pilsen. The Germans protested against seven aerial "invasions" by Czech planes, some of which are shown on map.

AMERICAN SLOVAKS LAND IN POLAND WITH AGREEMENT OF 1918

GDYNIA, Poland, May 26.—(AP)—Poles and Slovaks waved their respective flags today to welcome a delegation of 100 American Slovaks who arrived on the liner Batory. The Americans, on their way to Czechoslovakia, brought the agreement of Pittsburgh, Pa., signed June 30, 1918, to be exhibited during celebrations of the twentieth anniversary of the Czechoslovakian republic's birth next Oct. 28.

[The Pittsburgh pact was an agreement among Czech and Slovak societies in the United States on the principle that Czechoslovakia, whose independence then had not been proclaimed, should grant cultural self-government to Slovaks — Slovak schools, language, and administration. The late Thomas Masaryk, who was to become president of Czechoslovakia, attended the Pittsburgh meeting.]

Eleven Slovak Autonomist party leaders from Czechoslovakia and forty-seven Slovakian peasants in colorful costumes, guests of the Polish Slovak society of Warsaw, welcomed the American visitors. Peter Hletko of Chicago is leader of the American delegation.

Nurse Applies for License to Wed Harold McCormick

Application for a license to wed was filed yesterday in Los Angeles in behalf of Harold F. McCormick of Chicago and Miss Adah Wilson. At Pasadena, Dr. Donald J. The license application was filed by Miss Wilson, who was Mr. McCormick's nurse during a recent illness and Oscar Lawler, an attorney.

VIENNA, May 26.—(AP)—Conservative private estimates set at 450 today the number of Austrian Jews who have taken their own lives since the absorption of Austria in Greater Germany.

The suicide rate among Jews, however, was said both by government officials and Jewish community leaders, to have fallen 70 per cent in the last two weeks. No official total of Jewish suicides was available, but the government reported there had been 360 between March 12 and May 7.

Official reluctance to admit suicides and Jewish fear to discuss them have hampered investigations of rumors of more than eighty in the last two weeks. Fifteen attempts at suicide by Jews in that period, including nine actual deaths, however, have been verified. An official report of the suicide of Edmund Eissler, Jewish composer, was erroneous.

Minnie Fallon, Grammar School Supervisor, Is Ill

Miss Minnie E. Fallon, assistant superintendent in charge of elementary schools, is in the Sacred Heart sanitarium in Milwaukee for observation for an infection, it was learned yesterday. She was taken there Sunday after physicians had noted a steady increase in her blood pressure for several weeks.

ENGLAND OFFERS TO BE 'UMPIRE' IN CZECH-NAZI ROW

LONDON, May 26.—(AP)—Great Britain today sounded out both Germany and Czechoslovakia on a plan to send British observers to their troubled border as a means of lessening tension. Germany was understood to be not unfavorable to the plan.

It was disclosed that William Strang, head of the central European department of the foreign office, would report on the proposal after visiting British diplomats in Berlin and Prague.

The observer idea was said still to be indefinite. It was assumed, however, it would entail unofficial "umpires" who would give Britain unbiased reports of border incidents and help her in the rôle of peacemaker.

BRITAIN TO SET UP BOARD TO GOVERN ARMS INDUSTRIES

Chamberlain Bares Plan to Speed Up Production.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 26.—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain today took a hand in negotiations to solve labor troubles arising from Great Britain's program to speed up production of armaments and trades unions' suspicions of the government's foreign policy.

At a meeting with twenty-five trades union congress leaders at his official residence the prime minister revealed that the cabinet plans to set up a national tribunal representing the government, employers, and labor to work out details of coöperation in the arms industries.

Call Chamberlain a Fascist.

The meeting was sought by the trades union chiefs to express criticism of what they regard as Chamberlain's pro-Fascist leanings. Present at the session were Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary; Sir Thomas Inskip, minister for coördination of defense, and Sir Horace J. Wilson, the government's chief industrial adviser.

Sir Walter Citrine, general secretary of the Trades Union congress, objected to Chamberlain's recent speeches praising Premier Mussolini. He told the minister that the unions were reluctant to aid the arms speed-up program for fear the weapons would be used to support Fascist powers.

Chamberlain denied he is a Fascist or that the British were supplying Europe's dictator nations with arms. He defended the British-Italian pact, which many Laborites oppose, and upheld the British government's policy toward Spain. He warned the only alternative was a general European war.

[Britain supports a policy of nonintervention in Spain and has refused loyalist Spain's plea for arms shipments.]

Aim to Meet Any Challenge.

In appealing to the unions for coöperation the prime minister expressed the view that if the rearmament program proceeded smoothly for two years Britain would be strong enough to meet any challenge.

Following the conference it was pointed out in labor circles that the Trades Union congress has no authority to commit any individual unions on the arms issue and that decisions must be taken independently.

Queen Mother Mary Is 71; Has Luncheon for Family

LONDON, May 26. — (AP) — Queen Mother Mary, the unbending guardian of orthodoxy in Britain's royal family, was 71 years old today. Batteries in Hyde Park boomed salutes, and public and private buildings hoisted flags, but Queen Mary's only celebration was a family luncheon party.

Veteran Bridgetender Faces Girl's Charge Today

John Weckler, 59 years old, 2108 Sheffield avenue, for 22 years employed as a bridgetender by the city, will be arraigned in the Court of Domestic Relations today on charges of taking indecent liberties with a neighborhood girl 10 years old.

NAVY WILL MOVE TO ATLANTIC FOR NEXT WAR GAMES

Washington, D. C., May 26.—(AP)—The navy, taking a step interpreted by Senator William E. Borah [R., Idaho] as a warning to Fascist nations, today announced that the United States fleet would be shifted temporarily to the Atlantic early next year for war games off the coast of South America.

Borah, a member of the senate foreign relations committee, said it was his guess that the shift of the fleet, which has been in the Pacific most of the time since 1932, was a caution to totalitarian states not to interfere in affairs of the western hemisphere.

Intentions Kept Secret.

"I don't know what the President and the navy department have in mind, but that may be one of the objectives," commented Chairman David I. Walsh [D., Mass.] of the senate naval affairs committee.

In addition to Borah, another member of the foreign relations committee expressed belief that the transfer was a move to impress European Fascist nations with the intention of the United States to maintain the Monroe Doctrin.

Asking that his name not be used, he said he had been informed authoritatively that the navy had two objectives in view:

1. To impress Europeans with the desirability of forgoing any effort to promote totalitarianism in South America.

2. To display the United States' sea power to Central and South American nations, with the idea of demonstrating that this country is capable of carrying out its good neighbor policy by helping prevent the overthrow of their constitutional governments.

Fleet to Visit Fair.

Officially the fleet is coming to the Atlantic merely for training and to pay a sociable visit to the New York World Fair.

Some 150 warships and 50,000 men will make the journey through the Panama canal for a five month stay in the Atlantic. Only one other such move has been made since the nation's sea power was concentrated in the Pacific in 1932. That was in 1934, when President Roosevelt reviewed the fleet at New York.

The fleet is expected to sail from the west coast early in January.

FIRE DAMAGES NEW BUILDING.

Fire of undetermined origin did damage of nearly $2,000 yesterday to the recently completed six story building at 421 East Illinois street that is to be occupied by the Kraft-Phenix Cheese corporation.

Whether you are leaving town or holidaying in and about the city, you'll find these Suma-Kool rayon suits will fit into the picture. This summer fabric has an extraordinary talent for protecting that well-groomed look that is threatened by all the forces of hot weather. It is cool to the touch; it resists wrinkling; it holds its shape when heat and humidity do their worst. These suits are man-tailored, with details you would expect in much more expensive suits. The lapels are smooth and flat, the collars hug the neck in back, the broad shoulders and slim waists flatter the figure.

115 ARE INJURED IN C. I. O. RIOTS IN TWO CITIES

Police Battle Pickets at Detroit and Akron.

toll of a battle between 600 pickets and 175 policemen at the strike besieged American Brass company plant. Most of the fighters were summoned to the battle from other plants at the call of Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers' union, a C. I. O. affiliate.

Today's rioting was only one of many acts of labor violence here which have caused physical injury to hundreds of persons in recent months.

Several Employés Injured.

Martin said nearly fifty U. A. W. members alone were injured in the fighting this afternoon. In addition to the policemen several company employés were hurt. Most of those injured incurred cracked heads and bruised bodies, and at least two policemen and several pickets were believed to have suffered skull fractures.

The riot lasted nearly half an hour and spread over several blocks near the brass plant. At the height of the battle a sound truck shuttled through the crowd, its loud speakers blaring encouragement to the C. I. O. fighters.

U. A. W. members rallied quickly to Martin's call and swelled the lines of the Mine, Mill, and Smelter Workers' union, members of which have picketed the brass plant since April 19 in protest against a wage cut. The large force of pickets caused the mobilization of police in the expectation trouble was brewing.

Pickets Beat Workmen.

The riot began when loyal workers, who have been operating the plant since May 12 despite the strike, emerged from the factory at 4:30 p. m. and hurried to their automobiles.

The waiting mob hurled stones and bricks, stopped the cars, and pulled workmen out and beat them. The heaviest fighting occurred in a street which had been barricaded for repairs and in which some of the workers' cars were trapped.

Squads of policemen, including 25 mounted officers, charged the combatants. The C. I. O. pickets tore the stafs from their banners and wielded them as clubs. Police used their nightsticks and loosed tear gas. One policeman was injured when a tear gas bomb exploded in his hands. As the injured fell their comrades pulled them away, and the battle went on.

Police Disperse Pickets.

Police finally forced the C. I. O. men to retire and the injured were picked up and taken to hospitals or to first aid stations maintained by the U. A. W. Many were treated at the scene by neighborhood doctors.

Arthur H. Quigley, vice president of the brass company, said the plant was not being run by strikebreakers and that all those working today—estimated at approximately 500—were employed before the strike.

Several Detroit manufacturers were reported to have considered plans to move their operations away from this city because of the numerous strikes and labor disorders. One of these was the Bohn Aluminum and Brass company.

RECALL OPENING OF CHICAGO'S BIG FAIR TONIGHT

Ceremonies marking the fifth anniversary of the opening of A Century of Progress on May 27, 1933, will be held tonight in the Museum of Science and Industry in Jackson park. Trustees of A Century of Progress, employés of the exposition, and other Chicagoans have been invited to attend the memorial program, which will include a reproduction of the Arcturus ceremony, used to open the original fair.

Dr. Philip Fox, director of the museum, who had charge of the ceremonies on the opening night of the 1933 fair, will describe how the late prof. Edwin B. Frost of Yerkes observatory originated the idea of using light rays from Arcturus to open the fair. Then a transcription of the ceremonies will be played. Rufus C. Dawes, president of A Century of Progress, will make the anniversary address, and motion pictures of exposition scenes will be shown.

NEW YORK SLAYER EXECUTED.

Ossining, N. Y., May 26.—[Special.]—Terrence Roberts, 26 years old, of Manhattan, was put to death in the electric chair at Sing Sing tonight for the fatal shooting of Harold Cliff in a $23 holdup in a rooming house in Manhattan last August.

Seize Two Taxi Drivers on Robbery Complaint

Sol Lieb, 27 years old, 1250 South Lawndale avenue, and Alex Cohen, 33, of 1951 Humboldt boulevard, taxicab drivers, were arrested last night by Policemen Frank Bradac and Edward Reemar of the North avenue station on complaint of Victor Gapinski, 40, of 817 North Wood street, that they had robbed him of $19 and his pocket knife at Damen avenue and Rice street.

ROB DRUGGIST AND DENTIST.

Two gunmen, one of whom covered his nose with adhesive tape for a disguise, netted an even $100 in a robbery in John Gregg's pharmacy, 6859 South Western avenue, last night. They got $78 from Gregg and $22 from Dr. Vincent E. Zopel, 6243 South Karlov avenue.

"I FOUND THE EASIEST WAY TO SAVE MONEY and it's all due to American Family Soap!"

Says MRS. JOHN PATTEN, JR.
"My husband gives me the same allowance today that he did a year ago. But since using American Family Soap, all of my clothes last so much longer that I've more money now than ever before. It's certainly true that it is cheaper to buy good soap than new clothes."

THERE'S no mystery about the amazing way American Family Soap turns out a far whiter, sweeter-smelling wash than ordinary soaps—without boiling, scrubbing, hard rubbing, or the use of strong bleaches.

For laboratory tests have proved that American Family contains as much as ⅓ more suds-making material than other leading brands of bar soap in this territory—including soaps containing naphtha.

It's this extra suds-making material that gives American Family Soap greater washing power. That produces the rich, creamy, active "DOUBLE SUDS" which float out even the grimiest dirt in record time, and with utmost ease to clothes.

Because these "DOUBLE SUDS" take the place of boiling, scrubbing, hard rubbing and strong bleaches, colored fabrics retain their gay brilliance indefinitely. White clothes come out snowy white. All washables last unbelievably longer.

A short trial with American Family Soap will reveal why this famous brand has been the leading seller in this market for over 90 years. And why countless thousands of women know—"It's cheaper to buy good soap than new clothes." Made by Procter & Gamble.

DR. MORGAN EXPOSES A SYSTEM.

The day that Dr. Arthur E. Morgan was fired from the chairmanship of the Tennessee Valley authority was an evil day for the politicians in power. They thought they had him where his conscience would trouble them no longer. It was a miscalculation so vast as to be almost comical. Today he is not on the spot; they are.

Dr. Morgan has now presented his formal indictment to congress and the country, an indictment which his enemies must reply to if they can. With a wealth of circumstantial detail, he has accused the other members of the board of attempting to deceive congress and hoodwink the country. The most damning of his charges, because most easily understood by the man without technical training, are those which concern the Berry land deal. There can be little doubt that Dr. Morgan was fired for refusing to hold his tongue about this matter; having exposed the deal, he had to go. Now those who threw him out can defend their act only by defending their conduct in the matter.

Senator Berry of Tennessee is an influential Democratic politician who was hand-picked by the White House for his seat in the United States senate. Before that he had served in the NRA organization, and with the collapse of NRA was made coördinator of industrial coöperation. He was and is a political big shot.

When Maj. Berry entered a claim against the TVA for damages to certain lands which were destined to be flooded, Dr. Morgan's suspicions were aroused. The value of one set of claims, alone, was put at $1,600,000. Dr. Morgan believed the lands to be nearly worthless for the purposes set forth in the claim. He so advised his associates and the legal staf of the TVA. His opinion was so far ignored that the decision was reached to conciliate Maj. Berry's claim as if no suspicion was attached to it. This decision was the joint product of David E. Lilienthal and Harcourt Morgan, the other two members of the TVA board.

For reasons which may or may not be brought out in subsequent hearings, the agreement to conciliate was finally abandoned and condemnation proceedings were instituted instead. The suspicion is that the administration men on the TVA board came to the conclusion that the subject was too hot to handle as they had originally intended to handle it. However that may be, the fact, as charged by Dr. Morgan, is that even then his colleagues refused to make a thoroughgoing investigation of the Berry claims. It was Dr. Morgan's own initiative, he says, which finally turned up the terms of the deal between Maj. Berry and his associates by which Maj. Berry and a certain C. A. Harris were to receive 62½ per cent of any money collected from the government. Dr. Morgan likewise discovered the further fact that the mineral claims were acquired only after it was expected that the lands would be flooded.

Thanks to Dr. Morgan's efforts, the claims finally were thrown out in court. About the same time he was ousted.

The implications of the Berry deal, as Dr. Morgan has presented it, are ugly, but they fit precisely into the contemporary pattern of political jobbery and corruption. Morally there is little to distinguish the TVA-Berry deal from the Hopkins-WPA deals which are being exposed day after day in congress. It has been proved that money voted by congress to feed the hungry has been used for the grossest kind of political corruption. In Pennsylvania, in Kentucky, in Florida, Iowa, and other states men have been given to understand that unless they vote right their relief will be cut off. Far from resenting this abuse, Mr. Hopkins has actually issued orders to his subordinates to refuse to testify before grand juries investigating the misuse of public money. He will permit no interference with the system.

Dr. Morgan's account of TVA and Senator Wheeler's account of WPA check at every point. They argue an organized use of the public's money to promote the political fortunes of the insiders. There has been no scandal in the nation's history to compare in magnitude and swinishness with that now on view.

MORE SCORN OF LAW.

The murder of William S. Brown, president of the General Drivers' union in Minneapolis, is the latest event in the bloody story of labor politics in that community. Brown was killed by an associate and supposed friend in circumstances, as told by the confessed killer, which show how cheap human life has become after years of turmoil. The murderer, Arnold Johnson, says Brown showed a roll of $200 which Johnson suspected Brown had "got some place he shouldn't," so he ordered Brown to give it to him at the point of a gun. When Brown resisted, Johnson shot him twice. "I don't know why."

Later Johnson confessed to two associates in the union and "persuaded" them to go with him to where the body was found in a car.

Police were mystified, the news report asserts, by the crime. We suspect they were more mystified by its confession, for Minneapolis murders, at least in the labor and political world, are neither confessed nor punished. There was the murder of Patrick Corcoran of the truck drivers' union and vice president of the Minnesota Federation of Labor, about six months ago. The law has not yet caught up with that, and there is little likelihood that it ever will. Before that there was the assassination of Walter Liggett and Howard Guilford, two editors of publications who had been printing too much about politics. In the underworld probably every one knows who did and who ordered these killings. But Minneapolis justice has not touched them. The alliance of crime and corrupt politics continues to operate efficiently in that community.

These crimes are the inevitable result of the sort of politics that has been tolerated in Minneapolis and Minnesota in recent years. Public riots have been supported by troops instead of being put down in the interest of public order. The law has been flouted and violence encouraged. No one with any common sense imagines this is in the interest of labor. It was in the interest of bosses—allies in labor and politics—vicious parasites on reputable workers and on the community. Murder has been rendered safe in Minneapolis by the alliance of crime and politics.

CANDID, INDEED.

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Words has permitted the phrase "candid camera" to slip into the language without so much as a peep of protest. This convinces us that the society is just a bunch of bums. They still have tantrums [or is it tantra?] about "moron," which they say means idiot, not satyr, but at best it wasn't much of a word and was hardly worth a fight. They fuss about "ballistics," too, as if the policeman's use of the word could confuse Prof. Einstein's calculations or as if Prof. Einstein's use of it could enable some gunman to escape the law.

But "candid" was a fine word, of most respectable lineage. Originally it meant white; just that and nothing more. A candidate, in case you don't know it, was a Roman citizen who advertised the fact that he was running for office by wearing a white toga. Today Roman citizens do not run for office and a candidate for a job in Rome must wear a black shirt. That's the kind of perversion you would expect under Fascism, but the democracies can't boast of treating the little fellow much better. He's one of the dictionary's underprivileged children.

In English the word candid came to mean splendid and illustrious. From shining white to illustrious was an easy jump and nobody can reasonably object to it. Pretty soon candid began to mean free from bias and then it moved a little nearer the tracks and came to signify not malicious. There is a difference between the two which the subtle mind will apprehend. Finally it worked around to frank and outspoken. All these changes had kept our hero humping to cover a growing territory, but he was getting by, minding his own business as best he could, when along came the little cameras.

And now look what's happened. Lying on every sidewalk and half way up every telegraph pole is a monomaniac taking a picture. Candid camera men, indeed! There is certainly nothing splendid about these persons, and their whole object is to remove the luster from the illustrious. The old idea in portraiture was to make a citizen look like a statesman; the new idea is to make a statesman look like a stuffed shirt. The successes are appalling. One might almost conclude that it was a pushover. Candid, which once meant free from bias and malice, now means twisted and malicious.

You can't speak of a candid camera man if candid means frank and outspoken. The fellow is a traitor by choice. He will hire small boys to trip you so that he may make an enduring record of the sprawl. He will receive a prize for the picture at the next international show, provided the broken arm is clearly shown. He is a lurker in the shadows. His artistic standards are those of a small boy drawing neighborhood portraits on a blank wall.

There he is, the perfect product of the third decade of the twentieth century.

MR. HOOVER IN THE SENATE.

The continued contribution of Herbert Hoover to the discussion of national affairs is winning for him, in spite of the cheap and shallow detraction to which he has been subjected, an increasing authority among thinking citizens.

But his influence might be made still more effective if the people of California would do themselves and the nation the service of sending Mr. Hoover to the senate, if he will consent to represent them. In that conspicuous arena Mr. Hoover would have increased influence upon public policy and legislation, an effect to be desired by reflective citizens, even those who, like THE TRIBUNE, have not invariably agreed with him.

HEART BALM ON THE WAY OUT.

A Massachusetts law declaring that "breach of contract to marry shall not constitute an injury or wrong recognized by law" has just been approved by Gov. Hurley. It is worthy of note that, like the Indiana anti-golddigger measure, it was sponsored by a woman legislator, Representative Katherine Foley, mother of three daughters.

Intelligent women have strongly supported the movement to get rid of the so-called heart balm lawsuits, recognizing that they are no protection to reputable womanhood, but are a means of blackmail exploited by unscrupulous women and lawyers. Far from protecting womanhood, these scandalous actions offer occasions for contempt and discredit. Massachusetts is a conservative state with a high standard of lawmaking, and its example will encourage other states to take action if they have not already done so.

TIMES CHANGE.

[Milwaukee Journal.]

Up in Marquette county, Wis., not far from Portage, are two farms where John Muir, one of the world's greatest naturalists, shaped a career. In thousands of schools, at the suggestion of the United States forest service, his birth centennial was observed April 21. He was author, philosopher, naturalist, geologist, and inventor, born in Dunbar, Scotland, April 21, 1838. He went with his family to Milwaukee when he was 11.

From a Marquette county farm to a place in the world where Emerson, friend of Thoreau, said: "He is more wonderful than Thoreau." From dollar a week food in North hall at the university, where he baked his potatoes in a hot air shaft and read by an alcohol lamp, to offers of professorships in practically every great American university. From grubbing the rocks out of the 160 acre hickory farm under the domination of a purgatory-fearing father to sleeping in the open with the President of the United States.

Not bad for a boy who today would be called underprivileged!

ARCHERY NEEDS a press agent, or somebody should Tell William. Our State street movie stooge reports the conversation between two elderly women emerging from the Chicago after seeing "Robin Hood." LILAC FANTASY.

Suppose that you and I should meet some night
(Let's say there was a moon)
And all the air was gently stirred,
Weighted with lilac bloom.
Suppose all else had gone to rest,
Too dead, or dumb, to see
The brilliant light that thrilled the world
Because you'd smiled on me!
Suppose that you should touch my hand
(Ah, Love, how sweet!)

Bettie of the Hedges (Maywood.)

SOME DAY we are going to find out about all the lesser craft that go up the Chicago river. One of the best close range views is from the secluded corner of the main lounge at the Arts club overlooking the river, a favorite place for tea. Yesterday afternoon the water was gray green, a match for the gray green woodwork and draperies of the window beside which we were having tea and toast. A great tug, shaped exactly like a huge black flatiron, came past, and a few minutes later a shabby, dirty little boat, her stern awash. Water Lily was the name painted on her scarred side.

A PROFESSIONAL MAN from whose offices there is a view down the river to the farthermost loop link bridge sees them lifting their ponderous lengths frequently as spring river trafic gets under way. He thinks they are like elephant trunks, massive and graceful, lifted up, held for a time, then lowered with graceful precision. Probably you will always think of them as elephant trunks now, too. We do.

How About Your Old Friends?

"We will buy your old pipe. Come in for details." Thus reads a sign in a drug store window at Madison street and Hamlin avenue. I was no less surprised than I would have been if I had been invited to trade in my old wine in a tavern. In fact, much liefer would I trade in my old books than my old pipes. Louis Newberger.

A TYPIST EMPLOYED in the Will county department of public welfare complained frequently about hanging participles and split infinitives. One morning recently she found the following notice on her desk from her boss:

> Having been informed that a hanging participle is just a pain in the neck to begin a sentence with, and that a preposition is a lousy word to end a sentence with; furthermore, that it is rotten form to ever, in English, split an infinitive, we the undersigned, hereby resolve to never again offend in any way our high and mighty typist. Having taken this pledge, we solemnly swear to always keep it, so help us, John Rogers and Pat.

THE ITALIAN LADS who crowded Seward Park center to watch the boxing bouts held under the auspices of the North Side Boys' clubs the other evening would have been interested in the identity of the agreeable-looking young man with the deep-set eyes who sat in the second row with the Boys' club sponsors. Had they known it was Melvin Purvis, former ace G-man in the Chicago district and capturer of Dillinger, they would have been swarming about for autographs. Purvis, in town for a few days, is interested in boys' activities and went to the dinner at St. Philip's church and the boxing bouts later with Kenneth Montgomery, a director of the club.

THE CHURCH OF ST. PHILIP BENIZI stands near the west end of Oak street, and the two or three straggly green trees inside its high iron fence are almost the only bits of green in the area. The contrasts of a great city are graphically illustrated within the short confines of Oak street, which runs from the Gold Coast area, through a Negro section and an Italian section, to the rubber and candy and shoe factories grouped at the end of the street. Standing in front of St. Philip's, in the heart of a tenement district, one can see the towers of a de luxe apartment building, the Drake towers, on Lake Shore drive, silhouetted imposingly against the sky only a half dozen blocks away.

ONE OF THE POPULAR RESIDENTS of the vicinity is Dr. Angelo J. Lendino, a dentist, who gives his leisure to his work as executive chairman of the north side civic committee. The committee of resident Italians works with the North Side Boys' clubs in sponsoring a program of recreation that keeps the youth off the streets and turns hoods in the making into sportsmen and athletes. Another well known figure in the vicinity is young blond Edward Haydon, efficient supervisor of the activities of the North Side Boys' clubs, of which John P. Wilson Jr. is president. Haydon knows all the residents and all their joys and troubles—a popular Nordic among the black-eyed, swarthy residents of Little Italy.

THE GLUTTON'S CAPACITY.

PIE, egg, frankfurter, or corn on the cob eating contests are reported from time to time and we all marvel at the prowess of the winners. Can the body hold such a large quantity of food? Most of us consider a breakfast quite substantial when it consists of fruit, two eggs, a slice or two of toast, a couple of rashers of bacon, and coffee. But not so the redoubtable James Buchanan Brady [Diamond Jim] who, according to his biographer, was served for a light morning repast a few chops, a beefsteak, eggs, flapjacks, fried potatoes, hominy, cornbread, muffins, and a beaker of milk.

Of a certain hearty eater it may be said: "Well, Jones is a valiant trencherman." Such chaps are recognized as prodigious feeders who may devour as much as six strong men. An article in the Gentleman's Magazine for 1743, signed Will Lovemeal, tells the accomplishments of one such who, during a meal, was forced to have the table moved six inches out into the room because of his gradually distending stomach.

In the Philosophical Transactions for 1745 a certain Dr. Mortimer told of a 12 year old boy who consumed an average of 65 pounds of food per day. The lad is said to have suffered from such a voracious appetite that he had to stuff himself constantly.

Brillat-Savarin, in his "Physiology of Taste," cites the case of a citizen of Bregnier who at luncheon dispatched an enormous bowl of soup, a huge plate of boiled meat, an entire leg of mutton, a fine capon, a large salad, a cheese the size of his head, and numerous bottles of wine. Of the mutton he left nothing but the bone, of the capon nothing but the skeleton, and of the salad nothing but the bowl.

A recent story from Tennessee lauds the achievement of a WPA worker who swallowed 79 eggs at a meal, while a New Jerseyite is said to have disposed of 84 hot dogs in 15 minutes. Tales of gourmands leave no room for doubt as to the food conquests of these experts in mass consumption.

Can these "horrible examples" be true? Yes, at least some of them. When at rest the average stomach will hold [without stretching] three pints. But with larger meals it can dilate so as to take care of a gallon or more. In fact, air can be pumped into the adult stomach, ballooning the structure—sometimes without pain—to a five or six quart capacity.

Six dozen hen's eggs, raw or cooked, will bulk but little more than three quarts. Seven dozen hot dogs will measure about four quarts, and a generous sized cream pie about one quart. Hence, with an understandable amount of stretching, a big eater can accommodate, as far as room is concerned, six or seven dozen eggs or the same number of frankfurters.

But what is the signal that tells us when we have had enough, when the stomach is loaded to the point beyond which digestion will not proceed in due order? As the gastric pouch expands there is a reflex nervous impulse which conveys the sense that appetite has been satiated—in other words, that enough has been ingested. Occasionally the reflex does not present itself and the individual may continue gorging until vomiting, a common result, comes on.

With professional gourmands — those who find most of the thrills of life at the table—the stomach increases in size because of frequent and large meals until its holding power, as compared with that of the ordinary adult, seems to be unending.

Of course, gluttony can become a habit, but what a burden upon long suffering digestive fluids. No one is advised to enter a gourmandizing contest unless he is in excellent training, with a goodly string of prizes to his credit. While there is little if any danger of rupture of the organ, acute pain may arise, so severe as to require a powerful narcotic for relief.

RECOVERY IS USUAL.

Mrs. F. C. writes: [1] Will you tell me if a child of 2 years of age who has had acute nephritis can be cured? [2] For how long must the urine be examined? [3] Do the attacks recur?

REPLY.

1. Recovery from an acute attack of nephritis is the rule. Nevertheless, what is sometimes called a "weakness" may persist and [2] the urine should be examined every few months for a year or two to make certain that the inflammation has subsided completely. 3. Unlikely, but every effort should be made to avoid infections of all kinds. Put the child to bed with the appearance of fever from any cause.

BETTER BE EXAMINED.

Mrs. B. writes: What causes a person to look mottled or even black upon arising in the morning? The condition disappears on walking about the room.

REPLY.

Cyanosis, or blueness of the features, appears whenever there is too little oxygen in the blood. Apparently, something is interfering with the return of used blood from the region of the head to the heart. A careful physical checkup is advised.

SKIN OVERLY SENSITIVE.

Mrs. S. writes: I find when I am exposed to direct sunlight my face becomes quite red and has a tendency to perspire. Why, O why?

REPLY.

Your skin is no doubt overly sensitive to ultraviolet light. The capillaries dilate quickly and you blush. The irritation is great enough to stimulate the sweat glands. Using a dilute solution of alcohol as a lotion several times daily will help.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

F. O. writes: What is the difference between Bright's disease and diabetes?

REPLY.

Bright's disease is inflammation of the kidneys. It may be acute or chronic. It is recognized through numerous symptoms, including albumin in the urine. In diabetes the kidneys are normal as a rule. The malady exists because there is too scanty an output of insulin from the pancreas. It is recognized by a copious secretion of urine which contains sugar.

HEADACHES.

M. K. writes: What is the difference between a migraine headache and an ordinary headache?

REPLY.

In migraine, there is usually vomiting and some eye disturbances. Send a stamped addressed envelope for leaflets on the two varieties.

THAT Z IN CZECH.

Chicago, May 23.—The radio commentators have some difficulty in properly pronouncing Czechoslovakia, introducing a "k" sound in the first syllable to give it the same pronunciation as the English word, check.

This "k" sound is incorrect. There is in English no exact equivalent of the "ch" sound. "CH" is a guttural aspirate and is highly characteristic of the German language. Any one familiar with German will find the correct "ch" sound in the words bach, buch, auch.

Further the "z" is superfluous, the Cechs do not write the word with a "z"; it was undoubtedly introduced by foreigners who had difficulty with the original word.

If you wish to be entirely Cech, "ditch" the Czechoslovakia and write Cesko-Slovensko. EDWIN G. REISL.

TIRED OF BULLYING.

Chicago, May 23.—What this country needs is more men like Dr. Glenn Frank who have the courage to take issue with those members of the New Deal who are deliberately undertaking to browbeat and ruin every business, group, or individual that does not submit to every policy of the administration.

The administration's attack on Rural Progress will, no doubt, result in increased prestige and more advertising for that publication—due to the fact that Dr. Frank has taken the issue to the people and has shown so clearly what a vindictive and unjustified attack it was. In my opinion, the people deserve more of these illuminating fireside chats by leaders in industry and agriculture over national broadcasting chains.

The time has come when the Roosevelt administration can no longer pass off due criticism with a few remarks to the effect that the critic is a selfish moneychanger or an economic royalist. All the people can't be fooled all the time.

LESTER P. RIDDLE.

NEGRO IN THE SOUTH.

Chicago, May 23.—I have read about the wage and hour bill, the opinion of some one from Thomson, Ga. I have traveled in most large cities in the south and I differ with his statement that colored labor in the south is not trained. Southern whites want every one in the north to think he is inefficient so as to keep the ambitious Negro in the dark.

I have seen colored laborers on docks in New Orleans, Galveston and Houston; I have seen them loading coal; on saw mills; buildings; and all classes of common labor; also in fields. They are not inefficient.

As far as shiftlessness goes, we have it in both races. J. P. BROWN.

THOSE BACK DOOR SALESMEN.

Chicago, May 23.—In reply to "A Back Door Salesman," I wish to say that he is just one out of a hundred salesmen who make the back door. The back door bell rings constantly and some women have something else to do besides chasing back and forth to the back door. If I answered the back door bell every time it rang I'd be so dizzy they'd take me to Dunning for nuts.

Some women get a kick out of it, and if the salesman is the least bit handsome they will stand and blabber all day. Then when hubby comes home run and get a can opener. Mr. B. D. S., you really have no right to steal my time or bother me. Can't I be left alone in my own home? MRS. S. A. P.

GOOD JUDGES HERE AT HOME.

Chicago, May 23.—Chief Justice Hughes of our Supreme court, speaking before the American Law institute, urged the people to be "vigilant" in securing the election of "good judges" to preside over our nation's courts.

We Chicagoans should begin with our own local courts. This coming November we are to elect twelve associate judges for the Municipal court of Chicago. We should look to the selection of judges who are able and industrious and who are qualified by training and experience for judicial office.

The voters will be given an opportunity to elect such a judge in the person of Mary Berkemeier Quinn, a lawyer of fifteen years' experience in the courts, including three years as trial attorney for the legal aid bureau. She is a graduate of Vassar college, Yale Law school, and has a master's degree from the University of Wisconsin. She has been trained in the field of social service and has been an educator for years. Her candidacy for associate judge of the Municipal court is being sponsored by those who feel the need of a woman judge in those branches of the court where the rights of women and children are protected. EDW. JACOBSON.

YOU AND A MYRIAD OF OTHERS ARE RIGHT.

Chicago, May 25.—Far be it from me to question the accuracy of THE TRIBUNE's editorial columns, but in today's issue I find:

"The world is so full of a number of things
I'm sure we should all be as happy as kings"— attributed to Lewis Carroll!

If my memory serves me right the quotation is to be found in Robert Louis Stevenson's "A Child's Garden of Verses."

Perhaps the writer—reflecting on the "Boredom of Princes"—was thinking of "cabbages and kings"—indubitably a quotation from Lewis Carroll—it might be from Wallis in Wonderland!

Forgive my temerity in bringing to your attention the foregoing "lapsus pennæ"—at least it proves me.

A CONSTANT READER.

WHERE ARE THE CLEANERS?

Chicago, May 23.—Dorchester avenue [between 68th and 69th streets especially] has not been cleaned since early last fall. It is in miserable condition; the gutters are clogged up with mud so that any rain water cannot run off into the sewers. The alley on the west side of Dorchester is also in miserable condition.

My neighbors, as well as myself, would appreciate it if something would be done to remedy the above condition.

PARENTS TO BLAME.

Libertyville, Ill., May 25.—Thousands of your readers, many of them parents, read and were appalled this morning by the story of the "Minors Tavern Party," which ended so tragically. Why parents allow their children of 14, 18 or 19 to drive a car or stay out till the early hours of the morning, unchaperoned, is beyond conjecture. The parents are to blame. THERESA SNOW MICHAELS.

THE RANK AND FILE KNOW.

Chicago, May 21.—Capt. Corpening's article informs us that the war in Spain "greatly resembles the American civil war"; that "the rank and file on both sides haven't any idea what the war is all about"; that in order "to fortify political aspirations propaganda has injected the question of communism into the fray."

It may be added that the war in Spain resembles also the American war of independence, in that the Spanish people in their immense majority rebelled against an intolerably abusive group who constituted themselves as the government.

The rank and file of the people in Spain do know what their war is all about. Religious persecution, as has been carried on the last few years in Spain by the Reds in the so-called "republican" or "democratic" government there, certainly is known to the rank and file of the Spaniards on both sides. What the rank and file here in the U. S. A. and elsewhere don't know what it is all about is the coloring and suppression of facts in the newspapers.

TITLE TO PROPERTY.

Chicago, May 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Six years ago I became a widow and my late husband owned half interest in a farm.

1. When this said farm was purchased the deed was made to [2] my husband and his father. Since my husband's death, and I being his sole heir, [3] his half interest automatically comes to me. At least [4] it is recorded so at the County building in Indiana. However, I do not hold the deed to the place. I understand that it isn't necessary due to the fact that I gained this real estate through inheritance.

5. Is this true?

6. My husband's father, the original other half interest holder of the farm, lost his half on a mortgage. Now the party that foreclosed on him is living on the premises.

7. Is this legal? Can I demand rent for the use of land? Can I compel my husband's father to relinquish the deed? The taxes on this real estate haven't been paid for several years. Will it be safe for me to pay my half of the taxes?

A. B.

1. We assume from subsequent portions of your letter that the property is in Indiana.
2. You do not state whether the title was in joint tenancy.
3. This would not necessarily follow from the facts that you state.
4. If this is true it is a result of additional facts.
5. In general, where a person inherits property the probate proceedings take the place of a conveyance to him.
6. If you mean that the foreclosure as to his one-half preceded your husband's death, then this would destroy the survivorship feature of a joint tenancy, if any.
7. Where owners of undivided interests in real estate cannot agree, any one of them is entitled to force a division or a public sale by partition proceedings. The cost of such proceedings, including the complainant's solicitor's fees, are chargeable against the proceeds of sale.

CHICAGO TO KEEP ITS FAITH AGAIN WITH WAR DEAD

Memorial Day Parade to Climax Observance.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

"If other eyes grow dull and other hands slack and other hearts cold in the solemn trust, ours shall keep it well as long as the light and warmth of life remain in us."

These words of the late Gen. John A. Logan, contained in his famous order to G. A. R. posts seventy years ago this month, three years after the confederacy surrendered to the Union army, will be heard in most of Cook county's 120 cemeteries on Memorial day, Monday.

Gen. Logan, orator and soldier, was a native of Illinois and led a regiment of Illinois volunteers in the civil war. Before he had this regiment he fought in the battle of Bull Run. His division was first into Vicksburg, and he led the army of the Tennessee at the battle of Atlanta.

Past his statue in Grant park, the famous statue by St. Gaudens of Logan on his horse, will stream marching ranks, thousands strong, on Memorial day.

Foremost will be his old comrades, time worn uniforms encasing fragile bodies. They will ride in automobiles.

625 Units to Decorate Graves.

There will be many groups foreign to parades of Logan's day, including women in white costumes and women's drum corps. Then, too, there will be middle aged men with overseas caps on their heads, marching with sprightly step in the same column with sons, now grown and in their own military organizations.

Most dramatic of the pre-parade observances of Memorial day will be the traditional cemetery services. The 625 units of the Grand Army of the Republic Memorial Association of Cook County, organized in 1884 among G. A. R. posts and now including a dozen other groups, will place flowers on the graves of war dead. Speakers will quote Gen. Logan's order, and Lincoln's Gettysburg address.

At 11 a. m. Monday a salute to the dead will resound throughout the cemeteries. At 2 p. m. the parade will begin. Capt. Arthur Dawson, 88 years old, who enlisted in the Union army when he was 16 years old, will be the grand marshal. He is commander of the memorial association.

Only thirty-one members of the G. A. R. survive in Cook county and outskirts of the county.

10 Survivors to Meet.

The ten members remaining in the George H. Thomas post will hold services in Rosehill cemetery. Thomas Ambrose, commander, and Capt. Dawson, adjutant of the post, will be there. Women of Keturah Hoover tent, No. 10, Daughters of the Union Veterans of the Civil War, will assist.

The parade will be made up of four divisions. In the first will be veterans of the civil war and Indian wars and allied organizations. The second division will include United Spanish War Veterans and members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States. The third division will be made up of world war veterans and allied organizations, and the fourth will include nonveteran organizations such as R. O. T. C. cadets, Boy Scouts, the Polish National alliance, the Chicago fire department, and other units.

227 Legion Units to March.

All of the 227 posts of the American Legion in Chicago will have units in the parade. The Legionnaires will be led by the crack drum and bugle corps of Victory post, No. 7, and escorted by 6,000 troops of the 33d division, Illinois National Guard. Ninety squadrons of Sons of the American Legion also will march.

Henry A. Cohen, chief of staf of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, said his group would have its largest representation in Memorial day parade history. Behind massed colors will march the Elevator Operators Post band, national champions of the V. F. W.

As usual, the parade route will be along Michigan avenue, starting at Chicago avenue and moving south to Roosevelt road, where the marching units will disband. The reviewing stand will be in the plaza on the east side of Michigan avenue at Congress street.

Many Community Events.

Among community observances will be a parade on the west side, starting at 9:45 a. m. Monday from the 132d Infantry armory, 2653 Madison street, and ending at the Doughboy monument in Garfield park. A memorial service will be held there.

After a parade from St. Thomas Aquinas church, Washington boulevard and Leamington avenue, to the Brophy monument, Washington boulevard and Laramie avenue, other services will be held there.

Violinist Weds

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Yehudi Menuhin, young violinist, and his bride, the former Nola Nicholas, in London following their wedding there yesterday. The picture was transmitted to New York by radio.

LONDON, May 26.—(AP)—Yehudi Menuhin, 21, the violinist, was married today to rich, red haired Nola Ruby Nicholas, 19, daughter of an Australian aspirin magnate, at the Caxton hall register office. They said they would give each other a grand wedding present by going tomorrow night to Arturo Toscanini's concert at Queen's hall. The wedding was the first of three expected shortly in the Menuhin family.

6,300 CADETS OF R.O.T.C. WILL PARADE TODAY

Tilden and Fenger Units to Get Tribune Colors.

Chicago's 6,300 upper class cadets of 27 public high schools, with 22 bands setting the cadence, will march in exhibition and review on Michigan avenue today as the city celebrates R. O. T. C. day.

Col. Richard Dibos.

Thousands of high school and seventh and eighth grade pupils, dismissed from school, will swell the crowd which will line Michigan avenue as the cadets march north from Monroe to Ohio street, starting at 11:30 o'clock. Col. Richard Dibos of Morgan Park High school, cadet commander of the corps, and his staf will lead.

Turning at Ohio street, the cadets will march south on Michigan avenue to the reviewing stand at the Congress street plaza where Brig. Gen. Walter E. Prosser, commander of the 6th Field Artillery brigade, will award stands of colors presented by THE TRIBUNE, to the Tilden Technical and Fenger High school units, chosen as the best trained in Chicago. James B. McCahey, president of the school board, and William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, will speak.

The twenty-one outstanding cadets of the St. Mel's High school R. O. T. C. will be awarded medals for their excellence during their annual graduation parade at 1 p. m. in Garfield park.

Packing Employes Name Union as Bargaining Agent

Employés of Roberts and Oake, meat packing company, voted yesterday 254 to 61, for the Packing House Workers' union of the Committee for Industrial Organization as their agent in collective bargaining. The election was directed by L. C. Bajork, regional head of the National Labor Relations board.

FIND 3 WORDS FOR WHY BRIGHT PUPILS FLUNK

They Spelled 'Laziness' in the Old Days.

Tests conducted at Senn High school have supplied an answer to the old riddle of why some pupils of high intelligence fail in their studies. Results of the tests, announced yesterday by Superintendent of Schools William H. Johnson, indicate that the causes are two: apathy and work avoidance.

Though these two attitudes used to be summed up in one word—laziness—Dr. Johnson believes that they are separate and distinct and may warant separate remedies. The tests were concerned with thirty-six students, selected by elimination from among 475 who failed during the year. There are 4,000 pupils in the school.

Excellent Minds, Yet Fail.

Intelligence tests showed that ninety-six who failed had excellent minds. It was then thought that these might have failed because they lacked academic knowledge or other attributes, such as good reading habits. Knowledge tests were given, the results being compared with standard grades made on the same test by 3,500 successful students.

Of these, thirty-six made grades as good as or better than those of the successful pupils. And they were found to have intelligence ratings of from 100 to 140 [100 is good; over 120 is excellent] and to be equipped with sound knowledge and skill.

Considering this, the problem of their failure was even more puzzling. The investigators resorted then to tests to determine emotional and attitude influences. Teachers were asked to list behavior symptoms that they believed impaired the school work of the thirty-six. Tests were devised to reveal attitudes.

Find 14 Harmful Attitudes.

An attitude was assumed to be present in a student's personality if the teachers' list and the attitude test agreed. Among the group, fourteen harmful attitudes were observed. These were:

Hostility toward school, poor cooperation with others, too great reliance on others, refusal to accept suggestions, inferiority complex, overconfidence in self, privileged character attitude, refusal to reason about a problem, shyness, deceptiveness or dishonesty, superficiality, work avoidance, lack of joy in work, and refusal to work unless bribed or begged. Only four students showed no detrimental attitudes.

"For these four," reads the report, "there is a possible lack of adaption on the part of the school. It may be necessary to find other activities of instruction to bring the work successfully to them."

Based on the study of the others, the report adds:

"The outstanding influence working against the school is the tendency of young people who are intelligent and capable to avoid or shirk work. This is much in line with the spirit of the day in which people are turning in large numbers to a dependent attitude."

TRUANT OFFICER DIES.

Delphi, Ind., May 26.—[Special.]—Miss Florence Scott, 49 years old, school attendance officer, died today after two months' illness.

BUILDING TRADES CHIEF THREATENS CITY WPA STRIKE

Patrick Sullivan, chairman of the Chicago Building Trades council, threatened yesterday to call strikes on all WPA building projects in Chicago if the council's disputes with the WPA in the country towns are not settled soon. Strikes were called Tuesday on all building projects in Cook county outside Chicago.

Sullivan said that union carpenters, bricklayers, and other building trades mechanics have been denied jobs in the coutnry towns. In their stead, he asserted, the Works Progress administration has been using nonunion and incompetent help.

"We have no quarrel with the WPA in Chicago," Sullivan said, "but we will have to strike the Chicago jobs if the WPA doesn't correct conditions in the country towns."

CIGARET FIRES BED; MAN DIES.

MILLION TO QUIT CITY FOR 3 DAY VACATION JAUNT

At least a million Chicagoans are expected to leave the city over the Memorial day week-end by automobile, bus, train, and airplane. Most of those taking advantage of the three-day holiday will leave tonight and Saturday morning, returning Monday night.

According to estimates by Otto K. Jelinek, city trafic engineer, and the Chicago Motor club, more than 300,000 automobiles will crowd the highways leading to Wisconsin and Michigan resorts and downstate Illinois and Indiana.

Bert Vanderwarf, head of the motor club's touring bureau, said at least 150,000 middle western motorists are expected to come into Chicago to take advantage of the city's sport, park, and recreation facilities.

Railroads, air and bus lines are preparing to handle unusually large crowds.

REP. PETTENGILL BACKS VAN NUYS IN SENATE RACE

To Stump Indiana Against Democratic Machine.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 26.—[Special.]—Congressman Samuel B. Pettengill, South Bend Democrat, who represents the 3d Indiana district, today announced he will stump Indiana this fall in support of Senator Frederick Van Nuys as an independent candidate for reëlection.

Rep. Pettengill.

Pettengill, who is retiring voluntarily from congress, paid tribute to the integrity and independence of Senator Van Nuys, who decided to run as an independent after the Democratic McHale-McNutt-Minton organization vetoed his renomination although he is a former Democratic state chairman.

Cites Van Nuys' Record.

"Certainly I'm for Fred Van Nuys," Pettengill said. "Why not? What has he done to be read out of the party? What is wrong with his voting record on agriculture, labor, the service man, or business.

"But because he opposed the court packing and reorganization bills and condemned sitdown strikes he is to be denied renomination. And by whom? It is a sorry thing that 935,000 voting Democrats have to sit around until two or three men present them with a hand picked candidate.

"Several million men at work a year and a half ago now are without jobs. They are asking the reason why.

"They should look at the index of industrial production of the federal reserve board. It shows the total volume of goods produced by industry. This index is the most reliable measure we have of prosperity or depression.

Traces Industrial Decline.

"That index shows that the highest production of goods during the present administration took place in December, 1936, and January, 1937. On Jan. 12, 1937, the reorganization program was introduced. Three weeks later, on Feb. 5, the Supreme court bill shocked the country.

"The index of industrial production immediately started to slide down hill.

"Investors immediately became cautious. Dollars went into hiding. Then came the sitdown strike, with tacit support from Washington, and from that time on conditions have constantly grown worse.

"So who is right, Van Nuys or those who are trying to defeat him? Van Nuys is right. He is right from the standpoint of constitutional government. He is right from the standpoint of jobs. The record proves it beyond the shadow of a doubt.

"The voters of Indiana are more interested in jobs than in the political grudges a few Democrats have against Senator Van Nuys. I am certain the people will prefer a tried statesman to a political Charley McCarthy."

C. I. O. PICKETS CONVENTION IN HOTEL; SEIZE 6

Six men connected with the Committee for Industrial Organization were arrested yesterday for handing out circulars at the Edgewater Beach hotel where a convention of Philco radio dealers was being held.

The circulars called attention to a labor dispute in Philadelphia with the Philco corporation, and carried protests under the signature of the United Electrical, Radio, and Machine Workers' union. Two of the C. I. O. men were arrested in the hotel by Lieut. Charles Egan of the state's attorney's office, and the others were picked up outside.

The prisoners, who were held without charge at the Summerdale station last night, and who will be questioned at the state's attorney's office today, are James Carey of New York city; William Jacobs, Michael Toohey, and David Neish, all of Philadelphia; Fred McCall of Newportville, Pa., and Lief Jorgensen of Chicago.

Pickets who have been marching in front of the Consumers Coöperative Service store at 5635 Harper avenue for several days were withdrawn yesterday after the five clerks in the place joined the Retail Clerks Protective association. Six hundred residents of the Hyde Park section, including many professors and students of the University of Chicago, own the store. Dr. Arthur C. McGiffert, professor of theology, is chairman of the board of managers.

MRS. C. W. BARNES LEAVES $500,000; WILL PROBATED

The will of Mrs. Alice Reid Barnes, wife of Clifford W. Barnes, president of the Sunday Evening club, was filed yesterday in the Probate court of Lake county at Waukegan. Mrs. Barnes, who died at her home, 500 North Sheridan road, Lake Forest, on May 12, left an estate estimated at more than $500,000.

After several bequests, including one of her jewelry and personal effects to her daughter, Miss Lilace Reid Barnes, Mrs. Barnes left the bulk of her estate to her husband. On his death it will go to the daughter. In addition she disposed of a $100,000 trust left her by her father, Simon Reid, Chicago merchant and founder of Reid-Murdoch company. Of this amount $37,000 goes into a trust for the Visiting Nurse association, $37,000 in trust for the Young Women's Christian association, and $26,000 in trust for the Sunday evening club. A probate hearing will be held on June 16.

News of Radio

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

While radio is much occupied with providing new personalities for the movies, once in a while some one who has fed in the Hollywood pastures returns to the broadcasting fold. Such is Cliff Soubier, whom you used to hear on First Nighter. The veteran character actor appeared in several films, but he has returned to Chicago and is regularly featured on the National Barn Dance and the Uncle Ezra series, as well as occasionally on several other dramatic shows.

Mystery control was demonstrated for the first time publicly last evening at the national convention of Philco Radio and Television corporation in the Edgewater Beach hotel. This device enables the listener to select any one of eight stations, to change to any other, to adjust the volume, or to turn off the set from any point within a hundred feet of the receiver without use of any connecting cables, wires, or the home electric circuit. In short, it is control of the radio through radio itself.

As demonstrated, the living room receiver is tuned or retuned by flicks of a dial somewhat similar to that employed on a telephone. The control unit is housed in a portable compact case weighing a couple of pounds.

Philco declines to disclose the secret of operation. It was explained that each control is adapted specifically for one receiver and that no interference from a neighbor who might have a similar instrument is possible. They are adapted at present only to the higher priced receivers.

Larry Gubb, Philco president, told the convention that his company is planning to spend millions of dollars this year in the biggest advertising and sales campaign in its history. More than 800 distributors and executives from every state and twenty foreign countries attended the meeting.

Robert T. Anderson of Harrisburg, Ill., who yesterday was designated winner of the William S. Paley amateur radio award, paddled a boat through icy waters at great danger to his life to send a radio message warning that Shawneetown residents were gravely imperiled as the 1937 Ohio valley floods swept over the town. Through his efforts a rescue vessel was summoned and transported 1,500 refugees out of the Shawneetown district. The award will be presented to Anderson by the CBS president at a luncheon in New York on June 9.

News and notes: Vivian Della Chiesa, who has risen to popularity as a radio and opera singer in her home town, plans to leave here early next month to sing in Italian and Swiss opera houses.

Dr. Maude Slye, cancer research expert of the University of Chicago, will discuss cancer and hereditary influences on the Adventures in Science program at 6:30 this evening on WBBM-CBS. . . . Prof. Quiz has finally revealed his real name—Dr. Earl Craig—and he lives at the Barbizon-Plaza hotel, New York. . . . The Minneapolis Symphony is to broadcast a concert at 8 tomorrow night over WMAQ-NBC with Dmitri Mitropoulous as guest conductor.

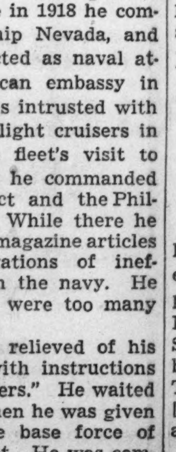
REAR ADMIRAL MAGRUDER DIES; NAVAL VETERAN

Newport, R. I., May 26.—[Special.]—Rear Admiral Thomas Picket Magruder, 70 years old, who retired from the navy eight years ago, died today of heart disease at his summer home in Jamestown. He became a rear admiral in 1921 after having held the rank temporarily for a year.



Admiral Magruder

Admiral Magruder was born in Yazoo county, Miss., and was graduated from the Naval academy in 1889. He was made an ensign in 1891 and later was promoted for bravery in the war with Spain.

After the armistice in 1918 he commanded the battleship Nevada, and from 1920 to 1921 acted as naval attaché to the American embassy in Paris. In 1925 he was intrusted with the command of all light cruisers in connection with the fleet's visit to Australia. After that he commanded the 4th naval district and the Philadelphia navy yard. While there he produced a series of magazine articles that contained allegations of inefficiency and waste in the navy. He even said that there were too many admirals.

After that he was relieved of his command and left with instructions merely to "await orders." He waited until August, 1929, when he was given the command of the base force of the United States fleet. He was commanding at New Orleans, 8th naval district, when he retired, Dec. 1, 1931.

COMPLETE 750 FOOT TRANSMITTER TOWER FOR STATION W-G-N

Steel workers have completed erection of W-G-N's new transmitter tower which rises 750 feet above the ground, the highest structure in the middle west. It is located on Route 53 two miles north of Itasca and 24 miles northwest of the loop. The slender radiator may be seen for many miles—the highest mark on the skyline. The new tower together with the previously announced building program for W-G-N will increase the signal strength of the 50,000 watt station and improve reception in many areas. The tower, which weighs 65 tons, is delicately balanced on a "pin point" porcelain insulator. Guy cables are attached at 286 foot and 562 foot levels, anchored to concrete piers 450 feet from the base of the shaft.

PLANE CRASHES FROM 1,200 FEET; PILOT HURT BADLY

Edward Nevers, 1114 148th street, East Chicago, was critically injured last evening when an airplane he was flying crashed into the ground from a height of 1,200 feet. The ship landed in a field at 167th street and Kedzie avenue and was demolished. Nevers, who is 31 years old, was taken to the Ingalls Memorial hospital in Harvey.

He had left Dixie airport at 163d street and Western avenue a short time before in the ship, a Curtiss Junior with a 45 horse power Szekley engine. Several persons on the field said he was practicing vertical turns in the little pusher monoplane when he stalled the machine and it went into a spin. Nevers had only 25 hours of flying time. He owned the plane in partnership with Harold Brown, who also lives in East Chicago.

TAMMANY AID ARRAIGNED ON RACKET CHARGE

Enters Not Guilty Plea; 8 Others Indicted.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 26.—[Special.]—Indicted on thirteen counts, James J. ["Jimmie"] Hines, powerful Tammany leader and chief patronage dispenser of the Roosevelt administration in New York City, late today pleaded not guilty to charges that he is a ringleader in the policy game racket here.

The indictment stated the racket flourished through a corrupt alliance of politics and the underworld.

The plea of the ruddy faced Democratic leader, 61 years old, was entered before Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora. It followed shortly after the indictment was handed up by Brenton Welling, vice president of the Bankers' Trust company and foreman of the extraordinary grand jury.

Arrested in Dewey's Office.

Hines was arrested yesterday in the offices of District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, successful young prosecutor of Manhattan's far flung rackets. The political boss appeared in Judge Pecora's court today to furnish the remaining $5,000 of the $20,000 bond, which he stipulated he would do yesterday and the judge accepted his plea.

Four of eight other defendants in the policy racket indictment will be arraigned before Judge Pecora tomorrow. The other four are not in custoy.

Hines, who is the Tammany leader for the 11th assembly district embracing Harlem and the Columbia university section, generally is regarded as the most powerful individual leader since the death of Charles F. Murphy. He has been the ally of Postmaster General James A. Farley in the Roosevelt administration's conflicts with Tammany.

Early Roosevelt Supporter.

Long before the 1932 Democratic convention in Chicago, Hines supported Roosevelt when the rest of the Tammany leaders were plugging for Al Smith. As a reward Hines has been allotted a considerable portion of the federal jobs passed out in New York.

Twelve felony counts and one conspiracy count for violating the lottery laws of the state in connection with the racket were contained in the indictment.

The indictment accused Hines and the other defendants of conspiring "to influence, bribe and intimidate judicial officers and others charged with the duty of enforcing and administering the laws of the state of New York, to refrain from properly performing their duties to the end that those engaged in these criminal enterprises would be permitted to continue their criminal acts unmolested and without being subjected to the punishment and penalties provided by law."

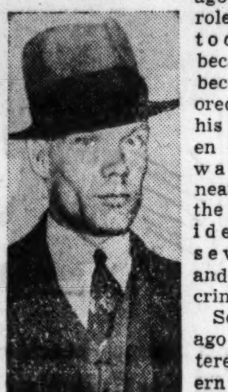
WOMAN VICTIM SNARES PAROLEE; SOLVE 7 HOLDUPS

Arthur Trygg, an ex-convict who turned to robbery several months ago while on parole, was in custody yesterday because he had become enamored of one of his young women victims and wanted to be near her. During the day he was identified in seven holdups and admitted the crimes.



Arthur Trygg.

Seven weeks ago Trygg entered the Western Union office at 2655 North Clark street and at the point of a pistol forced Miss Clover Doremus, 26 years old, the clerk, to hand over the money in the cash drawer. He returned again three weeks ago and held her up. Before he left he attempted to make a date with her. She refused. Yesterday he was seized, carrying a revolver, near her office.

Trygg was sent to the parental school of truancy when he was 12 years old. He was returned twice and spent six months in the St. Charles school for incorrigible boys. In 1929 he was sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary for robbery. He was paroled in 1936.

BOTH SIDES REST IN YOUTH'S TRIAL FOR KILLING GIRL

New York, May 26.—[Special.]—Both sides rested their cases today at the first degree murder trial of Donald Carroll, 16 years old, for the fatal shooting of his sweetheart, Charlotte Mathiesen. Only the summations and the judge's charge remained to be heard before the jury retires to deliberate.

Evidence brought out in the trial tended to show the youthful pair decided on a suicide pact as the only way out of their difficulties after Charlotte had learned she was to become a mother.

HUNT FOUR FAST TALKERS IN GEM FRAUD, ROBBERY

Versatile Crooks Collect $3,376 on North Side.

Police last night were hunting a band of three men and a woman who combined robbery with swindling to take $3,376 in cash and jewels from two north side residents.

Two of the men and the woman made their appearance first on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Sarah Krulerwitch, 55 years old, of 918 Winona avenue. They spoke to her in Yiddish, telling her they had known her husband, Simeon, a scrap iron dealer, in Europe.

The husband said that night that he did not know the three visitors and advised his wife to be cautious. But when they called again yesterday Mrs. Krulerwitch admitted them. They bound her with her husband's neckties and took jewelry valued at $1,200 and $72 in cash.

Find Second Victim.

Shortly afterward, Isaac Mandelbaum, 70 years old, a retired business man who lives at 1411 Farwell avenue, was approached by a woman and a man as he sat on the lake front at Morse avenue. They spoke to him in Yiddish, introducing themselves as visitors from Milwaukee.

As the three were chatting, a third man—from Russia, he said—happened along and offered eighteen diamonds for sale. The Milwaukee couple appeared anxious to buy, but Mandelbaum urged that they allow a jeweler to examine the gems. The couple said they knew one on Morse avenue.

They all went to an apartment building [Mandelbaum said later he couldn't remember the address], and met the "jeweler." He, too, wanted to buy the diamonds. Thereupon Mandelbaum went to a safety deposit box at 7001 Clark street and withdrew $1,145 in cash and jewelry valued at $959, which he handed over. The ncame the question of dividing the stones.

Attendant Is Suspicious.

The Russian said that until the balance was paid on the diamonds, he would prefer that Mandelbaum keep them in his safety deposit vault. This was agreeable to Mandelbaum and the five separated. Just as he was putting the stones into the box he displayed them to an attendant who said they looked remarkably like glass. This opinion was confirmed by a jeweler to whom they were shown by Lieut. William Stegman of the Rogers Park police.

After the Rogers Park and Summerdale police had compared notes, they were convinced that the couple supposedly from Milwaukee had figured in both cases and that the fake jeweler had been with them in the Krulerwitch robbery.

MANY GROWERS WILL IGNORE AAA TOBACCO QUOTAS

Plan to Store Excess for Sale Another Year.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lexington, Ky., May 26.—[Special.]—Burley tobacco growers are preparing to store in barns and warehouses that portion of their crop produced in excess of marketing quotas effective under the government's AAA crop control plan.

Smokers apparently will have no reason for becoming concerned over supplies for the next year. Many farmers are planning to ignore their allotment given out recently from Washington through local AAA organizations, although the majority are expected to comply.

Protest AAA Control.

An automobile trip through the burley tobacco belt reveals that more and more growers are becoming dissatisfied with the AAA plan. Since receiving their orders to make severe cuts in their tobacco acreage this year, many Kentucky colonels are vigorously pecking the floor with their canes, protesting with their farm operators and tenants against government interference with their cropping plans.

Those who are complying with government orders have in most cases set out plants on every acre of land they are permitted to use. With many planting their usual acreage, an excess poundage of tobacco is expected, providing the season is normal. Plants are being transplanted in good time and the outlook so far is favorable for a big yield on the limited acreage to be grown.

Plan Organized Storage.

Officials of the Burley Tobacco Growers Coöperative association are talking about the necessity of the organization making provisions for storing excess tobacco which farmers would be forbidden to sell under the marketing quota, approved recently by a majority of voters. If the association goes into the business of holding the tobacco over, the growers will deliver their extra poundage and take a receipt with the understanding that the crop will be held until it can be sold legally.

Most of the 1938 crop of tobacco already is in the fields in North and South Carolina, and in Kentucky farmers are well along with their work of transferring the plants from beds to fields.

Growers generally are making a careful study of the AAA regulations to see what disposition they can legally make of the tobacco raised above their individual quotas. Not many are planning to pay the penalty of 50 per cent of the selling price on tobacco sold over the marketing quota.

Some Sell to Neighbors.

Some planters sell the excess tobacco to neighbors whose production fails to exceed their quota. Others hope to find some use for it other than that found in the regular trade channels. But the common talk among growers now is that the wisest thing to do is to store the extra tobacco and not attempt to dispose of it during the year for which the quota is effective. Any or all of these schemes are legal under AAA regulations.

The cut in acreage ordered by the government is much more severe than most farmers had expected at the time they voted for the marketing quota. North Carolina growers are allowed to raise only about 591,000 acres this year, as compared to 689,000 acres last year. Burley tobacco growers are ordered to cut their production about 25 per cent.

Approximately 70 per cent of the burley crop is raised in Kentucky, mainly in the central part of the state, and the balance in Tennessee, Ohio, Indiana, North Carolina, and Virginia.

Worried by Fluctuations.

Growers indicate that they are not expecting the curtailment program to solve their difficulties. It is apparent that most of them are willing to cut their acreage to collect government checks, and because they are so discouraged over extreme price fluctuations they are willing to try anything. Farmers say that in selling last year's crop the market opened at about 22 cents a pound the first week in December, jumped up to as high as 29 cents a pound, but closed the first part of February at only 15 cents a pound.

It is said that if growers could have received an average of these prices they would have been satisfied, but some who sold early got almost twice as much as those who sold near the end of the marketing season.

Drunk Driver Gets 10 Days; Reckless Motorist Fined

Francis Dickey, 766 West Pershing road, was sentenced to ten days in the county jail by Judge Stephen Adamowski in the Safety court yesterday for driving while intoxicated. Alfred Bonkoski of Algonquin, Ill., was fined $25 and suspended from driving for three months for reckless driving.

First thing upon arising add the juice of a Sunkist Lemon to a tall glass of cold or warm water. Into another glass put a half teaspoon of baking soda (bicarbonate). Pour back and forth a few times and drink. Do this daily, and see how you benefit!

DRIVER PINNED AGAINST TRUCK BY AUTO; DIES

Edward Thompson, 42 years old, 8035 Woodlawn avenue, was fatally injured yesterday when an automobile driven by Steve Rosenorn, 7830 Kingston avenue, struck him and pinned him against his parked coal truck at 7344 South Shore drive. Rosenorn was slightly injured and was taken to the South Shore hospital.

Richard Hadley, 57 years old, 2043 Darrow avenue, Evanston, died in the County hospital last night of injuries which he suffered in an automobile collision last Monday. Hadley, a mechanic employed by the Evanston city water department, was riding in a car with Leon Price, 1800 Dodge avenue, Evanston, when he collided with one driven by Charles M. App, 2643 North Laramie avenue, an insurance broker, in front of 640 North Western avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 335 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 258 were killed in Chicago where 6,971 were injured in the same period.

LAUNCH INQUIRY IN MINNEAPOLIS LABOR SLAYING

Police Mystified on Parts of Killer's Statement.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 26.—[Special.]—The Hennepin county grand jury was being held subject to call tonight for an investigation into the latest slaying of the Twin Cities' bloody labor wars—the killing last night of William S. Brown, president of the General Drivers' union No. 544, by Arnold Johnson, a minor union official.

"There appears to be more in this than is on the surface," said County Attorney Ed J. Goff as he ordered an inquiry from his office. "We are holding the grand jury subject to call to go into the case at a moment's notice when the police are ready."

Friend of Slain Corcoran.

State crime bureau agents also were active in the case, which presented numerous mysterious angles. It was the second labor slaying here in six months. Brown's friend, Patrick J. Corcoran, a power in the truck drivers' unions, was ambushed and killed last Nov. 17. His murder never has been solved.

Police were holding Johnson incommunicado. He was an organizer for the drivers' union, and confessed he shot Brown during a dispute over money after they had several drinks. In his jail cell Johnson, 33 years old, was quoted as saying: "I must have been drunk to do it."

In a formal statement the union ascribed the slaying to temporary insanity, explaining that Johnson had been under a doctor's care after friends noticed he was morose and depressed.

Seeks Brown's Cash.

Johnson, who was said to have been Brown's bodyguard for a time after the Corcoran slaying, was quoted as saying that he and the union president drove about town on union business yesterday. They had several drinks before they parked within a block of the union's offices last night.

"I believed Brown had more money than was necessary," Johnson was quoted as saying. "When I told him to give it to me he laughed at me. I shot him twice."

Police Chief Frank Forestal said Johnson told him he then drove Brown's car a short distance away and walked back to a tavern where he met Miles Dunne, a trustee of the union, to whom he recounted the shooting.

Police were puzzled by the fact that Brown's body apparently remained in the car at a busy intersection for several hours before being reported to them. They also were mystified by the absence of powder burns in the face of Johnson's statement he fired at close range.

Held with Johnson were three women, said to be acquaintances of Johnson and Brown. Two of the women were seized in Johnson's room.

VOTE TO INDICT FORMER G-MAN IN CHECK FRAUD

Three true bills charging operation of a confidence game were reported voted by the grand jury yesterday against Walter H. Wood, 5108 Berteau avenue, head of a plumbing equipment concern and formerly an official of the bankruptcy division of the department of justice.

According to Assistant State's Attorney Richard B. Austin, Wood issued 12,000 worthless checks during the year before his arrest three weeks ago. Before his scheme was uncovered he managed to cover most of the checks with funds derived from cashing still other checks. He is at liberty on $1,000 bond.

TRAFIC EXPERTS SEEK UNIFORM LAWS FOR NATION

A committee on trafic law enforcement was organized yesterday at a meeting of national trafic authorities on the Northwestern university downtown campus. Arthur T. Vanderbilt of Newark, N. J., who called the meeting, was named chairman, and Lieut. Franklin M. Kreml, director of the university's trafic safety institute, was appointed secretary. Dean Leon Green, law school, was host.

Vanderbilt said the committee would work with various committees of the American Bar association in making recommendations for uniform trafic law enforcement and procedure. The group will hold a second conference in December.

PUT THIS FOODS CHART IN HANDY POSITION TODAY

It Solves Problems of Weights, Measures.

BY MARY MEADE.

A woman has an old fashioned recipe calling for a pound of sugar or a pound of flour. How shall she measure that in cups? Another wants to cook spaghetti but doesn't know how much it swells in cooking and isn't sure how much of an eight ounce package to use. Still another has purchased bulk chocolate, and wants to know how she can measure two squares.

Mrs. X is out of sorts because she started to make a chocolate cake and has no chocolate. Can she use cocoa, and, if so, how much? Mrs. Y has no cake flour and wants to substitute all-purpose flour. How shall she do it? Mrs. Z has no sour milk for her gingerbread. How can she get the same results?

These all are common little annoyances in the kitchen and may be solved by a handy reference table or chart pasted somewhere near the front of one's best cookbook.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES OF FOOD STAPLES.

3 teaspoons	1 tablespoon
16 tablespoons	1 cup
1 wineglass	¼ cup
Butter, 1 lb.	2 cups
¼ section	½ cup, 12-14 pats
Bread, long loaf	24 slices, 4-5 cups crums
Cheese, American, ½ lb.	2½ cups grated

Noodles, 8 oz. package	7 cups cooked
Spaghetti, 8 oz. package	5 cups cooked
Nuts:
Almonds, salted, 1 lb.	3½ cups

Pecans, 1 lb.	3½ cups
Walnuts, English, 1 lb. broken meats	3 cups
Raisins:
Seeded, 15 oz. package	3¼ cups
Seedless, 15 oz. package	3 cups
Rice: 1 lb.	2 cups uncooked

Fine granulated, 1 lb.	2¼ cups
Medium granulated, 1 lb.	2 cups
Confectioners', lb.	3½ cups

SUBSTITUTION OF INGREDIENTS IN COOKING.

Chocolate and Cocoa: A fourth cup of cocoa plus ½ tablespoon of shortening is approximately equal to one square of chocolate. In substituting cocoa for chocolate in cakes, the amount of flour must be reduced.

Brown and White Sugars: Usually these may be used interchangeably, measure for measure. Brown sugar should be firmly packed.

Cake Flour and All-Purpose Flour: Cake flour must not be used for breads and rolls, as it does not contain enough gluten. To substitute all-purpose for cake flour in cakes and cookies, measure one cup, remove two tablespoons from the cup, and replace with two tablespoons cornstarch. The resulting product is likely to be less moist than if made with cake flour, but this is a fairly satisfactory substitution.

Sweet and Sour Milk: Sweet milk may be soured with lemon juice or vinegar for immediate use as a substitute for sour milk. Add a tablespoon per cup. When sour milk instead of sweet is used in baking, add one-half teaspoon soda per cup of milk and reduce the baking powder by two teaspoons.

ONION LOVER CAN ENJOY THEM IN THESE NEW WAYS

It takes a brave onion-lover to resist a platter of sizzling steak garnished with rings of friend onion. But why resist? Instead try some of these new ways of preparing them.

SHOESTRING ONIONS.

Cut skinned onions into paper-thin shreds. Fry in a heavy skillet with hot fat to a depth of one or two inches. The fat should be very hot. Transfer browned onions to a sheet of unglazed paper to drain. Sprinkle with salt.

BATTER FRIED ONION RINGS.

2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
½ cup milk
¾ cup cup cake flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 large onions

Add milk to lightly beaten egg yolks and pour over cake flour and salt which have been sifted together; blend well. Skin onions and cut across into ¼ inch slices. Separate into rings and drop into batter. Fry in deep hot fat until golden. Drain on absorbent paper.

FOOD MARKETS OFFERING MANY PICNIC BARGAINS

Snacks for Lunch Basket Are Featured.

BY HOMER NEISZ.

Retail food merchants in Chicago and suburbs have given over a generous portion of their bargain counter space to sandwich spreads, cookies, bottles of olives and pickles, beverages, and other knickknacks for holiday picnic lunch baskets. These items will be featured in stores generally today and tomorrow.

Those who are planning their regular home menus for the week-end will find it advisable to do more shopping around than usual because of the variation in prices between the different stores. A few more price tags have been marked down than up, but the price changes are far from uniform.

Stores to Be Closed Monday.

Food stores throughout the city and suburbs will be closed on Monday, Memorial day.

Butter is down 2 cents a pound in most stores, although a few have raised the price 1 cent since last week-end. Several brands of coffee came down 1 to 2 cents a pound this week. Some stores are featuring the lower priced brands of flour at 6 cents a 24½ pound sack under the regular price.

Carrots are down about 1 cent a bunch. Fresh tomatoes are 1 to 3 cents a pound lower than a week ago. Spinach and radishes are lower in virtually all stores. Fresh asparagus is lower than last week, but still is much higher than usual for this time of year.

Fruits and vegetables that are down in some stores and up in others include cabbage, bananas, green beans, both dry and green onions, and fresh peas.

Potatoes Are Higher.

Potatoes are higher than last week-end. Idaho baking potatoes are up 2 to 3 cents a 15 pound sack in most stores; some have raised the price even more. New potatoes are slightly higher.

Lemons are up 1 to 2 cents a dozen in most places. Both cooking and eating apples are higher in a few stores. Bunch beets, celery, grapefruit, and head lettuce are higher in some stores.

Items appearing for the first time this season on many green grocer counters are blueberries, cantaloupes, red raspberries, watermelons, cherries, and fresh peaches. A few stores also have dewberries.

Meat Prices Irregular.

Meat prices are irregular. Pork loin roasts are being featured in many shops at 1 to 4 cents a pound less than a week ago, but in other places the price has been raised 2 cents. Beef pot roasts are 2 cents a pound lower in a few shops. Round and sirloin steaks are down 2 to 4 cents a pound in some shops and up an equal amount in others. Frying and stewing chickens are down 1 to 3 cents a pound in some places. Cured hams are up 2 cents a pound in a few shops.

There was a mixed trend in live stock and wholesale meat prices at the stockyards during the week, according to federal reports. The better grades of beef steers and wholesale cuts of beef sold at about the same prices as last week. The top price paid for steers was $10.85 a hundred pounds.

Hog Prices Advance.

Hog prices advanced 5 to 10 cents a hundred to a top of $8.85. Pork loins sold 50 cents to $1 a hundred lower than last week on the wholesale market. Spring lambs dropped 35 to 50 cents and old crop lambs 65 to 75 cents a hundred pounds. Top price on spring lambs was $9.35 a hundred. Most wholesale cuts of lamb sold steady to $1 a hundred lower. A few of the better carcasses of spring lamb brought 50 cents to $1 a hundred more than last week.

The general price tendency was downward during the week at the central fruit and vegetable market.

HERE'S RECIPE FOR SHORTCAKE LIKE GRANDMA'S

Who hasn't heard: "But I want the old-fashioned kind of shortcake for my berries," from someone who remembers the mouthwatering sweet biscuit grandmother used to bury in crushed fruit? Here is a recipe that grandmother herself would approve:

OLD-FASHIONED SHORTCAKE.

[Serves 8.]

2 cups cake flour, sifted
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspon salt.
1 tablespoon sugar
4 tablespoons butter
About ¾ cup rich milk or cream

Sift flour, baking powder, salt, and sugar together. Cut in butter until lumps are size of small peas. Stir in milk with fork, stirring only enough to hold batter together. Knead gently for scant half-minute. Roll to half-inch thickness and cut with round cookie cutter. Bake on ungreased cookie sheet in 425 degree oven 12 to 15 minutes or until a golden brown.

CRISP COOKIES THAT COOK AND FAMILY ENJOY

Bar cookies are popular with cooks because they are so easy to bake—no rolling or molding necessary. They are popular wtih the rest of the household because of their crisp crunchiness and general goodness.

⅔ cup granulated sugar
⅔ cup molasses

Spread batter in greased pan to about ¾ inch thickness. Bake in a moderately hot oven [375 degrees] until done, about 20 minutes.

FRUIT SQUARES.

Fold in chopped nuts and candied and dried fruits cut in small pieces. Spread in wax paper lined pan to a thickness of one-half inch. Bake in moderate oven [350 degrees] until firm and slightly brown, 25 to 30 minutes.

THIS CHOCOLATE CAKE IS EASY TO MAKE AND ALSO IS ECONOMICAL

When the family is made up of cake eaters who consider this the only real dessert and prefer "chocolate, please," it's a comfort to have a recipe for an economical and quickly made chocolate cake in your files.

This one can be mixed and baked in a half hour, if you follow directions in the step-by-step order given. It is not a large cake, just about right for one meal if the family is not small. Baked in a greased ring mold [the 7½ inch size] and served uniced, with a chocolate sauce and the center filled with ice cream or fresh fruit folded into whipped cream, this is quite a gala dessert.

QUICK CHOCOLATE CAKE.

1 cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 squares chocolate
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons soft butter
1 egg
¾ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Melt chocolate and cool. Sift sugar. Beat butter and egg together well and gradually add sifted sugar, beating well with a wire whisk. Add sifted dry ingredients in three parts alternately with halves of the combined milk and vanilla. Beat the batter until smooth with a wire whisk. Add cooled chocolate and blend. Bake in a 350 degree oven until done about 20 minutes. This cake may be turned out and iced while still hot to save time, if desired.

STUFF SAUSAGE IN BAKED APPLE FOR SUPPER DISH

BAKED APPLES WITH SAUSAGE MEAT.

[Serves 6.]

6 large apples
1 cup well seasoned sausage meat
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoons brown sugar

Cut slice from top of each apple. Scoop out cores and enough of pulp to leave a ¾ inch shell. Chop pulp and combine with sausage meat. Sprinkle shells with salt and sugar and stuff with sausage mixture [the shells should be heaping full]. Bake in moderately hot [375 degree] oven until tender, 45 to 50 minutes.

RECTOR TO GIVE FAMOUS CURRY RECIPES SUNDAY

In Rector's café, years ago, an East Indian, who called himself Prince Rajah Smile, pushed a tray wagon from table to table offering curries which he prepared on the spot. He was an artist, and his artistry eventually brought him a large following of epicures.

In next Sunday's women's section George Rector writes the formulas for Prince Rajah Smile's most tempting curries: Chicken, shellfish, lamb. And then, because no self-respecting East Indian could conceive curry without chutney, Mr. Rector tells how chutney should be made.

To poeticize ordinary vegetables, serve asparagus, cauliflower, or broccoli à la Polonaise. Or create potatoes Anna. There are other delightful recipes in the Rector column.

Unity Advocate Is Elected by Presbyterians

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., May 26.—[Special.]—Nominated on a church unity platform, the Rev. Dr. Charles W. Welch of Louisville, Ky., was elected moderator of the 150th general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A. here today by a 3 to 1 vote over his nearest opponent. Dr. Welch, native of the hills of Tennessee, is the first southerner to hold the moderator's office in 46 years.

Despite the fact that the Rev. Dr. Henry Hepburn of Buena Memorial church, Chicago, nominated the Rev. Dr. Ezra Van Nuys of San Francisco, Cal., the Chicago delegation was reported to have voted for Dr. Welch almost to a man. Dr. Welch is a director of Presbyterian [formerly McCormick] Theological seminary, from which he was graduated in 1911.

Christian unity, especially between the Presbyterian church of the U. S. A. and the Presbyterian church in the U. S., the southern church which broke away 75 years ago over the slavery issue, was urged by the Rev. Dr. Joseph M. Broady of Birmingham, Ala., as he nominated Dr. Welch.

After recalling the Methodist reunion Dr. Broady urged Dr. Welch's election as the first practical move toward reopening reunion negotiations between northern and southern churches. Previous efforts begun in 1929 in St. Paul, Minn., under the leadership of Dr. Cleland B. McAfee, formerly of Presbyterian Theological seminary, Chicago, failed.

The Rev. Dr. William Hiram Foulkes of Newark, N. J., retiring moderator, had urged reunion in his address to the assembly. He spoke of the negotiations now under way between various churches which accept the deity of Christ.

The Housewife

One of the neatest and trickiest little tables ever invented is a cripple. It has only one leg But with that one it can do more things than most tables can with four.

It's intended for armchair use. When seated in your favorite lounge chair you just draw the table close, resting it on the arms, and the single leg gives it a firm support. It's ideal for writing, or reading, or working puzzles. You can even put your portable typewriter on it.

When not in use the leg folds under and the table can be kept in a closet. It takes up very little room.

It comes in unfinished wood with a beige leatherette top. It's in the medium price range.

Church Raises $75,000; to Avoid Foreclosure

A campaign to raise $75,000, needed to save the Northminster Presbyterian church in Evanston from foreclosure by bondholders, came to a successful conclusion last night. The final $6,000 was contributed shortly before midnight. The Rev. Robert Lee Logan, pastor, said that $10,000 will be paid on the debt June 1 and an additional $10,000 on Jan. 1, 1939.

Declares U. S. Needs Revival of Puritanism

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., May 26.—[Special.]—American morals are degenerating together with American manners. The continental sabbath has conquered America abetted by "carnal Christians." Cocktails and Christians have lost their inconsistency in the minds of many. Gambling is reaching into every area of society including the church. Bank nights are destroying the foundations of life more certainly than avowed gambling dens. These were among the charges made by The Rev. Earle V. Pierce, D. D., president of the Northern Baptist convention, opening the annual meeting here today.

There were 3,500 delegates this morning for the six day session.

"The blindness, the unbelief, the blighting heresy of the age reveals the failure of the church," Dr. Pierce said. "The church's failure is that while it is not of the world, it has wanted to be of the world, think as the world, live as the world instead of dwelling on the high and glorious plane of its redemption and its mission."

"The manners and morals of America are suffering from a recession that nothing short of a puritan revival can save us from, even as the puritan movement saved England and founded America," Dr. Pierce declared.

"There need be no unwarranted invoking of the power of the state in personal affairs such as sprung from the false union of the church and state with the puritans. But if the church lives on the low level of the world, it will perish with the world."

God's Holiness, the speaker explained, rather than changed social order is needed to bring harmony and order into industry.

Well Balanced Diet Needed at Adolescent Age

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS
[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Every girl and most boys in their teens want to be attractive physically—or at least as attractive as it is possible for them to be. Health is a big factor in the charm of young people, in the clearness of their skin, the brightness of their eyes, their general freshness and enthusiasm.

Since both good looks and physical fitness are the children's own ideals in adolescence, you can use both of them as arguments in putting over a program of plenty of rest, fresh air, exercise and good food—too often overlooked by even conscientious parents. All of this we were discussing in this column not long ago, saying we wished children at this period of extremely rapid growth and development, comparable to the baby's in its speed, might be given as much attention from the physical side as the baby receives.

We talk a lot about the personality development of our teen age boys and girls. We could help this side of their lives tremendously if we did all in our power to put these adolescent children into as fine physical condition as possible. The boy who hasn't had enough exercise and sleep won't be as stable; the girl who has stuffed on sweets and spent her afternoons and week-ends reading instead of in the fresh air will not be as alert and interested [and attractive] as if a wise maternal eye and firm hand had balanced their twenty-four hours properly [having gained of course, their coöperation].

Of the whole subject of the adolescent's physical well-being, the only one we're going to stress today is food. And this because, in spite of all that is written and written and written about nutrition, there are still literally multitudes of children who are not well fed. And these are not only children whose parents are poor or uninformed, but children of the well-to-do and the rich.

Only the other day I heard in the market two women in the "comfortable" class financially discussing a neighbor with two teen age children. "It's astonishing," said one; "their back door is near mine and they get no milk regularly, at all—and they never get oranges [they say so]—and their children are always stuffing sweets between meals."

An incident like this [call it gossip, if you will!] added to others I've witnessed, added further to the results of extensive studies of nutrition prove that many children who need not be so, are badly fed.

"Diet and Health Suggestions for Adolescents" will be sent on receipt of a large, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

SIZES 12 to 40

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

This smart one piece dress is one that will serve you well all through the summer, since it is comfortable and may be worn to all types of informal events, as well as during your hours at home. It has a V neckline with a soft collar which may be stitched. The puffed sleeves may be given the same treatment in lieu of cuffs. The princess lines make a belt unnecessary, and buttons lend a nice finish to the front. Both plain and printed cottons and linens make up well, checks and plaids being especially effective due to the simplicity of the frock's lines.

If you like, use the same pattern for a gayly printed cotton house coat for wear at home and for hostessing as well. Its lines are identical, except that it is instep length and may have long sleeves. If you wish, use a slide fastener instead of buttons.

Style No. 2095 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 4¼ yards of 39 inch material.

William Clows Wed 56 Years; Plan Auto Trip

BY JUDITH CASS.

FOR many years the senior William E. Clows went to the Coleman Lake club in northern Wisconsin to celebrate their wedding anniversary on June 1, but last year and the year before they stayed in their Lake Forest home and had their family with them. This year, however, they will spend the 56th anniversary of their wedding motoring to the Great Smoky mountains. They leave Monday morning for their trip and will return in about two weeks.

No women are allowed at the Coleman Lake club during May except when Memorial day falls on a day to lengthen the last week-end in May and then wives can accompany their fishermen husbands to the club for the holiday week-end. The Huntington B. Henrys, the Frank E. Wilhelms, the Huntly Gilberts, and the Hampden Winstons are going to the club this week-end. Hutchins and his bride.

Her new sloop, the Venture, has been launched at Saugus, Mass.

Summer Dinner Dress

[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

This summer dinner and dance dress of airy black net is worn under a dusty pink uncurled ostrich feather cape. Severely untrimmed, the fitted silhouette is achieved with soft shirring held in place with narrow bands of the net. A short bolero is also of the net and the underslip is of black taffeta.

Summer Hose Are Just Right on Tanned Legs

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Summer hosiery, as different from high fashion winter stuff as the seasonal temperatures, has been unpacked and the newest ideas are going fast. One of the best finds of fashion history is the new color called "creole," especially made to wear with brown trimmed white spectator sports footgear. Over the skin the color matches perfectly the brown lether trim on the shoes, and as the skin tans the color gets even better.

The fine smooth lace hose that go with jersey dresses in white or dead black rank second; another shade, called "bahama," is an all purpose street tone for the same clothes and also goes well with spectator sports outfits of linen, hop sacking, bright cotton prints, and the smart summer white alpacas.

Another discovery is the black chiffon hosiery to wear with fine black sheers for dress parade. They're as thin as a film, look like the peak of luxury, take inches off the anklelines, and wear surprisingly well. With black linen sandals, with dead white, or the smart black and white printed fabrics in footwear, they're extremely high fashion and flattering.

Summer hosiery for the sandal collectors still boasts lace toes and heels and comes in all glowing summer tones. These have been designed for the open heel and toe sandals for street as well as dress parade. Another sandal hose has shadow toes and narrow heels, there being just a suspicion of an extra film of chiffon over the sections that show through the most open aired footgear.

For all-purpose street and evening wear see the five new shades in exceptionally beautiful and glowing natural finish chiffons. The trick of getting the natural tone is achieved by dyeing all the thread before knitting, so that the colors retain an aliveness and beauty. Available sizes are eight to twelve, and that's real news. Proportionate lengths also. Ask for the shade called "ecstasy" for daytime wear with all summer clothes, "media" for a slick color for conservatives, and "glamor" for your newest party clothes.

All-Illinois Art Society Offers a Good Exhibit

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

One of the most attractive of the summer exhibits is the fifth annual spring salon of the All-Illinois Society of the Fine Arts. The show will hang in the Stevens hotel third floor gallery until Aug. 31.

This is a diversified show, colorful and gay. There are portraits, and several of these are amazingly fine, landscapes, still life, and marines. Nor is subject matter more varied than medium. There are works in oil, water color, black and white, and sculpture.

Three prizes were offered this year. The Gov. Horner $50 prize for an Illinois scene by an Illinois born veteran went to "Chicago Avenue and Halsted," by Jerome J. Klapka; the American Legion auxiliary department of Illinois prize for the best water color by an Illinois born veteran was given to "Park Near Notre Dame, Paris," by R. R. Epperly, and the prize for the best oil by an Illinois veteran to "May Morning," by Lyn E. Arent.

As it happens, there are very few works in the exhibit by Illinois born veterans, or indeed by veterans born elsewhere. This is not a soldier show. The majority of the works are by painters who lay no claim to having carried arms, many of them ruled out by their sex.

Women artists share the honors equally with the men. Probably the finest canvas in the show is a woman's work, the delightful "Portrait of Mrs. J. L. Kennedy," by Evelyn Bargelt. Running it an excitingly close second, however, is the fascinating "Reverie" [a portrait of a young girl], by Ewen Douglas. This is a radiant canvas, intriguing in each last minute detail.

Charles P. Killgore shows "The Garden of Santa Anita," lovely in its contours and modeling; Joseph Tomanek shows a "Study in Sunlight," an exquisite nude; Orrin A. White gives us "Old House in Tasco," balanced and rhythmic; Ethel Porter in "Spring" adds a vivacious touch; Minnie A. Carlson offers the charming "Japonica."

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

Preview.

Hollywood, Cal., May 26.—Searchlights, a dozen of them, are brooming the sky, and if you trace those beams of bluish light to their base you will arrive at the theater where a picture is to be previewed. In this case it was the Cathay Circle theater and the picture was "Alexander's Ragtime Band." You drive slowly along the trafic congested entrance to the theater, where limousines are depositing their celebrated passengers.

It is easy to distinguish Connie Bennett, Claudette Colbert, and Joan Crawford, because the theater foreground is a spray of white light, the huge arcs turning night into day.

From limousines and taxicabs those arriving look out upon a sea of faces and through the opened windows of the cars you can hear the celebs talking over the loud speaker system. As they alight from their cars astute publicity men from the studio usher the stars to the microphone and ask them to say a few words. In this way the thousands standing in the street, gaping at the stars, secure an added thrill.

Leaving the "mike," you walk to the theater door on a red carpet [rented by the studio for $75], under a protecting marquee that extends from the sidewalk to the ticket taker. Half way from the mike to the theater door photographers are snapping the celebs as they advance. The movie fans, held back by ropes, whistle and cheer their favorites.

You enter the theater and ushers in evening gowns show you to your seats. It is 8:20 and the wide floor is only partly filled. The curtain is still down, and on it is painted a group of early pioneers with a covered wagon in the foreground. The white horse on the right is molting, the paint having jarred itself loose from his chest in years of lifting and dropping the heavy curtain on which he is stabled.

The men read the attractive white and gold program. The women don't even look at the program, but immediately turn to see who else is in the theater. "I don't like her hairdress," the girls murmur disparagingly. "Whose hairdress," you mumble. "Paulette Goddard's," they hiss, indicating her in the row behind and to the right with the dinner jacketed earl of Warwick. It is a large theater, but within ten minutes they've spotted every girl in the place and know exactly what she's wearing—"Joan Crawford's hair is much lighter"; "Elaine Barrie shouldn't be wearing a muff"; "Connie Bennett is the smartest looking girl here"; "There's Ethel Merman with Cesar Romero"; "Alice Faye has six orchids"; "Who are the older couple with Tyrone and Janet Gaynor?"; "I'll bet Irving Berlin's wife is nervous."

By the time they've dissected the other femmes and the other femmes in turn have dissected them, the girls are ready to read the program, but it's too late. The lights dim and the newsreel comes on with a blare of trumpets. Lowell Thomas, fashions, Ed Thorgesen. Then the preview starts.

To us seated in the theater, watching the picture, this is just another preview. To Director Henry King, sitting near me with a red carnation in his dinner jacket, it is more than that. Back in 1921 King, the Virginian, was directing Richard Barthelmess in "Tol'able David." He was the most famous, or one of the most famous directors of silent pictures.

Now, within the last few months he has turned out "In Old Chicago" and "Alexander's Ragtime Band." He is watching it unreel now, with his ears glued to audience reaction. If this one clicks, he will have had two of the greatest pictures of the past twelvemonth to his credit.

Tyrone Power is watching it intently, too. So are Alice Faye and Don Ameche and Ethel Merman. Janet Gaynor leans over and whispers something to Tyrone after his first scene, and in the darkness you can see their heads close together as he listens. Ethel Merman covers her eyes when she comes on the screen, and doesn't look at herself until she starts singing her first song. Mrs. Jack Haley, sitting with Arthur Lyons, has her eyes glued on the screen watching her husband. I can hear Don Ameche chuckling close by, but can't distinguish him. Darryl Zanuck raises the sound, lowers it until he gets the exact level he wants.

The picture ends. It is a smash hit. You walk up the aisle slowly as the theater empties and out into the bluish-white light. A few people are shaking hands with Zanuck, others are congratulating Irving Berlin, still others are slapping Henry King on the back. But the Hollywood crowd is strangely lacking in enthusiasm, as though they felt disappointed that Zanuck had scored again.

"Miss Gaynor's car," the car caller is intoning over the loud-speaker. "Mister A. C. Blumenthal's car—Miss Crawford's car—Mister Sam Goldwyn's car." He is still calling off the names as you drive away. You turn left on Wilshire and purr along to the Beverly Brown Derby, jammed to the doors. You hear the Hollywoodenheads arguing that this was wrong and that was wrong with the picture, and you are amazed. "Alexander's Ragtime Band," or any smash hit, is a tonic for the entire industry, but this Hollywood is a funny town, bounded on the north by Malice, on the south by Envy, on the east by Exhibitionism and on the west by old Virginia ham.

SYNOPSIS.

Elizabeth Sandal is shocked to find her two children resent their father's will that unexpectedly left a fortune to her and did not mention them. Dorothea wants to have her own London flat. Oliver hopes to marry into wealth. Elizabeth goes off to Switzerland for a change and rest and meets Andrew Leicester, who was a groom at her wedding. Andrew, a widower, is returning after years of absence in China to meet his children. William, his son, lives with a bachelor relative. His daughter, Shirley, is with his wife's people. Shirley has become involved in a scandal with an aviator who was engaged to another girl. Her mother's family, so they have written Andrew, can do nothing with her. Andrew hopes to have it out with Shirley before becoming involved with his in-laws. Shirley believes the older generation are all against her and treats him coolly. Andrew turns to Elizabeth for sympathy. She tries to make friends with the boy and girl. Shirley's Aunt Jay writes Andrew hinting that the girl is seeing the aviator secretly. Dorothea hears from a friend about a stranger's attentions to her mother. Oliver decides to pay his mother a surprise visit. Elizabeth invites the Leicesters to spend a week-end at her hotel.

INSTALMENT XXIII.

AN ACCIDENTAL INTERLUDE.

After luncheon Elizabeth and Andrew had gone out to see the town, leaving the brother and sister as usual to their own devices.

She had said nothing to him of her talk with Shirley on the steamer, but the girl was much in her mind.

"I hope Shirley is not as nervous as I should be about William's trip on Tuesday," she remarked.

"Can't help it if she is," returned Andrew, "though I think it highly improbable. William is too old for coddling, and she doesn't deserve to be considered."

The patent injustice of this remark closed the matter as far as she was concerned, and Andrew, becoming aware of her silence, said:

"You don't agree with me?"

"I do not."

He saw that she was displeased and looked at her rather helplessly. It was the first time that he had found himself at odds with her, and it surprised him to discover that it was a painful experience.

"I expect you are right about Shirley and I am wrong," he admitted "My theories on the subject are like ninepins. Every one I put up she promptly bowls down."

"You are very fond of her, whatever you may pretend," she said with conviction. "I suppose she is like her mother?"

He shook his head.

"Not in the least, outwardly or inwardly, either, I'm afraid. . . . As usual you have put your finger on it, however. She shared four out of the five years we had . . . allotted to us, shall we say?"

"A child of love," said Elizabeth gently. "That's why she's beautiful. I believe it's a theory at least."

"She behaves more like a child of hate as far as her father is concerned," he said, "and where that comes from I fail to see. Not from either of her parents. We were happy, and I suppose some of the effulgence remained with the little thing. I shouldn't have believed I was particularly sentimental or besotted, but she had always been more on my mind than the boy. That's natural enough. I've been a boy myself, and I haven't been a girl. Having come home full of good intentions on Shirley's account, I am disconcerted to find myself an object of her dearest hatred all of a sudden," said Andrew bitterly.

"You are very fond of her whatever you may pretend."

"There was nothing of this kind in her letters then?" asked Elizabeth.

"Not a hint, though they were not enlightening. What you might expect, I suppose, considering how little she had ever seen me."

"You had been held over her as a threat no doubt, and she had certainly been represented to you in the worst colors. I remember that from what you said in Paris," reminded Elizabeth. "I am afraid the answer is too many interfering relations."

"To one of whom, however, she is a clinging vine. That's the devil of it. Am I to move her from that fool by force and earn her dislike in perpetuity, or leave her there and lose her? Either way, I lose. . . . Ah, well, we shall soon know, and from now on she can have her fling and say what she pleases. You shan't have your week-end ruined by any more of my maunderings. What, by the way, is your favorite topic of conversation?"

She laughed.

"Your penetration doesn't seem very good if you haven't discovered by now that I am a very limited person," she said.

"Limited by what?" he asked, and found her gazing at him with an expression he was unable to name, pleasure, enlightenment, triumph?

"That girl is very like you!" she said with conviction.

He considered this carefully.

"She inherits her bad manners, you think?"

"I am not interested in manners. No . . . it's that way of pouncing on an idea or a thought and chasing it about. From you it is understandable, and, of course, you are practiced in it. . . ."

"But in her it is a shining virtue, I suppose?" said Andrew moodily. "I have not been permitted your opportunities of judging."

"You are jealous," exclaimed Elizabeth in dismay, "and I thought it would please you."

"Jealous?—am I?" He considered the word with an interest she could not suspect. . . . "Perhaps you are right. You wouldn't marry me, I suppose?" he said, as though presenting the remedy.

"Certainly not. You were joking, I know. But upon my word, Andrew, it would have served you right if I had said yes."

He smiled at her apologetically.

"I was not joking, though the question in the circumstances was in very poor taste. Please forgive me."

She shook her head at him, thinking what children men remained. They hated disapprobation.

"You can't imagine I am offended. I never heard anything more absurd. It is a daughter you want at the moment, and, because you can't win her in a few days' acquaintance, you fly off in a temper and demand a wife as a sop to your injured pride."

"Trust a woman to rub it in."

"There, you see, we are quarreling already," she exclaimed. "That should be a warning to you. Here we are, you and I, two temporary nomads thrown together. You are going home after all these years with not the smallest intention of marriage at least till you have found your bearings. This is just an accidental interlude."

She put her hand out to him across the table and he took it, turning it over with a smile, but resisting several things he had an impulse to say.

"You mean to cut me out completely when the incident is over. Is that what you are telling me?" he asked.

She looked about her with a half laughing grimace, and then back at her hand which he had not released.

"It is just as well we are in a country that takes emotional attitudes for granted," she suggested, and felt his clasp relax. "Thank you. No, I am not dodging the question, but simply despising it. How can you be so absurd? I shall love to see you again, but you will have a thousand interests. You will do some work, won't you?"

"I am to go on the London board of my firm," he explained, "and be sort of foreign adviser—not by any means a full-time job, of course."

"I am glad. You are too young to retire . . . and with luck we may meet. . . . You've given me such a good time, Andrew, better than any I have had for years, and when I wanted it most. You showed a faith in me I had lost in myself. It was reckless of you, too . . . even that night in Paris, you confided in me. It sounds incredible madness."

"Nights in Paris have that reputation," he reminded, "though you might give me credit for a little penetration."

"I hadn't much myself," she confessed.

. . . .

When the swing doors brought the truants at last into sight Oliver had a surprise. The stranger was lean and personable, and his mother looked positively gay.

She had been laughing at a story of Andrew's, but the laugh died on her lips as she saw her son solemnly regarding her.

"Oliver. . . . Oliver, my dear! What has happened? Why have you come? . . . There is something wrong?" she cried.

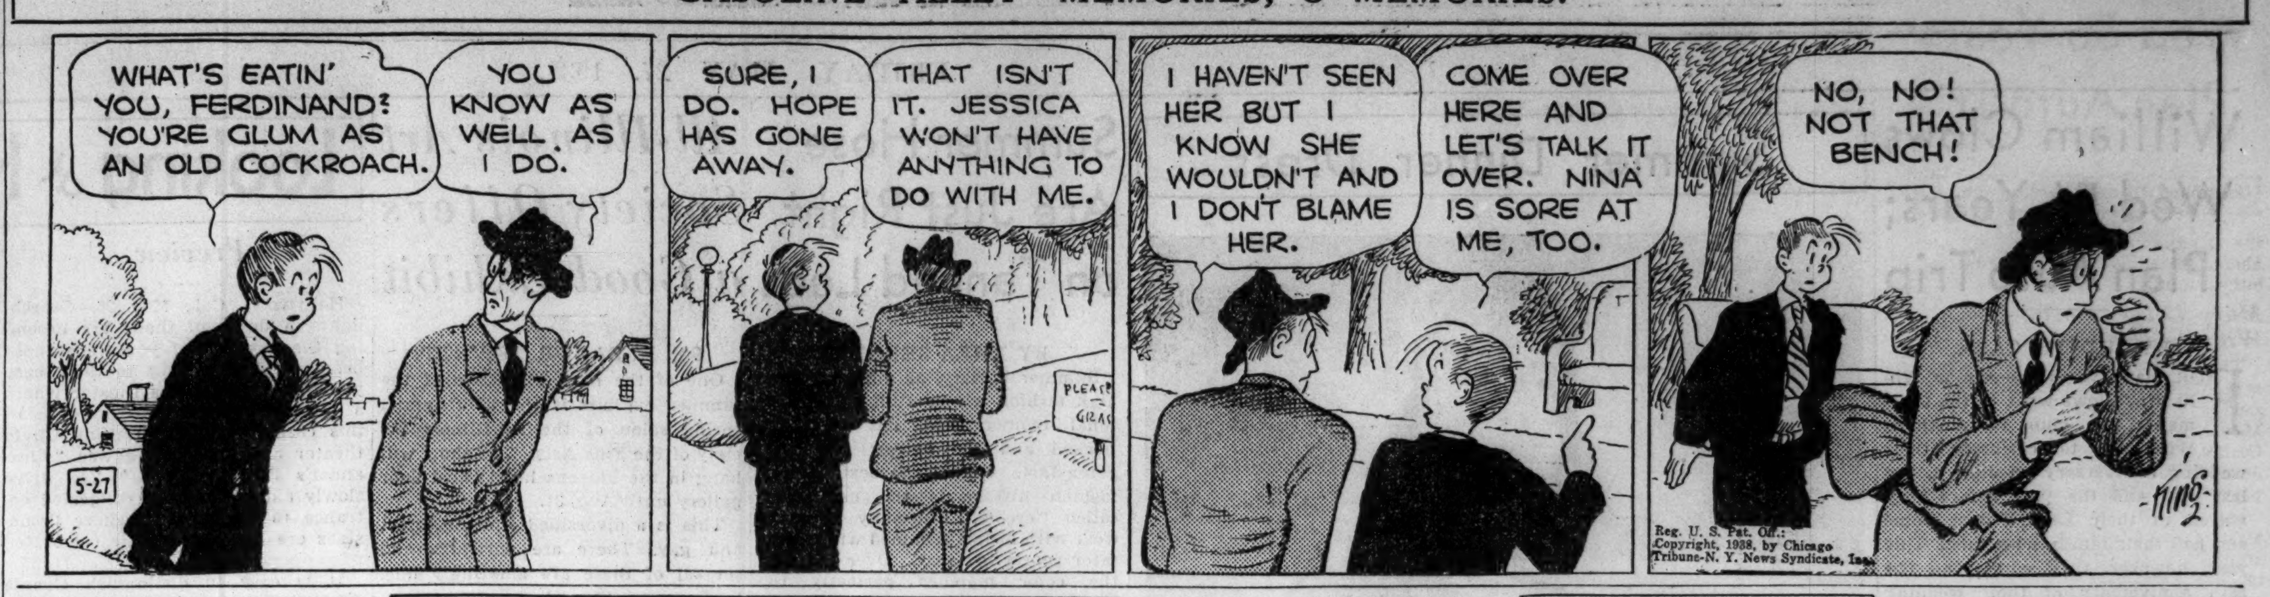
GASOLINE ALLEY—MEMORIES, O MEMORIES!



Oldtimers Who Like to Dance Belie Calendar

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

The new dances that have recently enjoyed a great vogue—the shag, trucking and the late big apple—typify youth in all its highflung and carefree spirit that distinguishes the young from the ageing. When you lift your nose in disdain at the antics of dancing youngsters, watch out! Old Man Time is breathing over your shoulder.

And yet, it is a simple thing to do the dances of today. Band Leader Artie Shaw says you're only as young as the dance steps you can and want to do. Mr. Shaw, who recently completed a nationwide tour of hotels and other dancing spots throughout the country, reports that it no longer is a rare sight to watch older persons nimbly executing the latest terpsichorean contortions and holding their own with high school youngsters.

Being duly astonished by this phenomenon, and of a curious turn of mind, Shaw left his bandstand and questioned some of these veterans who, by old time rights, should have been at home comfortably lolling in their favorite easy chairs, soothing cigars or pipes in their mouths and friendly slippers on feet.

"Why not?" answered the oldtimer in response to Shaw's surprise that a grandfather should be "truckin' on down" and setting a dancing pace with a girl still in her teens.

"The dances of today hardly are more difficult than those of my youth," this fifty-years-young man claimed. "In fact, they're extremely simple. The trouble with most folks, I guess, is that they're afraid to lose their dignity, unwilling to let themselves go. I like to do the new dances 'cause it makes me feel young myself. I opine that if I can hold my own with the youngsters on their own territory then I must be a pretty young fellow, too!"

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

From the notebook:

The most popular of all those affairs that make your bath bubble like crazy is available in a pine fragrance. Those who like bubbles in the bathtub—and their name certainly must be legion, judging by the popularity of the preparations—and those who like pine tell us it's absolutely daisy. They simply rave. And we hear that customers are treading on one another's heels to get at it.

We must confess that we don't quite appreciate a bubbly bath as much as other people seem to. It's probably because we prefer showers anyway and frothing a bath seems just that much more trouble. But millions of women feel differently about it, apparently, and most of those millions seem to prefer this product to the others. If you're a bubble bath fan and if you like pine for summer do hop down and get some. It's inexpensive.

Now is the time for all good women to think about hair conditioning; we see so many going hatless already and we feel like reaching out to all of them, pleading that they take it easy. If your hair is dry be wary of hatlessness. Use pomade on the scalp and a dressing on the hair if it's inclined to be extremely dry.

Use shampoos during the summer that don't deplete the hair of what oil it has. Do a lot of brushing, too, and remember that you can sunburn your hair as easily as you can ruin your skin. You might even consider sticking to the really sound step—that of wearing protective hats. The big brimmed numbers this year are flattering to almost every type.

Too Ambitious Mothers Blind to Young Love

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"Of course, I can't blame my mother for disapproving of my love for Jack. I know that she has my interest at heart and she wants me to have all the things that she didn't have when she married."

Naturally, mothers do want to see their girls do well in marriage, but current economies do not permit the perfect setup for the young bride of today. Mothers will have to realize that things are different right now than they were in the pre-'29 era; when an apartment furnished with every known latest electric gadget, to say nothing of the best furniture, linens, silver, and so on, had some basis for expectation. There was big money floating around then.

Today a girl is lucky if she gets a modest little setup with the minimum in luxuries. It simply can't be arranged otherwise.

Nevertheless, young people do marry and get along on the minimum, and a good many of them are coming through in a manner that is most admirable. They budget and they trim their needs to fit the budget.

Would it not be far better to inspire these same daughters with the idea that today's economies are tomorrow's comforts?

The trouble is that mothers enter into their arguments against nonluxurious marriage their own 40, 45 or 50 year old wants, failing to recognize that youth does not need the degree of comfort which age seems to demand for itself for happiness.

the Kenneth G. Smiths entertain about forty of their friends at a buffet supper aboard.

Mary Louise Corley Will Be Debutante.

The Frederick D. Corleys have reserved the Casino for Dec. 28 for a party to introduce their daughter, Miss Mary Louise Corley. Until Miss Corley arrives from Bennington on June 12 to talk about plans for the party, the Corley's will not decide what sort of party to give. Right after the debutante returns from her studies she and her parents will move to Lake Forest to occupy the H. Foster Straws' house for the rest of the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gambrill Jr. have decided upon Wednesday, Sept. 7, as the date for a tea they will give at the Exmoor Country club for their debutante daughter, Miss Helen Gambrill.

Miss Gambrill, who is a student at Vassar, will go to Maryland for ten days to visit her roommate, Miss Claire Stalfort, and then to the commencement exercises at Princeton before returning to Evanston for the summer. She will return to Vassar in the fall.

Tavern Will Hold Lake Excursion.

"Will the moon be full that night?" is the first question every one asks the members of the entertainment committee of the Tavern when told of the lake excursion the committee has planned for June 24. "We don't know," has been their answer up to now, but henceforth they can say no definitely, for the moon will be in its last quarter after June 20.

A waning moon, however, will not keep the party from being a very gay and enjoyable one for all sorts of things are being planned to entertain the 2,000 who can go aboard the S. S. Roosevelt that night. There may not be that many, of course, for if all the 450 members went each would have to take several guests to fill the boat. A buffet supper, two dance orchestras, and several unannounced features are on the program.

The party aboard the boat will not be the tenth birthday party of the club, for that event is to be a solemn affair on the evening of June 28. It probably will be a stag dinner, according to the president, Alfred MacArthur, but definite plans have not been made.

John L. McDonald is chairman of the entertainment committee and his co-workers are William C. Boyden, Samuel Insull Jr., Warner Robinson, Charles Donnell, Harold M. Keele, and Frederick Herendeen. Mrs. Boyden has been appointed chairman of a woman's committee for the boat ride.

Garden Reception Will Follow Benson Wedding.

If the weather is fair, the light of a moon just past full will illuminate the gardens of the Kenilworth home of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Benson for the reception they will give on June 15 following the wedding of their daughter, Kathryn, to Richard D. Culver.

The ceremony is to be read at 8 o'clock, also at the Benson home, the Rev. Leland H. Danforth of the Church of the Holy Comforter officiating. Only the families will hear the service, but the reception following will be large.

Miss Louise Abrahamson will be the maid of honor, and Mrs. Edwin W. Sims Jr. will be the matron of honor. Miss Lorraine Eddy, a cousin of Miss Benson, Miss Penelope Connelly of Springfield, Miss Ann Louise Hankins of Shaker Heights, O., and Miss Peggy Knight will be the bridesmaids.

William C. Sauter of Philadelphia and Wilmington will be best man. Ushering will be George Benson Jr., who is being graduated from Princeton next month; Charles Ernst of Philadelphia and New York; Richard Vanderwarker, Gilbert Rogers of Cleveland, a cousin of the bridegroom, and Richard Kelly of Toledo.

After a month's wedding trip Mr. Culver and his bride will be at home on the near north side. Mr. and Mrs. Benson will return to Princeton after the wedding with their son to see him receive his diploma, and to send him off to Europe on a summer holiday.

Miss Helen Fulton to Give Luncheon.

Miss Helen Fulton is entertaining at luncheon and bridge tomorrow for Miss Benson, and the Albert Hansens are giving a dinner for her and Mr. Culver tomorrow night at the opening of the Glen View club. The Walter Johnsons are giving a cocktail party on Sunday at their Riverside home.

Most of the evening parties for Miss Benson will be postponed until the week before the wedding when the out of town guests will be here. They will include Mr. Culver's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Culver, Westhampton, N. Y.

Miss Lucy Trumbull will give a luncheon at her home in Winnetka today for Miss Frances Brinkman, who will be married to James Robert Wilson on June 4.

The first summer garden tea of the season will be given in McKinlock court of the Art institute this afternoon following a talk Mrs. Inez Stark will give at 2:30 o'clock in Fullerton hall. Mrs. Charles Carpenter and Mrs. Dudley Crafts Watson will pour. Mrs. Stark's subject will be "The Function of the Critic."

Junior League Gives Last Broadcast Today.

The Chicago Junior league children's theater will give its last broadcast at 2 o'clock today. This broadcast will complete eight months of educational programs dramatizing worth while children's classics. The Junior league has estimated that over 1,400 schools in rural districts have used these broadcasts as class lessons.

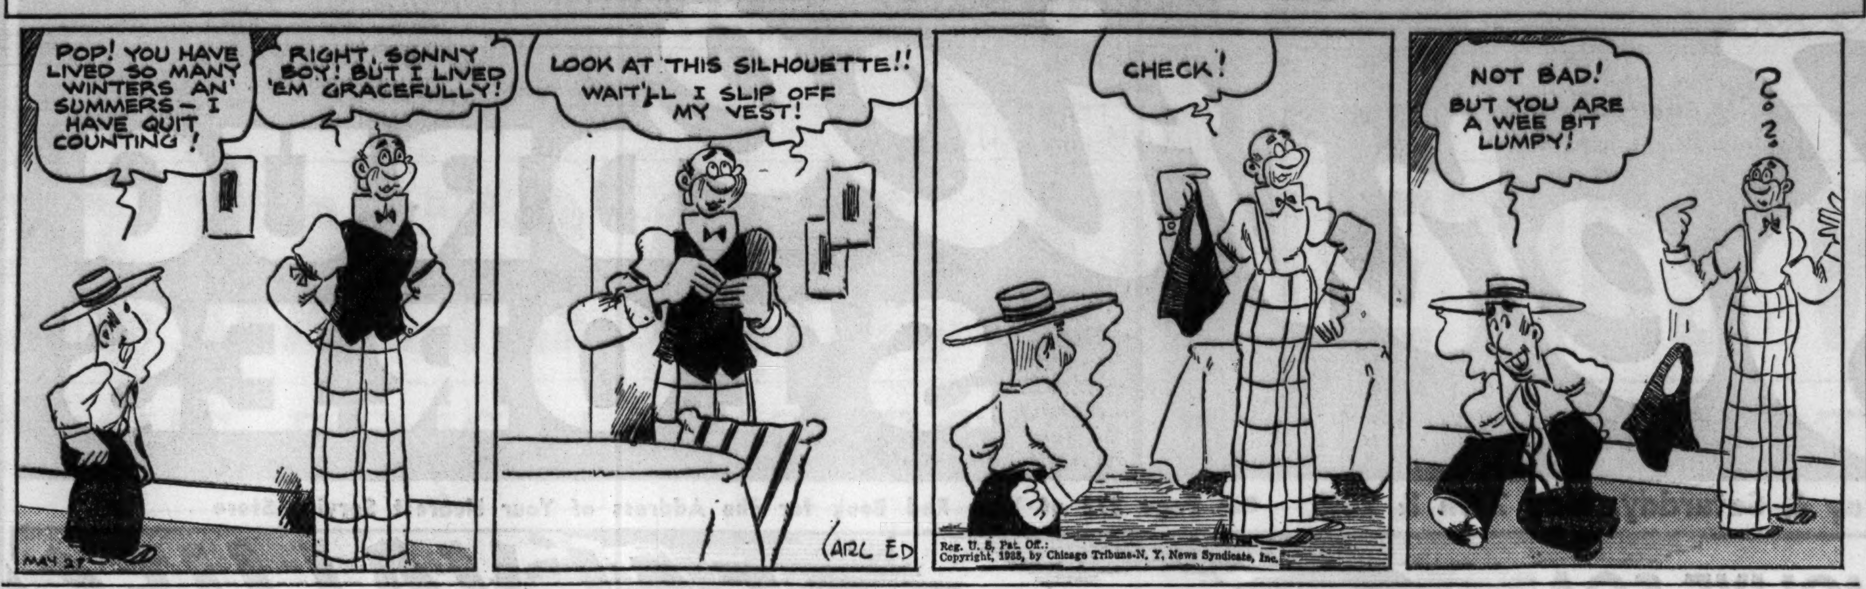
Those who will participate in today's program are Mrs. Charles Kingston, Mrs. William Wieboldt, Mrs. Roland Smith, and Mrs. Richard Lamport.

Memories of A Century of Progress will be awakened by the program the Arctureans have arranged for a meeting at the Museum of Science and Industry tonight to celebrate the 5th anniversary of the opening of the fair. Music by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, and the voice of the late Dr. Edwin F. Frost of the Yerkes observatory will be heard by means of an electrical transcription of the actual ceremonies on the opening night. Rufus C. Dawes, who was president of A Century of Progress, and Prof. Henry Crew will speak in person, and colored movies will be shown.

The Arctureans are an informal group of people who participated in the opening ceremonies, when a ray from Arcturus was used to illuminate the fair. They have invited the trustees and officers of A Century of Progress, and the general public, to attend tonight's program at 8 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Dawes are entertaining at dinner before the meeting, which is the first one to be held in the museum's new auditorium.

The annual concert of the choir of Christ church, Winnetka, will be given at 8 o'clock tonight in the parish house, followed by light refreshments. The Ernest S. Ballards, the Roy E. Bards, the William T. Bacons, and the Lanning Macfarlands are some of those whose sons are among the 40 who sing in the choir. Proceeds from the concert are used to buy vestments for the boys.

HAROLD TEEN—THE EROSION OF AGE



MyriadCandles Line Danube at Catholic Rites

BUDAPEST, May 26.—(AP)—Six hundred thousand devout tonight lined the ancient banks of the Danube and watched the solemn religious procession of the blessed sacrament which brought to a close the second day of the thirty-fourth eucharistic congress.

Cardinal Pacelli, Vatican secretary of state and Pope Pius' representative at the congress, led the magnificent candlelit procession down the river aboard a great barge bearing the sacrament.

The cardinal blessed the four corners of the world as the fleet of illuminated craft paused in midstream opposite the royal palace.

Four rockets roared aloft and sirens shrieked as Cardinal Pacelli raised a glittering golden monstrance above worshipping groups of bishops, monks, and clergy kneeling in the boats of the procession.

The hundreds of thousands of singing, praying pilgrims from over the world held candles aloft and sank to their knees during the impressive ceremony.

Archbishop John J. Glennon of St. Louis, Mo., in a radio speech broadcast to the United States, praised the character and faith of the Hungarians and the hospitality they accorded the American delegation.

Cardinal Verdier, archbishop of Paris, opened the day's ceremonies by celebrating high mass for 150,000 children in Heroes' square.

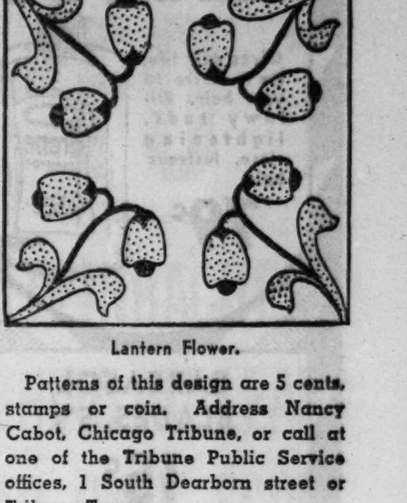
The Central Eleanor club will sponsor a supper and May party for the social committee at 7 o'clock this evening in the assembly hall, 16 North Wabash avenue.

Fragile, but Gay Japanese Flower Theme of Quilt



Lantern Flower.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Those fragile but gay Japanese lantern flowers furnished the inspiration for the dainty applique design illustrated today. It may have been made prior to 1873, but the coverlet from which this pattern was obtained had that date stitched in the border along with the initials of the quilt maker. Green, yellow, and blue against a white ground carry out the oriental theme of the block. The entire coverlet is composed of applique blocks set together with 4 inch bands between blocks with an 8½ inch border and a ½ inch binding. The border is unusual in that it has single flowers done in quilting growing out of the bias binding.

According to CULBERTSON

UNWISE CONSERVATION.

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

Trump conservation is all very well when there is a reason for it, such as retaining trump control in order to establish side suit tricks. When such tricks, however, are ready-made, the declarer who finds himself in a bad contract should not refuse to be "forced." He should, on the contrary, use as many of his low trumps as he can in ruffing the opponents' high cards. South, in the following hand, lost two tricks largely because he refused to ruff.

West, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 diamond	Double
Redouble	1 spade	3 clubs	3 hearts
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

East's three club bid was somewhat aggressive, even considering West's redouble, but since it spurred South to his fatal three heart overcall it turned out beautifully for East-West.

West, with long and strong trumps, decided to try and force declarer and, hence, opened clubs rather than diamonds. West's deuce was taken by East's king and the club ace was returned. Declarer ruffed, and for want of a better play laid down the heart king. West won, and continued clubs. For some unknown reason declarer decided to conserve his trumps and, instead of ruffing, discarded a spade. The fourth round, however, he ruffed with the heart six. He then cashed the heart queen and, in order to get spades or diamonds led up to his hand, exited with another trump. West won with the nine and cashed the jack, drawing declarer's last trump. Meanwhile East had carefully signaled that he did not want a diamond lead, by discarding the deuce, five and ten on the three rounds of trumps on which he did not follow. West followed orders and exited with a low spade. East put up the ace, and at this point declarer could have saved a trick by the unusual play of sacrificing his spade king. East then could have returned a spade, but West, after taking the queen, would have had to lead a diamond, giving declarer the last three tricks, or a spade which would have been won in dummy, with the diamond finesse then available. Declarer was not up to this play, however. He held on to his spade king. East returned a spade and declarer now was on lead again. He cashed the ace of diamonds and led the nine spot. East won with the king and returned his remaining spade, for the fourth setting trick.

Now let us see what logical play would have done for declarer. After ruffing the second club lead and laying down the heart king, he should have welcomed the opportunity to ruff West's club return. Then his right play would have been to lead, not the heart queen, but the eight of hearts. West, down to the J-9-5, would win with the nine and return another club. Now declarer would be able to cash both his heart seven and queen. The next play would be a low spade and it would not matter whether West put up the queen or ducked. Let us assume the latter. The jack would force East's ace, and East's best return, a spade, would be taken with the king. Declarer then could exit with the third spade and West would have to play a diamond up to the A-Q. Thus, declarer would win seven instead of five tricks, a worthwhile penalty against the opponents' sure game in no trump.

CASTER HALTS SOX; ATHLETICS WIN, 4 TO 1

RAIN DELAYS ROSS-ARMSTRONG FIGHT UNTIL TONIGHT

BOXERS MAKE WEIGHT; MAY DO IT AGAIN TODAY

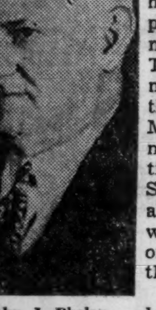
Phelan's Order Irks Manager.

BULLETIN.

New York, May 26.—(Special.)—Showers are forecast for tomorrow night.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 26.—The Barney Ross-Henry Armstrong battle in the Madison Square Long Island bowl for the welterweight championship of the world has been postponed until tomorrow night. The announcement was made this afternoon by Mike Jacobs, head man in the Twentieth Century Sporting club, after he had watched rain fall on Manhattan for three hours.



John J. Phelan.

For once, at least, the prediction of the weather forecaster was right. He said it would rain and it did, starting only a few minutes after Ross and Armstrong had entered the downtown portals of New York's athletic commission for the weighing-in ceremony.

It may not be true, but they say Ross brings rain to New York. Of course, New York never has forgotten the second Ross-Jimmy McLarnin fight when the welterweight title bout was postponed for three consecutive days and then set back a week because of the Jewish holidays. This may not have been an all time record for postponements, but it will do until another claim is made.

Fight Becomes Headache.

The rain just drizzled this afternoon, a thorough and persistent wetting. And it kept on dripping from the 6th avenue elevated in front of Jacobs' office in the Hippodrome until the maestro yelled, "Call it off."

Mike doesn't like foggy, rainy weather. Personally he doesn't care for it because his sinuses start clogging up, and today he didn't care for rain for financial reasons.

This championship fight, which had been conceived with the hope of a $300,000 house, has become a headache, and tonight Jacobs no doubt would settle for half that sum. The rain hasn't helped the exchequer.

Before the rain, Ross stepped on the commission scales and weighed in at 141¾ pounds, a quarter less than the agreed weight. Armstrong weighed 136¼ pounds. Thus, each of the principals kept his agreement, which is not covered in the legal contract submitted to the commissioners.

There's an Argument.

These bouts between champions in different weight classes always cause arguments. Ross, you will recall, demanded that McLarnin make 145 pounds [the welterweight limit is 147 pounds] when Barney, then lightweight champion, stepped up for a crack at the Irishman's title.

Ross agreed to weigh 142 pounds or less today and Armstrong agreed to weigh at least 136 pounds to forestall any claim on the lightweight championship which the Chicagoan gave up without defense and is now owned by Lou Ambers of New York.

Each kept faith, but Gen. John J. Phelan, chairman of the New York commission, now has thrown a handful of bird shot into the mechanics of the title match.

Phelan ruled today that both men must weigh in again tomorrow. He made the ruling, despite a protest by Eddie Mead, Armstrong's manager, and in the face of the commission rule that when a fight is postponed for less than 48 hours the principals are not required to return to the scales.

Says He Won't Weigh Again.

Mead says Armstrong will not weigh in again. The guess is that Armstrong will weigh in just as often as Phelan demands. Joe Jacobs, manager of Tony Galento and American representative of Max Schmeling, who once boasted of his friendship with New York's boxing dictator, defied Phelan, and as a result he may not be granted official permission to appear when Schmeling meets Joe Louis, heavyweight champion, on June 22.

Phelan may be wrong—he frequently is—but he gets his own way.

The dispute, of course, is occasioned by the fact that, after Armstrong had increased his weight for the official record, he wished to reduce to his best fighting weight of 133 pounds. After the postponement Armstrong announced he would work out in the gymnasium. If he weighs in again tomorrow he'll need another chicken dinner and a couple glasses of water to hit 136 pounds.

Ross is not particularly concerned

THE GUMPS—BLACK FRIDAY!

Yates Is America's Last Hope in British Amateur

TROON, Scotland, May 26.—(AP)—Another fair haired boy from Atlanta, Charley Yates, stood alone tonight as America's hope in the British amateur golf tournament.

Charley Yates.

Still wearing and swearing by the lucky red flannels sent him by his townsman, Bobby Jones, Yates lived through wild wind and torrential rain to reach the quarter-finals, while Johnny Goodman, Chuck Kocsis, and Fred Haas Jr. were blown away.

In the morning, bundled up to the eyes, but laughing, Yates came out and rifled around the first nine, full against the wind, in 34, two under par. That was practically enough to dispose of Andy McClure, who went cut four holes later, 7 and 5.

Waits for His Flannels.

Yates came in soaking wet, took off the Jones flannels, and carried them to the drying room. There he waited until they had dried, then put them on again, and finished his day's work with a 6 and 5 victory over W. M. Robb, the Perthshire doctor who yesterday eliminated Defending Champion Bob Sweeny.

Those, however, were the only happy spots in this bleak and, for America, unlucky day. Before Yates started his morning match Goodman went out against Kocsis—a strangely subdued Goodman and a fierce and faultless Kocsis.

For one solitary hole Goodman held the upper hand. He won the first when Kocsis' drive skidded into the heather, but from then on it was not the Goodman who won the United States amateur in 1937, and Johnny went out at 3 and 2.

Goodman made two serious errors. He pulled his drive at the third and let the wind blow it into the gorse bushes at the fourth. Then he insisted on trying to hit out of the tall, slippery grass with his woods and after that fourth he never got ahead.

Kocsis Turns On Power.

It may be that Goodman at his best couldn't have touched Kocsis, for this morning Kocsis had power. He laid the ball against the wind with his irons like a Tommy Armour at his best. The ninth was typical of his superiority. He hit a terrific shot dead against the wind and got home with an iron while Goodman, far behind, pressed with a full brassie and thumped it along the ground.

In the afternoon, after Haas already had bowed out at 2 up to Sam McKinlay, Glasgow golf writer, it was another and a sadder story. Kocsis came out against Johnny Stevenson, the Troon pride, and committed every error in the book. He was swamped 7 and 5.

He pulled his approach into the sand at the second, missed a two foot putt at the third, lost both holes and never again was the battle. Every shot Kocsis missed gave Stevenson confidence and by the tenth, where he was 4 up, the little Scot had polished him off.

Using his sister Jean's putter, Ste-

GARDEN IN PLACE OF DIAMOND? NO! PICKETS SHOUT

Peoria, Ill., May 26.—[Special.]—Tiny shoes scuffed determinedly along the sidewalk in front of 1009 Hanssler place. Mouths drew into firm, determined lines. Tiny shoulders bore business like signs, reading

"This Family Unfair."

"Unfair to Boys and Girls."

"This Family Unfair to Ball Players of the Neighborhood."

"It can't be done," they shouted.

The first strike of youthful ball players on record nere came about when Lee R. Patton, 233 Faber avenue, Peoria Heights, told his tenants at the Hanssler place address that they could make a garden on his adjoining vacant lot. The lot was marked off for plowing and that started the unprecedented picket line. The strikers insisted they were granted permission two years ago to use the property for a baseball diamond.

Mr. Patton said he knew nothing of the agreement, but the youngsters—girls as well as boys—will continue picketing until their demands are met.

That's the way the situation stood today. The problem will have to be solved by somebody.

Hagen and Kirkwood Return from World Tour

San Francisco, Cal., May 26.—(AP)—Walter Hagen and Joe Kirkwood, veteran golfers, arrived today on the Matson liner Lurline after a world exhibition tour and said they would attempt to qualify for the United States open golf play at Denver June 9 to 11. Hagen said he had not yet recovered from an attack of malaria fever contracted in India.

FOUR MORE WIN RIGHT TO START 500 MILE RACE

Petillo Makes Good in His Final Trial.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., May 26.—Four more cars were qualified in twenty-five mile speed tests on the speedway here this afternoon for the annual 500 mile automobile race. This makes a total of twenty-three machines assigned starting positions for the Memorial day contest, which this year through a change of rules has become a battle of various fuel concoctions, as well as a rivalry of drivers.

In the semi-darkness of a cloudy dusk Kelly Petillo of Los Angeles, on his third and last chance to get into the big show, completed his ten turns around the two and a half mile track at an average of 118.827 miles per hour.

Cantlon Wins a Place.

The other chauffeurs' names in the lineup today and their average qualification speeds are: Shortly Cantlon of Detroit, 120.906 m. p. h.; Al Miller, also of Detroit, 119.796 m. p. h., and Al Putnam of Van Nuys, Cal., 116.791 m. p. h.

Ten more places in the field of thirty-three remain to be filled in time tests tomorrow afternoon and from 1 to 4 p. m. on Saturday. Tonight, in the speedway garages, mechanics were laboring over nineteen cars, tearing them apart and putting them together again, trying to get them in shape to qualify.

Change Is a Handicap.

The change in the rules, announced by the contest board of the American Automobile association, caught many of the owners short of time and cash to convert their machines to meet the new qualifications. There no longer are any fuel restrictions and riding mechanics no longer are required. Supercharged motors are limited to 183 cubic inches displacement and nonsupercharged to 274 cubic inches. The size of the motor governs weight requirements.

Six of the cars which have been qualified are burning alcohol. Others are using a variety of mixtures, with benzol, lead, and a few with ether, all seeking a high anti-knock quality or, as the engineers express it, a retarded flame propagation.

The new rules have increased speeds. Cantlon this afternoon was the seventeenth who has qualified at better than two miles a minute.

LOYOLA ACADEMY KEEPS CATHOLIC PREP GOLF TITLE

Loyola academy retained the Catholic high school golf championship by scoring a total of 681 yesterday at the Midwest Golf club.

St. Ignatius placed second with 690, Catholic High of Joliet was third with 694; Fenwick, fourth, 713; Mount Carmel, fifth, 720; St. George, sixth, 726: Leo, seventh, 733, and St. Rita, eighth, 791.

The winning team was composed of Ed Robinson [162], Bob Whiston [161], Jack O'Connor [179], and Jim Goessling [179]. Morris Cummings of Catholic High was medalist with 159.

INDIANA COACH TO DISCUSS OFFER WITH STANFORD

Bloomington, Ind., May 26.—[Special.]—Everett Dean, Indiana university basketball and baseball coach, will leave Sunday for Palo Alto, Cal., to confer with the Stanford university athletic board regarding a position as basketball coach. The Stanford athletic board is expected to fill the coaching position on June 8. Dean is reported to have been offered a five year contract at Stanford.

In the Wake of the News

SIX of the last nine Big Ten javelin titles have been won by University of Iowa athletes. . . . Mark Panther of Iowa holds the record of 219 feet 7⅜ inches, made in 1935. . . . Only five—Northrop of Michigan, Rinehart of Indiana, Purvis of Purdue, and Panther and Lamb of Iowa—have thrown the javelin more than 200 feet in the conference meet. . . . Ed Barrow, 70 year old business manager of the Yankees, is the only front office man in baseball who has managed a major league team to a world's championship. . . . He did it in 1918 with the Red Sox. . . . Watty Watkins, old Giant outfielder, now a sporting goods dealer in Houston, pays $50 for every ball hit against the left field fence in the Houston ball park. . . . Twenty-seven of the thirty-six holes in Ohio State's 300 acre golf course are now in use. . . . Fifty-two miles of tile and eighteen miles of water lines were laid to drain the course and to water the fairways. . . . Thirty carloads of sand were used, and there still remains 17,000 feet of tile to be put in. . . . Each of the holes is patterned after one from widely known courses throughout the world. . . . Buddy Fogelson, Texas oil man, buys nothing but gray horses for his racing stable because they are easier to follow in a race. . . .

This is an age of speed in baseball, too. . . . In only two years the great pitching and catching that paced the Tigers to two American league championships virtually has disappeared. . . . Schoolboy Rowe and Tommy Bridges, aces of the 1935 campaign, are afflicted with arms which may not respond all season. . . . They won thirty-five games between them in 1935. . . . Alvin Crowder, who won fourteen games the same season, is gone. . . . So are Elon Hogsett, Joe Sullivan, and Vic Sorrell. . . . And Manager Mickey Cochrane is through as a catcher. . . . Bobby Grayson, former full back, and Don Liebendorf, publicity director, are writing a story on Stanford's "Vow Boys of 1933, 1934, and 1935" for a national magazine. . . . Lew Fonseca again will direct a boys' baseball school for a cereal company this summer. . . . When Bob Feller was pitching for Van Meter there were only 200 high schools in Iowa playing baseball. . . . There were 570 high schools entered in an Iowa tournament this spring which climaxed in a three day competition at Manson in Calhoun county. . . . The White Sox will find an improved playing field and new, cement imbedded seats in the stands when they return to their Pasadena training base next spring. . . .

CARDINALS SEND SI JOHNSON BACK TO MINOR LEAGUE

It's Up to Landis to Make Next Move.

St. Louis, Mo., May 26.—[Special.]—Officials of the St. Louis Cardinals should know in a day or so whether K. M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, meant it when he ordered them to keep Pitcher Silas Johnson.

In an effort to get down to the 23 player limit required by the major league rules, the Cardinals today released Johnson on option to their Rochester farm team and sold Outfielder Tuck Stainback, who was obtained in the Dizzy Dean trade with the Chicago Cubs this spring, to the Phillies.

Roy Henshaw, left hand pitcher, will be retained. Last week, when the St. Louis club attempted to send Henshaw and Johnson to Rochester, Commissioner Landis interfered on the grounds that neither had been given sufficient chance to make good in the majors.

In Majors Since 1928.

Johnson has been in the major leagues since 1928, when he joined the Cincinnati Reds after a single season in class D baseball. He remained with the Reds, except for a brief stay with the Columbus club in 1929, and, in 1936, was sold to the Cards. His major league won and lost record up to the opening of the current season was 63 won and 101 lost.

Henshaw, a former University of Chicago star, has been in the National league four full seasons, joining the Cubs in 1933. He was farmed to the Los Angeles club in 1934 but returned to the Cubs in 1935 and won thirteen games while losing five. He won only six games and lost five in 1936 and was traded to Brooklyn before the start of the 1937 season. With the Dodgers he had a won-lost record of five and twelve and an earned run average of 5.08.

When Landis ordered the Cards to retain Henshaw and Johnson, he gave the club a week beyond the regular limit for reduction of its rosters to twenty-three players. The week's grace will expire at midnight Saturday.

PHILLIES GET STAINBACK.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 26.—(AP)—The Phillies today released three players and acquired two new ones.

Pitcher Hal Kelleher and First Baseman Earle Browne were sent to Columbus of the American association for Justin Stein, an infielder. Walter Stephenson, a catcher, was given his outright release. George Stainback, an outfielder, was purchased from the St. Louis Cardinals.

DUDLEY-LAFFOON TEAM LEADS IN TOLEDO GOLF

Toledo, O., May 26.—(AP)—Ed Dudley of Philadelphia and Ky Laffoon of Chicago took eight strokes off par today with a 63 to beat Lawson Little and Jimmy Demeret, 6 up. It gave them the lead at the end of the first round of the $4,600 Inverness invitational best-ball matches.

Little, former amateur champion of America and Great Britain, and Demeret had a 69. Results of the other matches, with the best-ball scores:

Willie Goggin and Frank Walsh [31—34—65] five up on Henry Picard and Johnny Revolta [35—35—70], the 1935 champions.

Harry Cooper and Horton Smith, defending champions [34—32—66] three up on Dick Metz and Gene Sarazen [34—35—69].

Vic Ghezzi and Sam Snead [31—35—66] even with Jimmy Thomson and Tommy Armour [33—34—67].

At the close of the first of the seven matches, in which each pair meets each other twosome, the rating is:

Dudley-Laffoon, plus 6; Goggin-Walsh, plus 5; Smith-Cooper, plus 3; Ghezzi-Snead, even; Thomson-Armour, even; Metz-Sarazen, minus 3; Picard-Revolta, minus 5; Little-Demeret, minus 6.

STEINBACHER'S THIRD HIT LEADS TO ONLY SCORE

Poor Base Running Hampers Hose.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Philadelphia Athletics yesterday afternoon had a lot to say about the White Sox' ambitions to soar above the .500 mark in the American league standings. Led by George Caster, the A's whacked down the Chicagoans, 4 to 1, to wind up the first 1938 western invasion by the eastern teams.

George Caster.

Twice the Athletics have boosted the Sox to the .500 mark this season — once in Philadelphia and once here—but defeat each time has followed the ascension. The Sox have not been above .500 since the first week of the season.

The Sox, who had been staging some pretty fancy rallies in recent heroic victories, played carelessly in the early innings yesterday, both on the defense and on the base lines. The rally they kept expecting never came, however, and the one run they accomplished was an unearned one in the sixth, produced when Hank Steinbacher reached second base on his third hit and an error by Wally Moses and scored on Gee Walker's single.

Bill Dietrich, who hadn't pitched since May 9, was the starting and losing pitcher. Merritt Cain, out of action several days longer than Dietrich, pitched the last two innings.

Macks Score Early.

Moses walked to get the game under way. It was his fourth walk in the two game series. Ambler flied to Steinbacher and Owen threw out Werber, Moses taking second. Brucker singled to left, scoring Moses and Brucker reached second when Walker became confused and failed to throw there. Johnson bounced to Berger.

After two were out in the home first, Steinbacher singled but became confused and started running to second while Caster was standing on the mound with the ball in his hand. Hank easily was tossed out, Caster to Lodigiani.

Siebert wasted a double in the second and the Sox wasted a walk and a single. Walker led off with a pass but ran to second on Radcliff's pop fly to Lodigiani and easily was doubled, Lodigiani to Siebert. Owen singled to center but Hayes popped to Ambler.

Sox Are Real Helpful.

Though no errors were charged, the Sox defense coöperated in a big way in the A's scoring of two runs in the third. Radcliff misjudged Moses' popup and let it plunk to earth three feet from first base. Ambler sacrificed and Werber singled to left, scoring Moses. Walker again became confused and failed to throw to second, Werber reaching the base without a play. Brucker singled, scoring Werber. Johnson popped out and Chapman fanned.

The Athletics made it 4 to 0 in the first half of the sixth. Brucker walked, took second on Johnson's infield out, third on Chapman's single to left and scored on Siebert's fly to Steinbacher. Lodigiani grounded to Radcliff.

The Sox got a run home after two were out in the sixth. Steinbacher

CUBS, FATTENED IN EAST, MOVE ON TO PITTSBURGH

Rain Prevents Concluding Game in Brooklyn.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 26.—The Cubs did not play today in Brooklyn because of rain, and in one way it was too bad. In another way it was all for the better. It was too bad because the Chicago boys probably would have beaten the Dodgers for the third straight time. It was better for Charley Grimm's warriors because they haven't had much time to themselves this season. Today's was only their third postponement of the year.

The Cubs moved out tonight for Pittsburgh, still regarded throughout the National league as the team which will keep the Giants out of their third successive pennant. The same appraisal has been made before, but they didn't win. Despite their bad record on form they still have a chance this time.

Lee Will Pitch.

If the Cubs had played today in Brooklyn, Clay Bryant would have attempted to take care of the pitching. Tomorrow in Pittsburgh Bryant will not start because the opposing cast will be different. Bill Lee, who has been impressive in winning his last two starts, will supplant Bryant. He shut out the Giants in ten innings and gave the Bees one run in nine. Lee will win a lot of games if he quits worrying about previous failures.

The Cubs won seven out of nine games on their eastern jaunt. The batting averages for the entire trip might look good in print, but it was not hitting which made the trip successful. It was a sudden tightening of the pitching department which previously was depressingly weak. That's the trouble with the Cubs over a full season. On the days the pitchers don't need runs the Cubs hit. On the days the pitchers need a few runs, the matter of inconsistency enters. That's why the Cubs haven't won a pennant since 1935.

Demaree Must Hit.

When you speak of the Cubs' attack you must consider Frank Demaree, the outfielder, and Billy Herman, who has a second base work bench. Last season, except for the last half when the Cubs lost their seven game lead, Demaree was the choicest hitter of the lot. Whether Demaree ever again will be a cleanup hitter is questionable. Herman will come back if he quits trying to play the hit and run play.

After the Cubs finish in Pittsburgh Sunday evening they will go home for a double-header against the Cincinnati Reds Monday.

Harper Beats Bowen, 6 to 3; Gains Playoff

Another place in the playoff series for the City High School Baseball league pennant was decided yesterday when Harper won from Bowen, 6 to 3, to clinch first place in the south section. Van Dyken limited Bowen to four hits.

The only other qualifier for the series is yet to be decided and involves Calumet and Morgan Park, which are fighting for second place in the south section. They played four innings yesterday before rain started, with Morgan Park leading, 11 to 1.

Waukegan handed Morton its first defeat of the Suburban league season on the Cicero field, 3 to 1. Petreman holding Cicero to two hits. Morton leads the circuit with nine won and one lost, and Waukegan is in second place with eight won and three lost.

venson sank a 45 footer at the 10th and a six footer at the 11th for birdies, and Kocsis was through. Probably never in recent history has a player looked so much like a champion in the morning only to lose touch with all his clubs so completely in the afternoon.

In contrast Sandy Somerville, present Canadian and former United States title holder, moved along like the wind and the rain. He had his worries with Walter McLeod, a really good Scottish player whom he beat, 1 up, in the morning. But when it came to the stretch he had what it takes. He played the last six holes through a gale in one under par and won the match with two whistling woods to the green on the long sixteenth.

Somerville Has It Own Way.

In the afternoon, beating R. C. Macgregor Jr., 3 and 2, Somerville had it about as he liked.

The story of Haas' defeat by McKinlay is a simple one. The southern youngster was half frozen and blown to bits. He never struck a shot worthy of his beautiful swing. On the other hand it is significant that McKinlay carried Hector Thomson, champion in 1936, to the twentieth before going out in the afternoon.

Eight men from the corners of the world now are left to battle it out. Two are native to this Scottish heath, Thomson and Stevenson; two are English, Leonard Crawley and two-time former champion, Cyril Tolley, and there's one each from Ireland [Cecil Ewing], Australia [H. W. Hattersley], Canada [Somerville], and the United States [Yates].

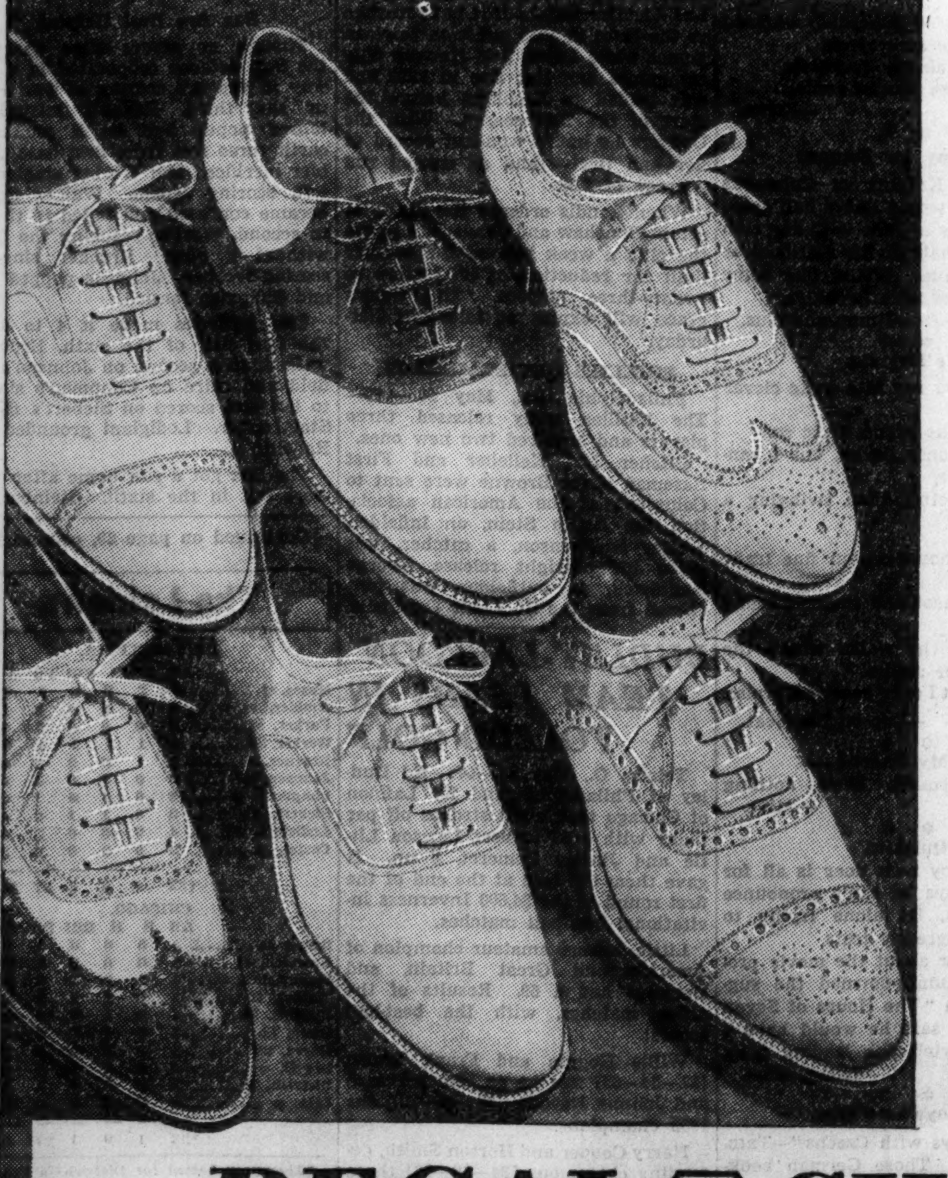
FINEST QUALITY GENUINE WHITE BUCKSKIN



Everything from a Goatskin to a Cowhide is tanned WHITE this year. Even Genuine White Buckskin is more confusing, as it is sold in six different grades, and an expert leather man can't tell the difference in the window.

But for the last fifteen years, Regal Stores have been recognized as Headquarters for Genuine White Buck from Coast to Coast, because we have made in our own factory, and sold in our own Stores more fine quality Genuine White Buckskin Shoes than any other shoe manufacturer in America.

The finest quality Genuine White Buckskin, used in Regal Shoes, costs about 50% more than the average cost of upper leather in any line of $5 shoes. It is used in the most expensive shoes, but it is too expensive for a cheap shoe.

And it is worth the difference because no one has ever discovered a real substitute for Genuine White Buckskin. It is porous and cool. It is easily cleaned. It has a soft look and "feel," and will look as well next year as this year.

P.S. You can pay twice our price, and not get any better quality Genuine White Buckskin—and this year a good many would like to save the difference.

RUFFING HALTS TIGERS ON 7 HITS; YANKS WIN, 5-1

Red Ends Team's Three Game Losing Streak.

Detroit, Mich., May 26.—(AP)—Red Ruffing came back off the hospital list today and pitched the Yankees out of their three game losing streak.

The big righthander turned in a seven hit effort in his first start since flu got him on May 8, and the world champions whipped the Tigers, 5 to 1. Ruffing fanned ten, walked only one and allowed only three Tigers to get as far as third base as he posted his fifth victory of the year against one defeat.

Cleveland, O., May 26.—(AP)—Jack Wilson held Cleveland to five hits, one of them a ninth inning home run by Ken Keltner, to pull Boston within two games of the league leading Indians today. Jimmy Foxx's tenth homer contributed to the 8 to 4 victory

The victory gave Boston an even split in the two game series. It was the second straight over Cleveland for Wilson, who held the Indians to four hits the last time he faced them. Score:

After the Browns took a 10 to 8 lead in the seventh with a five run attack, the Senators reached Russ Van Atta for two runs in the eighth and hit Jim Walkup for two more in the ninth.

Illinois Poloists Close Season Beating Ohio, 7 to 5

Champaign, Ill., May 26.—[Special.]—In the final game of the season the University of Illinois R. O. T. C. polo team defeated Ohio State, 7-5, today.

Sox Will Face Vern Kennedy, Detroit Today

Vern Kennedy, who has won six games for the Tigers without losing any, will pitch for the Detroiters in the opener of a three game series with the White Sox in Comiskey park today. At the time Vern won his sixth the total represented half his team's victories. Frank Gabler will make his Chicago debut for the Sox.

Gee Walker has been concentrating so hard on the business of snapping himself out of his hitting slump that he apparently has forgotten other aspects of the game. In the first and third innings he threw to the wrong base and in the second he put on a ludicrous exhibition of how not to run bases. But Gee is earnest and expects to get straightened out all around.

The Sox, who expected to play morning and afternoon games in Cleveland Monday, learned yesterday that they will play a double header in the Municipal stadium in the afternoon. Ted Lyons and Thornton Lee have been invited to stop the league leaders.

Connie Mack, 75 year old leader of the Athletics, remained in his hotel room yesterday. "Slightly indisposed, nothing serious," was the report on the grand old gentleman. He described it as "Just a little crick in my back which pops up every three or four years."

"Guess I'll have to stop hitting fungoes," he laughed. "Seriously, though, I feel 100 per cent outside of this little back trouble and I'll be in fine shape in another day or so."

Pirates Are O.K., but They Just Can't Hit

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 26.—(AP)—The refrain to this town's currently most popular ballad, "What's wrong with the Pirates" was sung today by President Bill Benswanger.

Back from an eastern swing Benswanger placed the whole blame for the Pirates' fifth place plight on "no hitting" and disclosed the club is now interested in signing young ball players.

It's Something New.

This latter program is novel in Pittsburgh, which has harbored Waite Hoyt, Fred Schulte, Fred Lindstrom, and many other elderly stars, not to enumerate any of the current crop. So Benswanger explained:

"We have decided on a definite policy of building with younger men whenever we are called upon to make replacements.

"However, just as definitly, this does not mean we are going to fire every veteran or keep every kid. For instance, we picked up Tommy Thevenow this spring for just one reason. We wanted an old head around in case of an emergency.

They've Played Good Ball.

"Our club really has played good ball all through the east except for that one debacle last Sunday, when the Giants beat us 18 to 2," he continued. "That was bad. However, you should have seen those same Giants the next day. They didn't look like pennant winners.

"We're not perfect. Nobody knows that any better than I. But you really can't charge the club with bad baseball outside of a few isolated instances.

"Just one single at the right time would have won any or all of those times we lost by one run. We lost once on one hit pitching. That shows where the fault is. If we get some hitting the pitching will take care of itself.

singled to right center, his third straight hit, and went on to second when Moses juggled the ball. Walker drove Steinbacher home with a single to center. Lodigiani threw out Radcliff.

Moses' single and walks to Ambler and Brucker loaded the bases for the A's with two out in the seventh but the inning ended when Johnson forced Brucker.

Hayes doubled with one down in the eighth, but Sewell flied to Johnson and Thompson, batting for Dietrich, grounded out.

Cain Takes a Hand.

Cain replaced his fellow Athletic alumnus on the mound in the eighth. He walked Chapman and Siebert, but made Lodigiani fly to Steinbacher. The runners advanced on Caster's sacrifice. Then Moses was intentionally passed, giving him a record of reaching base nine times in ten trips to the plate during the series. Finney batted for Ambler and lined to Hayes to leave three base runners stranded.

With one out in the ninth, Brucker singled to left to round out a perfect record at bat, but promptly was sunk in a double play after Johnson lined to Hayes.

Radcliff opened the home ninth with the ninth Chicago hit, a single to center, and Owen walked on five pitches. Hayes hit into the third Philadelphia double play, Werber to Lodigiani to Siebert, and Sewell popped to Lodigiani.

PERHAPS ARCARO CAN PUT BIRTHDAY OVER AT AURORA

Whitney Horse May Need Million Dollar Ride.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Something about Birthday, Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stable colt, which Eddie Arcaro will ride in the renewal of the $12,000 Illinios Derby at the Aurora course tomorrow afternoon.

Eddie Arcaro.

In the first place Birthday will have to get one of those million dollar rides Arcaro gave Lawrin in the Kentucky Derby to win. Otherwise records of race horses do not mean anything, and Birthday's record indeed is spotty.

In thirteen starts last year he won a single race. Next he moved to Florida, where he captured only one race in five starts during his winter campaign. This spring in Kentucky he was beaten twice, but in one of these starts he ran the best race of his career. That race was run at Keeneland, and to beat Birthday by a length and a half Bull Lea had to run the mile and a sixteenth in 1:44, a track record. Later at Churchill Downs Birthday was beaten four lengths by Gov. Chandler, but he finished stoutly after early interference.

Should Be a Router.

Birthday should be a great router. His sire, St. Brideau, was able to run all day. His dam, Welcome Gift, was a daughter of the long distance racer, Mad Hatter.

Arcaro made Lawrin win a Kentucky Derby. He may be able to make Birthday win in the one big stake race of the Aurora season. Mrs. Whitney is fortunate to have a jocky like Arcaro hanging around her turf establishment.

When it was first announced that Arcaro would come here to ride Birthday it was generally believed that this would make Birthday the Illinois Derby favorite. That hardly seems likely right now. Gov. Chandler may parade to the post as the public choice. The four length triumph he scored over Birthday at Churchill Downs is the reason.

Bull Lea will not go to the post in tomorrow's race. Taxes, a colt that has raced little, will be Warren Wright's Calumet farm color bearer. Mrs. Ethel V. Mars, according to plans yesterday, will be represented by Mountain Ridge and John One.

Switch Jocky Assignments.

Some switches were made in the Derby jocky assignments yesterday. Wesley Sears was advised by Carroll Bierman that the latter could not come here to ride Xavier. He then employed Paul Ryan to ride his colt. Billy O'Toole hired Fred Faust to ride his mud runner, Elooto, and James Emery engaged Bobby Morris to pilot Dolly Val. Jack Richard will ride Gangplank for the Greentree stable. This colt will be a running mate of Birthday.

He lost his pants!

You've heard that one many times at the race tracks. It actually happened at Aurora yesterday. The victim was Jocky Herbert Litzenberger.

He rode Gilda's Lass in the six furlong fifth race and made most of the pace. He was out of the money at the finish. Soon after the field thundered past the winning post Litzenberger fell off his horse. When he skidded into the sloppy mud his pants were ripped off. The jocky hid behind the eighth pole until Patrol Judge George Swain arrived and wrapped him in a rain coat.

FAIR GROUNDS RACES TO LURE 500 MILE PILOTS

Promoter Carl Stockholm will leave tomorrow for Indianapolis to sign leading 500 mile drivers for the automobile races at the Fair Grounds speedway on Sunday, June 12. Stockholm has received assurances from practically all pilots who will drive on the Hoosier motor speedway Monday that they will be available for the Fair Grounds inaugural.

BARCARDI SWEEP, reserved off the pace and under restraint for three-quarters, responded when called upon thereafter, wore down CAPTAIN DANGER inside the last eighth and then stalled off VIN NOIR. Latter, badly outrun for three-quarters, moved up thereafter on the outside, came out for the drive and, closing boldly, was getting to the winner. CAPTAIN DANGER, quick to take command, made the pace under a snug hold, drew out on the second turn and tired badly in the last furlong.

LINCOLN FIELDS EXPECTS 30,000 FOR OPENING DAY

Marica Gets Top Weight in Handicap Monday.

The Lincoln Fields race track is ready for the twenty-four day meeting which opens on Monday. The new totalisator, the newly inclosed outdoor dining room, and many other improvements are completed. Lincoln Fields officials expect the largest crowd in the thirteen year history of the track for this year's inauguration of the metropolitan Chicago racing season.

Expect Crowd of 30,000.

The $5,000 added Crete handicap and the seven supporting events probably will be witnessed by 30,000.

Weights for the Crete handicap, assigned by Racing Secretary William H. Shelley, call for Tom Taggart's mare, Marica, to carry top weight of 127 pounds over the 6 furlong route. Three pounds lower is Hal Price Headley's Preëminent.

Mucho Gusto, winner of twelve stakes in the last two and a half years, and Leading Article, sprint star of winter racing, will carry 120 pounds. The Calumet farm's Crossbow II. at 118 and its Talked About, 116, are other high ones, along with the veteran mare, Silverette, which will carry 116.

Horses Keep Coming.

The invasion of horses has been under way since Tuesday and will reach its height tomorrow and Sunday. Many thoroughbreds, which will remain at Churchill Downs for the close of the meeting on Monday, will not check in at Crete until the following morning.

The transferring of forty-two Calumet farm horses from the farm near Lexington and from Churchill Downs has been completed and the Warren Wright stable will be the largest, numerically, at the track.

2 Hambletonian Nominees Will Meet Tomorrow

Goshen, N. Y., May 26.—[Special.]—The first eastern preview to the Hambletonian stake will be seen Saturday at Good Time track when two New York owned colts face the starter with their owners in the sulkies.

25 YACHTS START RACE TONIGHT TO MILWAUKEE

Rubaiyat's Performance Will Be Watched.

Sail yachts from Michigan and Wisconsin ports will meet with Chicago craft off Belmont harbor at 8 o'clock tonight, for the start of the Great Lakes Cruising club's squadron run to Milwaukee harbor. Nearly 25 yachts are expected to start on the 80 statute mile trip.

Commodore Kenneth R. Ball, head of the Cruising club, revealed yesterday that his flagship, the cutter Aloha, will not be in commission until next week. He is planning to accompany the fleet as part of the crew on another yacht.

Watch Rubaiyat's Performance.

Lake Michigan yachtsmen are interested in the performance of Commodore Nathaniel Rubinkam's sloop Rubaiyat in this race. The yacht has been rerigged and fitted out to take part in the Newport, R. I., to Bermuda race on June 21. The Rubaiyat will represent the Columbia Yacht club of Chicago in the 635 mile race. Geoff G. Smith, eastern yachtsman who will navigate the 44 foot yacht in the race to Bermuda, will come to Chicago by plane today to join the local crew in the boat's first test. Also on board the Rubaiyat will be Commodore Rubinkam, his brother, Henry, Fran Byrne, Leeds Mitchell Jr., Lynn Williams Jr., Harry Nye Jr., and Lockwood Pirie.

Rangoon, the first new 8 meter class racing sloop bought by a Chicago yachtsman since 1936, will compete in the race tonight. It will fly the Chicago Corinthian Yacht club burgee. Rangoon is a 49½ foot racer, weighing 11 tons. It is owned by Al Newman and his uncle, Nathaniel Newman.

Manitou Is Largest Entry.

The 62 foot yawl Manitou, owned by James R. Lowe, port captain of Black Lake, Mich., is the largest yacht entered. Siren, Tar Baby, and Gloriant are other yachts from other ports to compete tonight. Included in the Chicago entries are Warrior, Eslyn, Bagheera, Naughty Lady, Vagabond, Flight, Adventure, Windsong, Ruth S., Fortune, Baccarat, Bangalore, Tonga, Trident, Virago, Ariel, Breeze, and Betty Bro.

Both Forks of the Flambeau Ideal for Canoeing, Fishing

BY BOB BECKER.

As soon as the water goes down in the large rivers of Wisconsin the fly rod or bait casting fisherman is going to miss a lot of fun unless he takes at least one float trip on either the north or the south fork of the Flambeau river. Both of these tributaries of the big Flambeau are interesting to navigate. They flow through wild country, the fisherman is not crowded by a lot of trafic, and he can get fish.

The point is that the angler shouldn't take a float trip until water conditions are right. Our tip to him is to wait until after the bass season opens unless he's interested primarily in muskellunge and walleyes.

Start at Lugerville.

There are two short trips on the south fork of the Flambeau and a choice of several floats down the bigger north fork. One of the most delightful stretches of the south fork is between the old lumber town of Lugerville, Wis., and a bridge downstream about 15 miles, which is the take-out point. We have made this jaunt, and it's a dandy. There are just enough singing rapids to make it interesting.

The guide takes you down in a big, safe river boat that slides through the white water without any trouble. Below these pitches you find the small mouth black bass and the wall-eyes, as naturally the river has made quite deep holes after it rolls "downstairs" over the bowlders. Where the river is behaving itself and flowing along more quietly you find scores of big bowlders sticking up out of the water. These are good spots for muskies.

So, you'll be sharpshooting at these bowlders as the current takes you along. On one of our trips down the south fork from Lugerville we cast these bowlders for muskies, but got black bass instead! The small mouths were lying behind the rocks and instantly hit a surface lure with spinners.

The North Fork Is Interesting.

The north fork of the Flambeau is bigger, has more water in it, and shoves you along with a faster current. It's one of the most interesting rivers we ever have traveled by canoe in Michigan, Wisconsin, or Indiana because of the rapids and the volume of water in it. There are at least two dandy one day float trips which start at points west of Fifield. A fellow needs both strong muskie rods and lighter pike and bass rods when fishing here. As soon as the water level drops in these rivers they'll be much better for fishing.

4 Year Old Mare Makes It 4 in a Row

New York, May 26.—[Special.]—Idle Miss, 4 year old mare, made it four victories in a row when she won the Little Neck handicap today at Belmont Park, where rain and wind failed to alter the consistency of form. The B. F. Christmas color-bearer was the third public choice to win.

There was such a heavy play for this Maryland owned horse that she went to the post at 3 to 5 after having opened at 6 to 5. Although she was in a pocket part of the time, Idle Miss made short work of the others once she got racing room. The margin at the end of the mile was three lengths, with the daughter of Distraction and Misleading timed in at 1:39 1-5.

Pixey Dell Second.

Pixey Dell ran second, four lengths in front of Alexandrine. The field was completed by Citadel, Miss Rainbow, and Snow Flurry.

Hal Price Headley's trainer, Duval Headley, sent out another winner in Hants, a gelding, who won by eight lengths. Hants was a joint second choice at 13 to 5 with Foxshade, who brought up eighth. T. M. Dorsett, 2 to 1 choice, faltered after making the pace.

Raymond Workman, despite a cold, rode Hants and managed his mount so that he was more than willing to extend himself. The time was :58 1-5 for the five furlongs down the Widener chute. Meadow Morn was second and Maehero third.

Double for Bejshak.

Jocky Johnny Bejshak scored a double aboard Cleveland Putnam's Black Rhapsody and Mose Lowenstein's Night Intruder. Both returned substantial prices.

Bradley Beats Wesleyan, 3 to 0, in Hurling Duel

Peoria, Ill., May 26.—[Special.]—John Hendricks of Bradley had the better of Jim Myers of Illinois Wesleyan in a pitchers' duel this afternoon and Bradley scored a 3 to 0 victory to win second place in the Illinois College conference. Consecutive doubles by Ted Tanish and Hendricks following Menendez's error on Osborn's grounder pushed across the first two Tech runs in the sixth inning. Singles by Hendricks, Theus, and McClarence scored the third in the eighth. Score:

Bradley	000 002 01*—3	5	0

Batteries—J. Myers and Graff; Hendricks and Meisinger.

with his own weight, but it will be to his advantage to keep Armstrong above the lightweight limit. Ross didn't work out today, but those who should know said he might have done a bit of shadow boxing in his room, some unlimbering and calisthenics.

Day Steps on Scales.

Davey Day, Chicago lightweight, who may have something to say about the lightweight title one of these days, weighed in at 136½ pounds today for his eight round preliminary bout with Norment Quarles of Hendersonville, N. C. Quarles was one-quarter of a pound lighter.

The European amateur boxing team, which Chicago's Golden Glovers defeated 5 bouts to 3 last week, arrived in New York this morning after sweeping eight bouts in Minneapolis Tuesday. The officials, who had been invited to the championship fight as guests of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, were disappointed by the postponement. They now are hoping that the match can be held tomorrow, as they sail for Europe Saturday noon on the Georgic.

Finn Regains Bag.

Olli Lehtinen of Finland, who is about the most lonesome person in the United States because of his inability to speak to any one, lost one of his traveling bags today in the shuffle between Grand Central station, the Hudson river docks, and the hotel. The bag was located, however, and Lehtinen was all smiles.

The German boxers, who were disappointed because three of them were defeated in Chicago, were full of pep at lunch today and insisted on describing how all members of the team won in the northwest and, in particular, how Herbert Nurnberg, Adolf Baumgarten, and Herbert Runge won by knockouts.

Mitchell Leads Junior Trafic Club Golfers

Most members finished their rounds in the Junior Trafic Club of Chicago golf tournament before a heavy rain descended yesterday at Glen Eagles. W. J. Mitchell, with 43—39—82, led members in gross scoring. C. C. Lassen took second price with 39—44—83.

Winning guests were Phil Lawyer, 40—42—82, and P. M. Greenberg, 41—44—85.

Flight winners were Art Kuehne, Frank Macomber, H. E. Cowles, K. G. Foster, C. H. Cornell, Arthur E. Crabb, Ed Christensen, F. T. Bolen, G. L. Kendall, and B. C. Milliken.

Henry W. Coffman, president, said the next tournament will be held on June 30 at Southmoor.

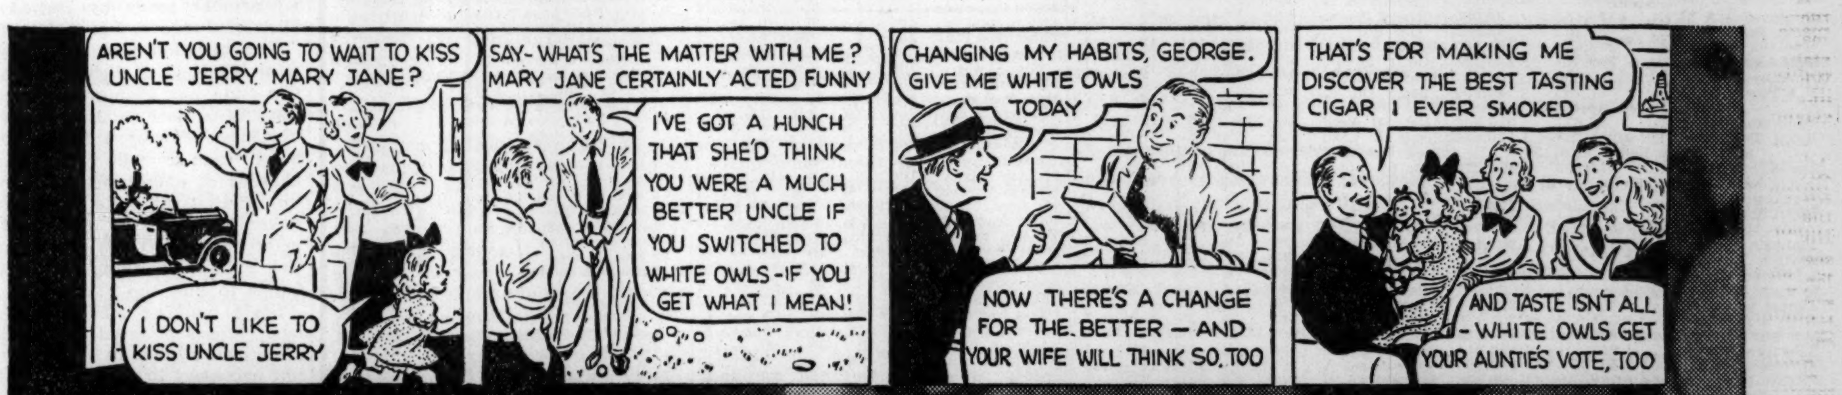
Want Both CIGARS and KISSES?



Smokers' Test showed Vintage Tobacco was easier on your breath

WHITE OWLS are definitely easier on your breath—scientific tests proved it. And there's a good reason why, too. Every White Owl always has a Vintage-tobacco filler. Nature—not artificial factory processing—made this tobacco exceptionally mild, mellow.

We maintain a vast crop-inspection system — the only known organization of its kind —to locate Vintage tobacco. Even in Vintage years, we classify all filler tobacco into seven grades—and buy only tobacco of the quality of the top three for use in White Owls.

Switch to White Owls today and taste the rich Vintage tobacco . . . then notice how quickly your breath clears.

Vintage
WHITE OWL

The Metallic Nose Knows
Scientists use a sensitive osmoscope to measure odor . . . to record its intensity and lasting power. Ten popular brands of 5¢ cigars were tested by this machine. White Owl was easier on the breath than all the others. After 30 minutes, all trace of tobacco odor disappeared from the breath of White Owl smokers.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Among the Birds.

May 26, 1938.

THE two turkey hens on the Tribune's Du Page county farm that coöperated in hatching five poults from two nests seem to be getting along agreeably after more than two weeks of caring for their combined family. These hens had their nests side by side in the hay loft of the sheep barn. They suddenly appeared in the barn yard together with their five youngsters. Now they are always together, each equally concerned with the care of their poults. One of the hens is a Bourbon red and the other a bronze turkey.

Barn Swallows Return.

Just a few feet from where these turkey hens nested side by side are four new feathered residents of the farm. They are barn swallows, the birds that the farm workers always look for when May comes. Two pairs of barn swallows have nested for so many summers in the sheep barn that the season wouldn't seem quite normal without these friendly birds flying in and out through the big doors. One pair has returned to a favorite nesting site on a rafter of the barn. On this rafter a small piece of metal was bolted many years ago, evidently for some piece of machinery. It has no use now except as a foundation for the swallows' mud nest.

The calls of songbirds and the sight of them in the open fields and around the barn yards is one of the most attractive features of the farm at this season of the year. No matter where you go you hear the music that only the permanent or summer bird residents can provide. Around one of the barn yards the wrens, starlings, and barn swallows have the place to themselves. In a field of clover near the barn the gay bobolinks and the meadow larks take the play away from all other birds that nest on the ground. We noticed ten or 12 bobolinks in one field of red clover the other morning.

Use Pond as Base.

Some of the Canada geese which live on the big pond now are using it as a base for tours over the countryside. When things get dull around the pond the big birds take to the air, fly to other ponds, feed for a while, and then return to their home base. The other evening they came in from the west after making a trip around the country. From all the evidence that the flockmaster has gathered it looks now as if they had gone to the Fox river before returning to the pond.

Included in these Du Page county flying trips are no adult geese that have goslings. These birds are too busy looking after their families. There are now 22 little goslings on the pond which have been hatched out this spring. Five were hatched just a few days ago. There now is only one sitting goose to be heard from. She is due off the nest in just a few days.

FDIC MAY WAIVE STOCK LIABILITY IN CLOSED BANKS

Roosevelt Signs Bill to Relieve Shareholders.

Washington, D. C., May 26.—(AP)—President Roosevelt signed today a bill authorizing the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation to waive its claims for assessments against the stockholders of insured banks which fail.

The legislation is of interest principally in thirteen states where what is known as double liability is imposed by constitution or statute. In those states an owner of stock in a state bank is liable for assessments up to the par value of the stock if the bank fails and its assets are insufficient to pay depositors and other creditors.

Double liability derived its name in banking circles from the fact that, although the potential assessment is limited to the value of the stock, the owner also loses his original investment in the security.

FDIC Pays Up to $5,000.

When an insured bank fails the FDIC pays off the depositors up to $5,000 each and assumes their claims upon the assets of the bank. The new law does not affect the rights of other creditors to double liability assessments.

Banking officials said the new law was intended to make it easier for state banks to sell stock to strengthen their capital structures, and to put insured state banks on a parity with national banks, from which congress removed double liability in 1935.

Arizona, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Utah, Washington, and West Virginia impose double liability in their constitutions and Montana and Vermont impose it by statute.

Attacks Legality in Illinois.

Springfield, Ill., May 26.—(AP)—An attack on the legality of the affiliation of Illinois banks with the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation was the major point in a case under advisement today by United States District Judge J. Leroy Adair.

The question was raised by Clarence W. Heyl of Peoria, member of the state bar examining board, during his defense at Peoria yesterday of Claude Frankenburger, Rio State bank cashier who was tried on charges of embezzlement. Heyl contended that the state legislature had never enacted or submitted to a referendum vote an amendment to the Illinois banking act, enabling banks to join the FDIC.

State banking officials said, however, it was believed that under the state banking act an amendment was not necessary to permit banks to join the FDIC.

Home Owners Loan Bonds.

Investors' Guide: I have about $3,000 to invest and am considering bonds of the Home Owners Loan corporation. Does the government guarantee these bonds? What is their tax status?—Mrs. A. C.

Answer: Bonds of the Home Owners Loan corporation are guaranteed unconditionally both as to principal and interest by the United States government. They are exempt as to both principal and interest from all taxation except surtaxes, estate, inheritance, and gift taxes. The exemption applies to any future taxation that may be imposed on similar obligations by federal, state, or local taxing authorities.

Cuban Public Works Bonds.

Investors' Guide: Will you please furnish me with information regarding refinancing plans on Cuban public works bonds?—W. R. O.

Answer: The Cuban government has arranged a plan to exchange its defaulted 5½ per cent public works bonds for a new issue of 4½ per cent bonds. Unpaid interest will be settled at the rate of 2½ per cent. The Manufacturers Trust company, New York, has been appointed to handle the exchange of securities.

Reports on Brokers.

Investors' Guide: I have some stock that I want to sell. Will you please send me the name of a good broker? —B. R. N.

Answer: Investors' Guide does not suggest brokers. It would be unfair to do this because there are so many brokers who are both reliable and financially able to fulfill all obligations. We will be glad, however, to provide you with a report on a broker you select. Our files now contain reports on most of the leading brokerage concerns and investment houses.

Currency Exchanges.

Investors' Guide: In connection with a newspaper article concerning the 12,000 "rubber checks" written by a Chicago man, I notice the term "currency exchange" used several times. This term is new to me. Will you please explain it?—C. C.

Answer: A currency exchange is a firm whose principal business consists of cashing checks for persons who have no bank account or who for some other reason find it inconvenient to cash checks at a bank. A small fee is charged for this service. Many currency exchanges also provide a number of other services.

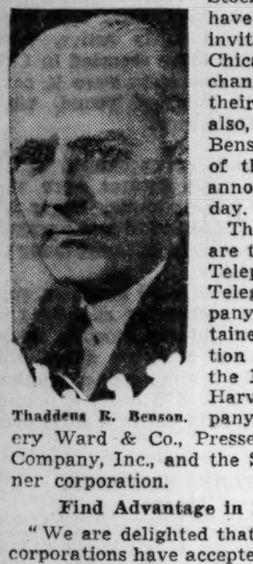
BIG COMPANIES WILL LIST ON CHICAGO BOARD

Six Leaders Accept Exchange's Bid.

Six large corporations whose stocks are actively traded on the New York Stock exchange have accepted the invitation of the Chicago Stock exchange to list their shares here also, Thaddeus R. Benson, president of the exchange, announced yesterday.



Thaddeus R. Benson.

The companies are the American Telephone and Telegraph company, the Container Corporation of America, the International Harvester company, Montgomery Ward & Co., Pressed Steel Car Company, Inc., and the Stewart-Warner corporation.

Find Advantage in Listing.

"We are delighted that these great corporations have accepted our invitation," Benson said. "These corporations before reaching their decisions gave careful consideration to our proposal, and after thorough investigation were convinced of the advantages of a Chicago listing."

The Chicago exchange in April invited about 60 major corporations to list their shares in Chicago without paying the usual listing fees. The companies receiving the invitations either had issues listed in Chicago at one time, or are now carrying on a substantial business in the middle west.

"We are willing to list these corporations free of cost because we believe the ultimate result will be of great benefit to all concerned," Benson said when the invitation was extended. "It will be a big step in the development of Chicago as a financial center. Listing on the Chicago Stock exchange will mean more complete association of these corporations with this great territory."

Fee Saving Indicated.

Listing fees are based on a sliding scale of per share charges. Based on the present scale, the cost of listing at regular rates would be about $32,000 for American Telephone and $15,500 for Montgomery Ward.

Montgomery Ward already has its class A stock listed in Chicago. Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, Container corporation, and Stewart Warner have their executive offices in Chicago. An important subsidiary of American Telephone and Telegraph, the Illinois Bell Telephone company, has headquarters in Chicago. The main office of Pressed Steel Car is in Pittsburgh, but the company has a plant near Chicago. Pressed Steel Car is affiliated with General American Transportation corporation, which has general offices in Chicago.

Actual trading in the shares of the six companies cannot begin for another month or six weeks. Formal approval must be given to each listing which is then forwarded to the Securities and Exchange commission in Washington, D. C., for approval. Thirty days must elapse between the receipt of the application by the SEC and the start of trading.

Arthur Betts, nominated May 5 for the chairmanship of the governing board of the exchange, was still the only nominee for the post yesterday. The period for making nominatons expires at midnight tonight.

MEXICO OFFERS PLAN TO PAY FOR OIL SEIZURES

Washington, D. C., May 26.—[Special.]—The Mexican government tonight officially laid a plan before the United States for compensating American oil companies for properties expropriated by the Cardenas government last March.

The plan was given to Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles by Francisco Castillo Najera, Mexican ambassador to the United States, who has just returned from Mexico City. There he conferred on payment for the oil seizures with President Lazaro Cardenas of Mexico.

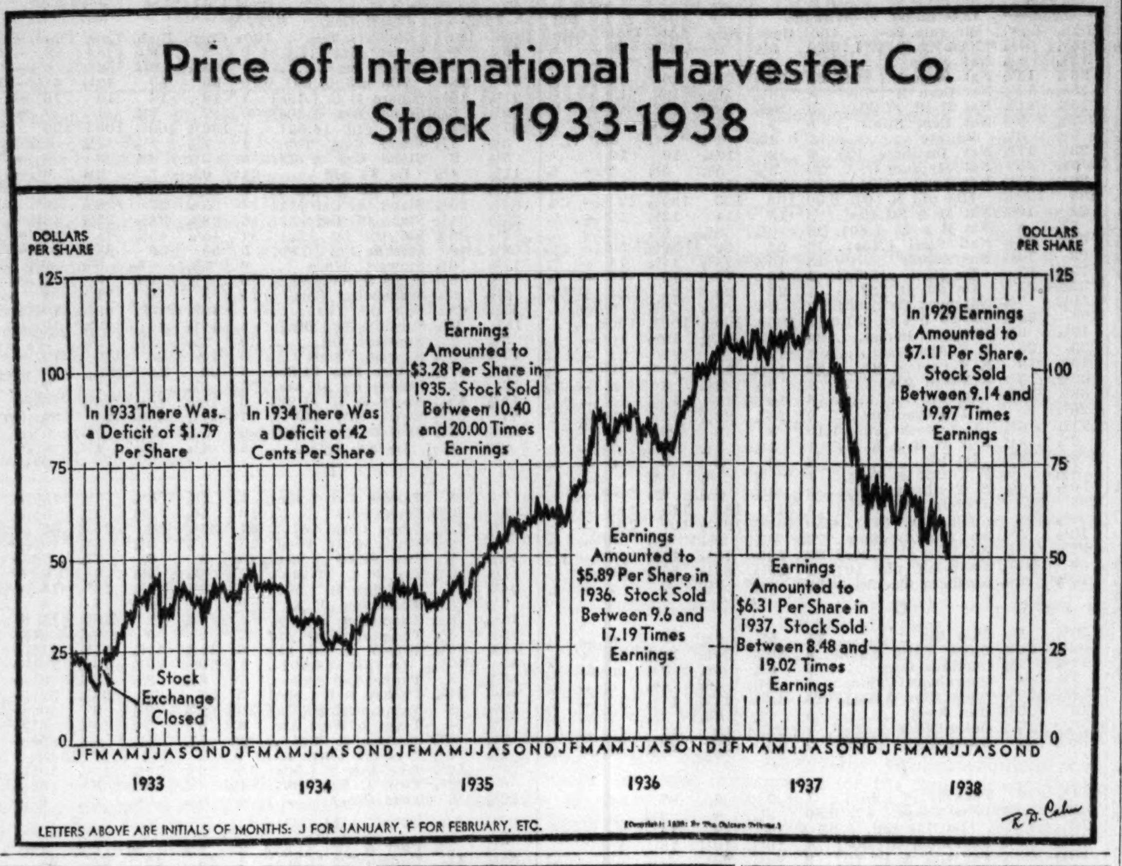
Ambassador Najera said the proposals he submitted were to be studied by the state department and then will be transmitted to the oil companies concerned. He would not hint as to the nature of the proposals he set forth in an hour's conference with Welles. The ambassador said the plan he presented proposes payments and contains methods of guaranteeing the payments.

STOCK IN CLOSED JOINT LAND BANK IS HELD LIABLE

East St. Louis, Ill., May 26.—(AP)—Stockholders of the St. Louis Joint Stock Land bank, which has been in receivership since June 1, 1932, were held liable by United States District Judge Fred L. Wham today for the face value of their shares.

This question was preliminary to a hearing, set for next Tuesday, to determine whether seventy-three Illinois residents were liable for assessments, although they had transferred their shares to a holding company in 1930.

A bondholders' committee, which brought the suit, contended the transfer was illegal and those who participated in it were still liable for the bank's debts. Judge Wham found the bank had assets of about $8,000,000 and liabilities of $15,000,000.



CEA Weighs Cargill Attack on Grain Board

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 26.—The commodity exchange administration today took under advisement a motion to dismiss the complaint of Cargill, Inc., Minneapolis grain company, accusing the Chicago Board of Trade with violation of the commodity exchange act.

Downward manipulation of corn prices in August and September, 1937, and unlawful extension of time for delivery on September contracts were charged against the board of trade in two and a half hours of argument before the commission, which consists of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper, and Attorney General Homer Cummings.

Exchange Defends Action.

The board of trade, through its counsel, answered that its action in ordering Cargill to liquidate part of its holdings in September corn was necessitated by its obligation under the commodity exchange act to prevent manipulation of the market by any of its members. It was further argued that Cargill, Inc., and not the board of trade had attempted manipulation of prices.

Five motions were before the commission. The first was that of the board of trade to dismiss the Cargill complaint. Other motions of the board were that Cargill, Inc., produce its books before the committee to substantiate the board's countercharge that Cargill was engaged in market manipulation; that hearings be transferred to Chicago, where conduct of the hearings could be facilitated, and that records relating to the expulsion of the Cargill Grain Company of Illinois, a subsidiary of Cargill, Inc., from the Chicago Board of Trade be introduced into the record.

Cargill Asks Portions Stricken.

Cargill, Inc., was the sponsor of a fifth motion, which asked that certain portions of the board of trade's answer to its complaint be stricken. The striking of these portions of the answer, it was acknowledged, would have advanced Cargill's complaint.

The commission confined itself on the first motion and would not consider any of the remaining four. This action was widely interpreted as indicating that the commission would decide in favor of the Chicago Board of Trade and throw out the Cargill petition.

Members of the commission have been familiar with the case, which arose when the Chicago Board of Trade expelled officials of the Cargill, Inc., for alleged manipulation of prices and attempting to corner the corn market in September, 1937, in violation of the exchange rules.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace said a decision will probably be handed down within a few days.

HURLEY REPORTS WASHER SALES FAIL OF PROFIT

President E. N. Hurley Jr. of the Electric Household Utilities corporation yesterday told stockholders at the annual meeting that current sales to offset operating expenses and produce a profit.

Efforts have been made to reduce operating expenses where possible, he said, including reduction of officers' salaries by about 20 per cent, but no reductions have been made in wage scales, which are generally higher than at this time last year.

FEDERAL AUTO QUIZ TO HAVE 300 WITNESSES

South Bend, Ind., May 26.—(AP)—Government attorneys conducting a grand jury investigation of trade practices of three major automobile firms — Ford, General Motors, and Chrysler—said today the witness list had grown to 300. Originally, they had expected to call only approximately 100 witnesses.

The government counsel declined to explain the increase in the witness list, other than to say additional witnesses had been summoned from several midwestern states.

Anti-trust indictments are sought against the three automobile manufacturers and their associated finance companies on allegations that they have coerced retail dealers and discriminated against independent finance concerns.

BUILDING STEEL APRIL BOOKINGS HIGHEST FOR '38

New York, May 26.—(AP)—April bookings for fabricated structural steel of 92,130 tons reached the highest figure for any month thus far in 1938, the American Institute of Steel Construction reported today, an increase of 7,873 tons over the previous month's revised figure, but 66,341 tons under the comparable 1937 year. April bookings represented 39.4 per cent of normal [the 1928-'31 average].

Chicago Trade Heads Pay Visit to Rockford

Rockford, Ill., May 26.—[Special.]—Headed by Oscar Mayer, president, 100 members of the Chicago Association of Commerce today carried a message of good will from Chicago to Rockford—the first of a series of good will trips to be made by the Chicagoans this year to other Illinois cities. The party traveled on a special train on the Illinois Central railroad.

The Chicagoans were welcomed at a luncheon at the Faust hotel by Mayor Charles F. Brown and later divided into groups to visit some of the industrial plants for which the city is noted.

Taxes the Big Problem.

At the hotel, citizens of Chicago and Rockford tried to tell each other what is wrong with business. At one typical table was a lawyer, an automobile dealer, and a wholeale plumbing dealer. All three were agreed that the one big handicap to business is taxes, and next in importance, they were agreed, is the labor situation in which radical leaders have been creating unrest.

"Here is an example of what I mean," the lawyer said, "I represent a Rockford manufacturing company. In 1935 our total tax bill was $15,785; in 1936 it was $24,907, and last year it soared to $115,737. The 1937 total does not include $42,000 which we set up as a reserve for the undistributed profits tax, which we are contesting.

"Now I ask you how can we go ahead with improvements which we ought to make in our plant in the face of such taxes as we had to pay last year? It cannot be done."

Levy Drives Business Away.

The automobile dealer complained of the Illinois sales tax which is causing automobile buyers to go 18 miles to Beloit to save the 3 per cent sales tax. And the plumbing dealer said that the Illinois sales tax is so complicated that persons engaged in the plumbing and allied enterprises cannot figure out what they owe.

After the luncheon some of the Chicagoans visited machine tool plants. Hard hit by cheap labor in the south, Rockford has lost ground as a leader among furniture manufacturing cities. The manufacture of tools used by other great industries to make their products is now Rockford's leading industry.

One party visited a large plant which manufactures machine tools for the automobile and other industries, precision instruments used in the making of clocks and watches, textile machinery, and equipment for the air conditioning industry. One precision instrument nearing completion is a machine which will be sent to England where it will be used in turning out parts for British artillery.

Replaces Auto Business.

With the automobile industry reducing its purchases, a part of the gap has been filled at this plant by the demands of the air conditioning industry and by orders for special precision tooling machines from other industries.

Rockford business leaders, discussing the city's relations with Chicago, said they are looking forward to the time when the Illinois Central installs streamlined train service to run the 90 miles between the two cities in about an hour and a half. Illinois Central officials said they would like to start such a service, but lacked money to pay for it.

STOCKS TUMBLE TO LOW LEVELS OF EARLY APRIL

Late Selling Wave Crumbles Prices.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 26.—A selling attack in midafternoon today pushed stock market prices fractions to two points lower in the main list and as much as five points lower in the volatile issues. One stock—Republic Steel preferred A tumbled $19 on only three sales.

After the selling flurry ended prices flattened out and some slight recoveries were made, but at the close declines outnumbered advances by a large majority. Trading, which had been slow, expanded considerably on the decline, and volume for the day reached some 781,370 shares.

The losses pushed the market to the lowest levels since April 8. Many issues were driven into new low ground for the year.

Dividend News Unfavorable.

Unfavorable dividend news—emphasized by the omission of payments by Anaconda Mining company—was one of the chief influences in the recession, according to some observers.

Some of the selling was described as for foreign account, and some brokers reported that many holders were getting out of stocks in view of the approaching week-end holiday.

All sections of the market were affected by the selling, with industrial shares the heaviest losers. The trading list broadened to 750 issues, with 574 closing lower, 46 higher and 130 unchanged.

Anaconda Copper paced its division lower with a drop of 2¼ points in the most active trading of the day.

Steel Leaders Decline.

U. S. Steel and Bethlehem were plentifully supplied in the steels and slumped 1⅜ and 2 points, respectively.

General Motors dropped ¾ point in the motors and Chrysler lost 1 point.

Aviation shares were hit by the selling. Douglas and Boeing dropped 2 points or so.

General Electric showed the way into lower ground for the heavy machinery shares.

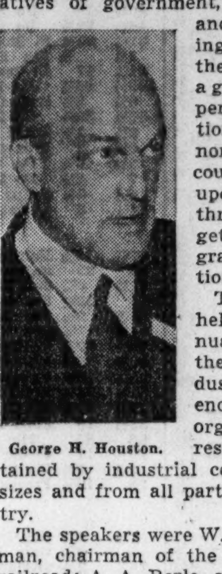
Allied Chemical was hard hit in chemical group, slumping 4¼ points.

Electric Power and Light and North American were weak spots in the utility sector. American Telephone slumped 2¼ points.

Rails worked fractionally lower for the most part, in sympathy with the weakness in the other sections.

General Co-operation Urged to End Nation's Economic Ills

New York, May 26.—(AP)—Representatives of government, management, and labor, speaking tonight from the same forum, agreed that a permanent solution of the economic ills of the country depended upon bringing all three groups together in a program of coöperation.



George H. Houston.

The forum was held at the annual meeting of the National Industrial Conference board — an organization for research maintained by industrial concerns of all sizes and from all parts of the country.

The speakers were W. Averill Harriman, chairman of the Union Pacific railroad; A. A. Berle, assistant secretary of state; George H. Houston, president of Baldwin Locomotive works, and Philip H. Murray, vice chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization.

Management and Labor.

Harriman, chairman of the Business Advisory council of the department of commerce, said coöperation must begin with labor and management, and declared tolerance of other persons' views must be a prerequisite in any program.

"Too many now expect coöperation to be achieved on the basis of the acceptance of their own point of view by the others," he said. "For example, people in government expect business to come back into the game and play the game according to the new rules, while business is convinced that its arms are unreasonably tied by the new rules and that these rules will have to be modified before it can make its full contribution.

"If there is to be real coöperation, I contend that the coöperation must begin between management and labor, voluntarily and through private initiative. I am encouraged in this belief by the recent public statements of several important labor leaders, including Philip Murray, George M. Harrison, and the executive council of the American Federation of Labor."

Favors National Movement.

Harriman proposed that the conference board take the initiative in arranging a "national movement of cooperation," getting together individuals from both groups "who have the courage to assume publicly the responsibility of leadership."

Houston declared the country is ready and willing to support a program by which government, labor, and management would "reach an agreement upon the essentials for recovery within the framework of our American system of free enterprise and without coercion or suppression."

View of Labor Leader.

Murray, after urging general support of President Roosevelt's program to meet the present emergency, placed before congress several weeks ago, said, "There should be convened, under presidential auspices, at an early date, a truly representative group of citizens to work with each other toward the accomplishment of prosperity and stability."

As an approach to solution of present economic ills Berle recommended a complete organization of business, industry by industry, to provide in effect a national association to conduct an extensive survey of production resources, markets, prices, employment conditions, and methods of distribution.

BANK CLEARINGS UNDER YEAR AGO FOR 28TH WEEK

New York, May 26.—[Special.]—Bank clearings in twenty-two leading cities in the week ended Wednesday totaled $4,435,857,000, a decrease of 12.9 per cent from the preceding week and 16.1 per cent from the corresponding week a year ago. This was the twenty-eight successive week that the clearings dropped below the corresponding period of the preceding year.

New York's total shrank to $2,654,266,000 from $3,122,596,000 a year ago, a loss of 15 per cent. Chicago clearings were down 11.9 per cent. Turnover for the twenty-one cities outside of New York amounted to $1,781,591,000, or 17.6 per cent less than the $2,161,545,000 for the corresponding 1937 week.

STEEL PRICES ARE DEFENDED BY TOM GIRDLER

'Can't Sell Lower on Present High Cost.'

New York, May 26.—(AP)—Tom M. Girdler, president of the American Iron and Steel institute, said today the price of steel has not declined in recent months "simply because each producer knows his prices cannot come down in the face of present costs."

Addressing the institute's annual meeting, Girdler, who is chairman of the Republic Steel corporation, declared:

"Unfortunately, the problem of adequate profits is one that the [steel] industry is finding ever more difficult to solve. That is true not only in bad times, but in better times as well. The reason is not hard to discover. It lies in the fact that costs have climbed up to the roof, and, it seems, have frozen there.

Replies to Criticisms.

"Notwithstanding that fact, the industry is under recurring political attack because of so-called inflexible prices. Some critics, most of them pseudo-economists, with only a superficial knowledge, if any, of the realities of the steel industry, are fond of pointing to the prices of agricultural and certain other products on the one hand and the prices of steel on the other as evidence that this industry, by monopolistic methods, is able to

Excerpts from THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

July 1, 1863—

"TUESDAY EVENING, June 30 — The First National Bank of Chicago goes into operation tomorrow. July 1. E. Aiken, Esquire, President, and E. G. Braisted, late of the Loan & Trust Company, Cashier. The stockholders are among our most active and substantial business men, representing our merchants, lumber, produce and stock dealers, with a number of our leading capitalists. The bank opens with a cash capital of a quarter of a million of dollars, and a further increase will be added, as the wants of the business public shall require. The President has long been known to the business community as one of our most active and prudent bankers, and the stockholders and the public are fortunate in the selection of a gentleman for so important a position, who so thoroughly understands the business of the city. The bank will open at the former office of the President, No. 22 LaSalle Street, immediately north of Coolbaugh & Co.'s Bank, northwest corner of Lake."

October 1, 1863—

"The first quarterly report of The First National Bank of Chicago will be found in our advertising columns this morning. The amount of business already secured is an estimate of the popularity these banks are sure to acquire. Their condition sworn to by the officers are published every quarter so that the public are constantly informed of their business and responsibility. The circulation for these banks will be ready some time in October and based on the stories of the Government they will at once inspire and give them the preference among the people over all other currency, 'green backs' perhaps alone excepted. They will at once take the place of the miscellaneous currency now in circulation in the West."

January 11, 1864—

"Amid the stringency for currency, it may afford a grain of comfort to know that a portion of the bills of the First National Bank arrived this morning. * * * The National currency is beautiful in all respect, and good as it is beautiful. Our people, we presume, will, in a very few days each have one or more of these bills in their pockets. They will be good to put under one's pillow and go to sleep on. No danger of these bills being worthless until the whole nation becomes bankrupt."

Stocks, Bonds

New York Bonds.

New York, May 26.—(AP)—Utilities held firm in a selling wave that developed in the bond market today, chiefly affecting rails, but also lowering industrial, foreign, and low yield divisions, according to Associated Press averages.

United States governments were mixed, showing changes in the treasuries from a 4-32 of a point decline to increases of the same amount.

Some liens were hard hit. Toledo and Ohio Central 3¾s dropped 11 points to 85. I. R. T. refunding 5s dipped 9¼ points to 47¾. International Telephone 5s slipped 3¾ to 59¾, and the 4½s fell 2¾ to 56¾.

Losers of two points or more included: Chicago and Western Indiana 4s, Baltimore and Ohio first 5s, and Louisville and Nashville first 4s.

Chicago Stocks.

Moderate selling pressure again forced stocks lower yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Most price changes were small, but final quotations were around lowest levels of the day.

Seventy-nine issues were traded, of which 54 declined, 8 advanced, and 17 closed unchanged. THE TRIBUNE average of 20 stocks closed 7.99, off 0.14, and at the lowest level since April 4. Sales totaled 18,000 shares, compared with 17,000 Wednesday.

Central and Southwest Utilities, most active issue, closed unchanged. Fractional losses were recorded by Commonwealth Edison, Middle West, Marshall Field, Zenith Radio, and Butler Brothers common. Bendix Aviation, Chicago corporation preferred, Abbott Laboratories, and Lion Oil declined a point or more.

Bank Stocks.

First National Bank stock declined $4 a share yesterday to $169 a share bid, $174 asked. Continental Illinois National also declined $1 a share to $55.50 bid, $56.50 asked. Other Chicago bank stocks were unchanged.

COTTON

Cotton futures dropped sharply in American markets yesterday. Losses amounted to more than $1 a bale at one time, and new 1938 lows were reached. Moderate early strength, as the result of short covering and announcement that the government will open bids June 6 on 57,705,000 yards of textiles for the WPA, was short lived. Liquidation uncovered stop loss orders, and the decline was not checked until the July delivery at New York sold at 8 cents a pound.

A moderate rally toward the close on short covering and trade buying lifted prices somewhat above the day's low, but closing trades on the Chicago Board of Trade were at net losses of .12 to .17 cent a pound. Other American markets were .11 to .17 cent a pound lower.

Spot cotton closed .10 to .15 cent lower, with New Orleans, 8.25 cents; New York, 8.05 cents; Houston, 8.10 cents, and Galveston, 8 cents a pound. Prices follow:

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Hogs declined mostly 5 to 10 cents yesterday, wtih some off 15 cents, and some cuts of fresh pork sold as much as 50 cents per hundred pounds lower. Consumer resistance to pork prices has been growing in the last few days, packers reported. Wholesale markets for fresh pork yesterday were 50 cents to $1 under last week's close, with the trade stagnant at most distributing points.

Weakness in the wholesale beef markets was reflected in restricted buying of cattle and efforts of packers to hold down live costs by staying in the cheaper grades of stock as much as possible. Better grades met an undependable trade at barely steady rates. Lower priced steers and butcher stock sold strong, and in spots slightly higher.

Better action developed in the trade for ovine stock at fully steady prices.

REFEREE FILES HEARING REPORT ON INSULL FEES

Deals with Affairs of Two Investment Units.

Garfield Charles, special referee in bankruptcy, yesterday submitted to Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson a 1,000 page report and transcript of testimony taken on the fee applications filed in the bankruptcy cases of the Insull investment companies.

Garfield Charles.

The report is based on extended hearings conducted by Charles on the work of receivers, trustees, attorneys, and security holders' committees in recovering nearly $5,000,000 for the unsecured creditors of the companies from the New York and Chicago banks. The report deals chiefly with the affairs of Corporation Securities company of Chicago, but also takes up the Insull Utility Investments, Inc., negotiations. A supplemental report on Insull Utility is expected to be filed by Charles.

Tells of Purchase from Eaton.

Much of the report is based on testimony given by Carroll J. Lord, attorney for Sam Howard, trustee in bankruptcy for Corporation Securities.

The story of Samuel Insull's costly purchase from Cyrus Eaton, Cleveland financier, of $56,000,000 of securities in the Insull companies is related in the document. It was this purchase, made at highly inflated prices, that was one of the primary causes of the Insull failure, it said.

Discussing the recovery of money from the bank creditors of the company for distribution to the unsecured creditors, Referee Charles said:

"The record which I am transmitting shows that this was a complicated matter, and necessarily a great amount of resourcefulness had to be resorted to, and the attorneys who have filed petitions herein displayed keen legal, financial, and accounting knowledge in connection with litigations against the New York and Chicago banks and exercised skill in negotiations which culminated in bringing into this estate the sum of $1,200,000 for the benefit of noteholders of Corporation Securities Company of Chicago."

Condemns Insull Practices.

Acting on instructions from Judge Wilkerson, Charles did not make specific recommendations for fees to be granted to the various applicants. He was ordered by the court to take evidence and evaluate the length of time and quality of work performed by the applicants.

The part of the report dealing with Lord's testimony contained sharp condemnation of the financial practices indulged in by Insull before the collapse of his empire.

Lord was quoted by Charles as follows:

"I have conceived from the very exhaustive investigation that I have made of the affairs of Middle West Utilities that its earnings for a period of 10 years were faked by Mr. Insull and that he knew it, and that in the spring of 1929 he hit upon a plan of refinancing Middle West by the sale of $10,000,000 worth of common stock . . . by means of that money cut the preferred stock, retire a bond issue of $20,000,000 and place all his common stock on a stock dividend instead of a cash dividend basis."

Tells of Big Financing.

Lord then related how Insull's desperate efforts to put his companies into position to withstand financial collapse led to the immense financing operations by the two investment companies. Between Aug. 1, 1928 and Sept. 10, 1930, Insull and his associates succeeded in selling 650 million dollars of securities to the public, principally securities of Middle West Lord said.

Part of the vast financing operation, Lord said, was the artificial bidding up of the price of Middle West stock.

Profit for a Nation.

Profit usually is considered from a personal angle, from the viewpoint of a corporation or as it affects one or more of the factors of production. Seldom do we think of profit for a nation or for the world.

The one way in which a nation or the world can profit is by obtaining a greater number of different commodities and an increased supply of them. More money, be it gold, paper, or wooden nickels, does not increase the wealth of a nation. Money of any kind is valuable only in that it has the power to purchase commodities or comforts which the purchaser can use. Destroy its purchasing power and it is worthless except as it may contain some value in itself as a commodity.

Living standards represent the true wealth of a nation, and can be raised only by making available to its people more of the necessities and luxuries which they desire.

JESSE JONES ADMITS RAILS' PROBLEM IS HARD NUT TO CRACK

Washington, D. C., May 26.—(AP)—Jesse H. Jones, Reconstruction Finance corporation chairman, discussed with President Roosevelt today the "advisability" of trying to get some kind of railroad aid legislation through this session. Apparently no decision was reached.

"Obviously something is needed," Jones said. "We could study the problem for twenty years and we would not know much more about it than we do now."

Asked about prospects for even "minor" legislation before adjournment, he said it depended on the nature of the measure.

MORE RAILWAYS SHOW EARNINGS BELOW YEAR AGO

April Better than March for a Few.

Sharply lower April earnings were shown yesterday in additional reports by American railroads as compared with April, 1937, but a few roads reported moderate upturns in April from the earlier months this year.

Both the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe and the Baltimore and Ohio railroads were among those having better April earnings than in the first quarter of the year. The Santa Fe reported April gross operating revenues of $10,861,480 and net operating income of $190,733, compared with gross of $13,518,249 and net operating income of $908,596 in April, 1937. For the first four months of this year, however, the road had a net operating deficit of $2,458,447, against net operating income of $4,747,126 in the 1937 period.

Baltimore-Ohio Earnings.

The B. & O. had April gross revenues from operations of $10,054,899 and net operating income of $494,685, compared with gross of $15,086,048 and net operating income of $2,426,767 in April, 1937. The April improvement, however, wiped out an operating deficit for the first quarter, leaving net operating income for the first four months of the year of $291,747 compared with net operating income of $9,488,721 in the first four months of 1937.

Several western roads reported poorer results for April as compared with a year ago and for the first four months of 1938 compared with the similar period in 1937. These included the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, the Chicago and North Western, the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, and Pacific, and the Great Northern.

WORK AND WAGES REVEAL UNUSUAL SLUMP IN APRIL

Contrary to the usual spring trend, the volume of employment and pay rolls of industries in the seventh [Chicago] federal reserve district contracted sharply in April, according to George J. Schaller, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago.

Schaller said yesterday that April averages for the years 1928 to 1937 show an almost stationary employment volume and a 1.5 per cent increase in pay rolls, compared with the March averages. However, in 14 industries which reported last month, employment volume dipped 2.6 per cent and pay rolls fell 1.5 per cent in comparison with the previous month.

April employment in all reporting industries was 25 per cent and pay rolls 35 per cent below those of April, 1937, he added, whereas in March, employment was only 20 per cent and pay rolls only 30 per cent lower than a year ago.

Libbey-Owens Recalls 400 at Its Toledo Plant

Four hundred employés of the Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass company have been recalled for work at the Toledo plant, beginning June 1, it was announced yesterday. Officials said shortages in some stock had developed in recent weeks and that immediate operations will be devoted to balancing of stocks on hand.

ANACONDA AND 3 MORE COMPANIES OMIT DIVIDENDS

Two Cut Their Payments; Many Vote 'Regulars.'

The Anaconda Copper Mining company and three other corporations omitted dividends yesterday, and dividend reductions were made by Gillette Safety Razor and United Carbon company. A long list of other companies ordered payments at rates previously in force. These included American Home Products, National Cash Register, Commercial Credit, Parke Davis, Liquid Carbonic, and Union Pacific.

The omission by Anaconda comes after a cut to 25 cents a share on March 28. The company paid $1.75 a share during 1937, dividends of 50 cents each being distributed in the last three quarters of the year. Greene Cannea Copper company, a Mexican subsidiary of Anaconda, declared its usual 75 cent quarterly dividend.

Three Other Omissions.

Other dividend omissions included that on the common stock of General Railway Signal company which has been paying 25 cents quarterly. Eagle Picher Lead directors failed to act on a dividend due at this time. The company paid 10 cents April 1 and 40 cents last year. Both companies ordered usual preferred dividends. The other dividend omission was by Babcock & Wilcox, which paid 25 cents April 1.

After hearing a report on business conditions from President Robert H. Cabell, directors of Armour & Co. declared the usual Delaware preferred stock dividend and duplicated their decision of three months ago to defer action on Armour of Illinois preferred and common dividends. Cabell said May business showed some improvement over preceding months and that the June outlook is encouraging.

STEEL PRICES ARE DEFENDED BY TOM GIRDLER

'Can't Sell Lower, Due to Present High Costs.'

manage prices and repeal the law of supply and demand.

"Why, they ask, have steel prices not declined with falling demand, as prices of various other products have?

'The answer to that is clear. It is simply that the immediate out of pocket cost of making steel is so large a proportion of its value that it is impossible for the producer who wants to survive to reduce his price materially unless the price of his labor, materials, and other important elements of costs fall correspondingly.

Prices and Demand.

"To avoid bankruptcy, it is absolutely necessary for steel companies to reduce output when demand declines; and experience has proven time and time again that price reductions for steel in times of fallen demand do not stimulate buying.

"By what standard can it be said that present steel prices are too high? Certainly they are not too high relative to costs. Certainly they are not so high as to result in excessive or even large profits. The record on that point is complete. I will only point out here that, had prices been 10 per cent lower than they were in 1937, the industry's biggest year in production except for 1928 and 1929, the industry's profit last year would have been entirely wiped out."

The highest single factor of costs in the steel industry, Girdler said, is that of wages.

Wages Up More Than Prices.

"Wages in the industry were increased in November, 1936, and again in March, 1937," he said. "These two increases amounted approximately to 31 per cent. They brought the hourly earnings of steel wage earners to the highest level in the history of the country. The wage rate today is 25 per cent over the average of 1929.

"During the period that wages were going up 31 per cent, prices went up only about 20 per cent. And prices today are only 13 per cent over the 1929 level. Compared with the bottom of the depression in 1933, hourly wages in the steel industry are 56 per cent higher, while prices are but 34 per cent higher.

"Wages constitute an important factor in steel costs, but after all they are only one of the factors, most of which have climbed steadily in recent years. The tax situation in the steel industry illustrates with powerful force what has been happening to all industry. In 1937, with net profits nearly 50 per cent lower than in 1929, on a production almost as large, the industry's tax bill was 65 per cent higher."

Weir Answers Jackson.

E. T. Weir, chairman of the National Steel corporation and a vice president of the institute, assailed those "self-appointed critics" of the steel industry who "speak with an unrestraint possible only to those who are completely unhampered by knowledge of the facts," and mentioned Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson by name.

"All American industry," said Weir, a frequent critic and opponent of the administration's legislation, "has distinctly failed to sell itself and thus has neglected to give the people of our country opportunity for a proper understanding of the fundamentals on which industry must operate. This, in my opinion, is more responsible than anything else for the fact that a large measure of public support can be won for so many crackpot plans to regulate and control industry."

Weir said "those who would tear down are more adroit than those who would build up in using the most effective tools at hand to win their ends."

Urges Middle Course.

At the night session Hugh S. Johnson, former NRA administrator, said the United States is a "middle-of-the-road" country and "it doesn't want to go off the deep end to the left with Mr. Roosevelt's janissaries any more than it wants to go deepward to the right with anybody in industry."

Business and industry, Johnson said, "haven't any choice at all of going back to unregulated economic freedom under futile anti-trust laws. It can't be done. The change of popular opinion in this country toward governmental regulation has followed a great surge of popular opinion everywhere. The best you can expect is regulated freedom—like all the rest of the folks."

To industry, in general, Johnson urged the acceptance of a "middle course" and said it should take collective bargaining as a genuine representative of American sentiment.

Girdler was reëlected president. Other officers reëlected were William Irvin, vice president; E. T. Weir, vice president; H. L. Hughes, treasurer, and W. S. Tower, executive secretary.

GRAINS RECOVER AFTER SLUMP TO NEW 1938 LOWS

New Crop Wheat Futures Make Slight Gain.

CHICAGO GRAIN FUTURES

Closing prices on the July delivery of principal grains on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday:

	Yesterday.	Wednesday.	Yr. ago.
Wheat	$ .72⅞	$ .72½	$1.18¼
Corn	.56⅝	.56⅝	1.25⅜
Oats	.26⅝	.26⅜	.46⅜
Rye	.54¼	.54	1.07½
Soy beans	.88½	.88¾	1.67¾

Grain futures based on the 1938 crops sold at the lowest prices quoted this year on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday and then recovered late in the trading session to close above the preceding day's final prices. July and September wheat contracts were selling fractions of a cent above Wednesday's prices when the market closed.

The abrupt recovery that followed the early sharp slump in prices was based, it was reported, on indications that the prospective AAA crop loans will support a higher level of wheat prices than now prevails in the market.

Early Prices Set 1938 Lows.

The early slump carried all future deliveries of wheat, corn, and rye, and the July and September contracts of soy beans to the lowest figures that have been posted in the market this year. At the close July wheat was ⅜ cent higher at 72⅞ cents a bushel. July corn ended at 56⅝ cents, unchanged from Wednesday and July oats and rye were ¼ cent a bushel higher compared with the preceding day.

The day's news on crops was favorable. Fair weather was reported to have permitted resumption of corn planting over a wide area after the delay encountered recently because of wet weather.

Rapid progress of wheat harvesting operations was reported from the north central Texas region. The first cars of the new wheat are being shipped to country elevators. Yields reported from the area ranged from 5 to 25 bushels an acre.

End Trading in May Wheat.

Trading in May wheat, the only remaining old crop contract, expired yesterday. The price declined sharply in common with all contracts and did not recover fully with the late rally in the market. The final quotation on May wheat was 72⅞ cents a bushel, off ¾ cent from Wednesday. At the lowest point of the day the contract showed a loss of 1¾ cents.

On the Winnipeg market the expiring May contract dropped 5 cents a bushel, the maximum decline permitted in one day under the exchange rules.

Heavy short covering contributed to the quick recovery in the market late in the day, brokers said.
